Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Feb. 24. [To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. Hoover not only fed the Republican Senators and Representatives this morning, but along with their ham and eggs they received the following iron in their food: "You Republicans want to get it out of your head that you are in here for life. The country is slowly getting on to you. After November 1 can easily take half a dozen leafs out of this breakfast table. Now go back to your office and have your stenographer compile you a list of ex-Senators and ex-Representatives who are still living, you would be surprised, G-e-n-t-l-e-m-e-n."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P.S.—Poor little wind-tossed Mabel Normand died. She had given the world much laughter, and strangers and friends much financial aid. I hope no one writes of her, only the ones that had met and known her. Her last press notices would all be beautiful.

Wurzbach Case Decision Given

Congressmen Held Liable in Taking Contributions from Officeholders

Finding of Highest Tribunal Will Reopen Indictment in Texas Primary

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Members of Congress were declared by the Supreme Court today to be liable to prosecution under the Corrupt Practices Act when they accept money from officeholders in their primary campaigns.

The question reached the highest tribunal in an appeal by the government after it had failed in the western district of Texas in proceedings against Representative Wurzbach, Republican, of that State. He had been indicted for accepting contributions from officeholders in his primary campaign for renomination. Representative Wurzbach recently was awarded a seat in the House as a result of a contest with his Democratic opponent, August McCloskey.

The effect of the decision today will be to force the Texas Congressman to go to trial on the indictment which had been dismissed by the Federal District Court.

The opinion was written by Jus... The opinion was written by Justice Holmes and no dissent was announced. It states that "Congress may provide that its officers and employees neither shall exercise nor be subject to pressure for money for political purposes, upon or by others of their kind, while they retain their office or employment. Neither the Constitution nor the nature of the abuse to be checked requires us to confine the all-embracing words of the act to political purposes within the control of the United States."

Following this line of reasoning, the court held that while Congress does not have jurisdiction over primaries, it has authority to prohibit its members from accepting contributions for "any political purposes whatever," and thus may reach contributions of all kinds.

Missouri's Democratic Leader Accused of Getting $6,000,000 by Fraud

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—Charges that William T. Kemper of Kansas City, Mo., Democratic national committeeman for Missouri, used his post as ... receiver of the bankrupt R... Company, Mexico and Orient ... Company, to profit by more than $6,000,000, at the expense of security holders, were brought to light today in Federal court.

The charges were revealed by the filing of a motion on behalf of Congressman George H. Tinkham of Boston and his two sisters for the right to intervene as plaintiffs in a suit against Kemper brought in the court a year ago by Dr. James C. Ayer, a New York physician, and others.

The complaint charged that Kemper withheld knowledge of the pending sale of the railroad and of its general improved financial condition, and bought up the two year 6 per cent gold notes—the road's only security issue, which was defaulted in April, 1916—for 10 to 25 cents on the dollar.

Then, it was charged, Kemper sold these securities, and with them control of the Orient system, to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system.

JOHN D. IN OIL HARNESS ONCE MORE

New York Paper Says He Has Taken Initiative in Standard Policies

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune tomorrow will publish a report that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who has remained in the background of the petroleum industry for many years, has again taken the initiative in dictating oil policies.

It was Rockefeller, now in his ninety-first year, who directed Standard interests to order a cut in the price of Texas and Mid-Continent crude oil without notice to competition companies, the newspaper has learned from a trustworthy authority.

The same authority said the hand of the elder Rockefeller was evident in the proposed consolidation and regrouping of Standard and former Standard units, as illustrated by the acquisition of Anglo-American Oil Company, Ltd., by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the proposed merger of Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company.

Mr. Rockefeller, it was pointed out, has a single interest at heart in the business field—the welfare of the great Standard organization which he and his associates built from an initial invested capital of $4000.

Mahan made the jump yesterday in an effort to regain his hearing, which he lost when he was 8 months of age. Only the pilot parachute opened as he dropped from a plane piloted by Col. Harry Abbott, Berkeley aviator.

Mouton said today that had Mahan worn two parachutes the accident probably would not have happened.

DOMINICAN SITUATION CONFUSED

Opponents of President's Design for Re-election Create Disturbances

SANTO DOMINGO (Dominican Republic) Feb. 24. (AP)—The political situation in the Dominican Republic was extremely confused tonight, with disaffection reported in the northern part of the country and President Vasques withdrawn within the walls of the Santo Domingo fortress.

An opposition movement today forced the resignation of the Vice-President, Dr. Alfonseca, and despite the government's efforts to pacify it, caused trouble beyond the Sierra De Cibo, the mountain range dividing the northern and southern sections of the island republic.

In addition to the towns of Santiago Moca, La Vega and Puerto Plata, where some disturbances occurred last night, the town of Monte Cristi, a community of about 4000 inhabitants, was reported to have joined the opposition.

The opposition has opposed the design of President Vasques to seek re-election on May 15, next.

HOOVER WARNS CONGRESS TO GUARD PURSE STRINGS

White House Conference Told That Pending Appropriation Measures Threaten Taxation Increase

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—President Hoover called Congressional leaders to the White House today and warned them that the national finances will not permit appropriations in excess of $50,000,000 above the budget total of $3,802,445,231 without a material increase in taxation. He listed appropriation bills pending which total $1,735,000,000, and informed the leaders that enactment of such a program would mean boosting the tax bill 40 per cent.

There appears little possibility of such a raid on the Treasury, and the President was so given to understand. At every session scores of bills calling for expenditures of every description are introduced with small prospect that any save a few will ever get anywhere beyond a committee pigeonhole.

HEALTHFUL SUGGESTION

This Congress is no exception to the rule and leaders of the House and Senate assert that a majority of the items listed by the White House will, in the natural course of things, never receive serious consideration.

Nevertheless, these proposals represent organized and in many cases powerful demands and the warning sounded by the President was regarded by administration followers to be a healthful and, at this particular time, necessary thing.

The President placed the figures of appropriation bills before Republican leaders at a breakfast conference attended by Secretary Mellon, Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills, Budget Director Roop, Senators Watson, McNary and Smoot and Representatives Tilson, Snell and Hawley. This list embraced the more important leaders with the exception of Speaker Longworth, who was out of town this morning, but got back in time to have lunch with the President.

PROGRAM NOT CUT

Mr. Hoover impressed upon his guests that the present Federal income is approximately $4,000,000,000 and that such an outlay as is contemplated in all the appropriation bills pending would precipitate a serious financial crisis. It was the President's purpose to advise the Senate not to add to appropriation bills, and to urge the House, which originates all such legislation, to adhere strictly to budget limitations.

The administration demand for careful spending will not interfere with the annual appropriation measures now on their way through Congress and already provided for in the estimates of receipts. It was emphasized that the program mapped out by the budget can be financed, including the $160,000,000 reduction in income taxes approved by Congress. But care must be taken not to push the limits of appropriations much beyond the estimates upon which the budget was constructed. Likewise it was made clear there is no disposition to block or delay pension appropriations for war veterans and dependents, because this also has been considered in connection with budget figures.

POTENTIAL DANGER

While his action was widely approved there was some speculation as to why the President felt it necessary to utter such a warning, in view of the fact Congress is accustomed to unreasonable demands and that, as stated before, the vast majority of them receive scant attention. It was explained at the White House that the President wished to impress upon the leaders the necessity for economy, and to summarise for them the situation that will develop in the Treasury if careful scrutiny is not exercised at the Capitol. It was his idea simply that a potentially dangerous condition exists and that a stitch in time might perhaps save a lot of grief later on. Perhaps he is not so sure as some of what Congress might do, in view of the way it has lost its head on the tariff and other matters.

Following the breakfast at the White House Walter Newton, one of the President's secretaries, issued the following statement dealing with the discussion:

WHITE HOUSE STATEMENT

"The director of the budget, under instructions of the President, has

OATH TAKEN BY HUGHES

Court Gets New Chief Justice

Grief Over Taft's Condition Voiced by Holmes as He Inducts His Leader

Simple Ceremonies Suffice to Transfer Highest Office in Judicial Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Charles Evans Hughes ascended to the Chief Justiceship of the United States today in an atmosphere in which there was mingled gladness for his coming and sadness for the serious illness of his predecessor, William Howard Taft.

A simple oath of office administered in the dignified chamber of the court made him the eleventh in the historic succession of Chief Justices since John Jay, in 1789. As was the first Chief Justice, Mr. Hughes is from New York.

Unperturbed by the realisation that he was about to reach the pinnacle post of his distinguished career, he entered the cozy room where the justices put on their robes to sit on the bench a few minutes before the usual noon meeting hour. There his associates greeted him warmly.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

The justices stood informally around the table where they lunch each day the court is in session, while the venerable Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes administered the oath of allegiance to the Constitution. Mr. Holmes's voice quavered slightly. He will be 89 years of age next month and is the oldest member of the court, having become a member in 1902. Thus he remembered the time before that Mr. Hughes took that oath, for his service on the court from 1910 to 1916.

After the brief ceremony, the court formed in line with its marshal at the head and Mr. Hughes at the end. Crossing the corridor slowly, while onlookers watched in silence, the procession entered the courtroom to the announcement of its approach by the crier.

The traditional repetition of "Oyez, oyez" rang throughout the chamber, while the justices were taking their chairs high on the bench. Mr. Hughes had remained beside the clerk's desk, while that individual was vocally notifying all who had business with the court to draw nigh and give their attention.

GRIEF OVER TAFT

A moment more and the eight justices were seated. Stillness pervaded the chamber after the watchers had sat down, too. Thereupon Justice Holmes announced falteringly and with effort the resignation of William Howard Taft, who for the past nine years had been Chief Justice and now is at his home here afflicted with illness. Mr. Holmes expressed his grief that Mr. Taft should have been compelled to relinquish his responsibilities. He spoke but few words and his emotion brought tears to the eyes of many present, but his pleasant eyes brightened a little in adding, "we are happy to know that in his place

MARRIAGE BY CONTRACT HIT

Colorado High Court Denounces Pact and Upholds Woman's Right to Widow's Share of Estate

DENVER, Feb. 24. (AP)—The State Supreme Court today rapped marriage by contract. Contract marriage, said the court, is "nothing more, in effect, than legalized prostitution under the name of marriage." The opinion, written by Chief Justice Whitford, verbally chastises a former Denver doctor, Charles M. Duncan, deceased, for "legal prostitution at a price of $100 a year."

Duncan entered into an asserted contract with his third wife, the record sets forth, by which they could separate and be divorced by mutual consent with payment to Mrs. Duncan of $100 a year for each year they were married. Less than a year after the marriage they separated and Mrs. Duncan gave a receipt for $110. Subsequent to that Duncan died and she brought suit against the administrator of the estate for a widow's portion.

"The antenuptial contract," said the court, "was a wicked device to evade the laws applicable to marriage relations, property rights and divorces, and is clearly against public decency and policy. The wife under its terms was made a base hireling. The man could enjoy her companionship, under its covenant, for a single night, and then discard her. The contract is utterly void. The marriage relation lies at the foundation of our civilization."

Denied a widow's share of the estate in the Denver County Court, Mrs. Duncan received it in the District Court and the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment.

HOOVER SCHOOL LAUNCHED

Twenty Eager Children Report for Opening of Classes Near Summer Camp of President

DARK HOLLOW (Va.) Feb. 24. (AP)—Book learning came to Dark Hollow today to join mountain lore.

The opening of the community school sponsored by President Hoover brought twenty eager children and many parents trudging up the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. The youngsters were to begin the magic trail of the printed word, and they came early with wonder-filled eyes.

The modern little school is perched high on Stony Hills, hard by the summer camp of President Hoover. First to arrive here was 12-year-old Ray Burraker, who last summer drew the attention of the Executive to the need for a school in the section.

Then Ray brushed through the tangled growth about the camp to bring a possum to the President. This time Ray came to hoist Old Glory high on the school flagpole before the sun soared over Double Top Mountain.

He was so excited that he was not able to sleep last night and, breakfastless, led the procession, all of whom came early. The honor of lowering the flag this afternoon fell to Ray's 9-year-old brother, George Harold.

Ray was the best groomed of the boys and eleven girls, whose ages ranged between 5 and 15 years.

George Harold, red-sweatered and hair singed from helping burn trash on the ground, did not let his brother have all the limelight. Friendly and with a trousers pocket fat with a can of tobacco, he was high in his praise of the radio Mr. Hoover has installed in the schoolhouse.

There were twelve Burrakers at the opening, eight of whom were pupils. Grandfather Burraker, 80, a gray-bearded patriarch, and Grandma Burraker, 72, wearing a blue bonnet and a black suit, walked two miles to arrive bright and early. Possibility of saying "a few words" with President Hoover brought out grandpa, and grandma said she came because she had eight grandchildren there. Neither had been in a schoolhouse before.

CHOOSING DENTIFRICE STRICTLY PERSONAL

Many people struggling to find the right tooth paste ask, "Will PEBECO work for me?" The answer isn't simply, "We believe it will." The answer is more! PEBECO is scientifically designed to clean effectively, to whiten without abrasion and to stimulate the flow from the salivary glands,—the flow which checks the destructive mouth acids. And it does! So when you ask that question the confident answer is, "We KNOW it will." Just give it the chance.—Adv't.

HOOVER WARNS OF TAX ADVANCE

Congress Leaders Told to Guard Purse

Survey of Proposals Shows Huge Totals

prepared a survey of the various projects which have been presented to Congress and the administration, which will involve added expenditures beyond the present authorizations and beyond the present budget.

"These demands are being made upon Congress and the administration from different sections of the country and from different interested groups. The amounts below are a summary of these projects and are given in the amount of additional expenditure that would be imposed upon the Federal budget during the first year of their operation. These are not the totals projected, which are very much larger, but simply the annual addition to the budget. Many of the items would be permanent and increasing annually:

LIST OF PROJECTS

"Public roads $350,000,000.
"Rivers and harbors $35,000,000.
"Compensation to property owners for rights of way in flood control $100,000,000.
"Loans to levee districts, $100,000,000.
"Protection to forests, $10,000,000.
"Eradication of pests, $30,000,000.
"Expansion of agricultural services, $20,000,000.
"Scientific research, $5,000,000.
"Development of Columbia River, $45,000,000.
"Reclamation service, $100,000,000.
"National parks and memorials, $50,000,000.
"Indian service, $5,000,000.
"Naval construction, $50,000,000.
"Military aviation, $25,000,000.
"Increased army and navy pay, $80,000,000.
"Army-navy hospitals, barracks and posts, $15,000,000.
"Employment services, $5,000,000.
"Disaster relief, $15,000,000.
"Increase in Spanish War Veterans' service, $45,000,000.
"Increase in Civil War veterans' service, $40,000,000.
"Increase in World War veterans' service, $400,000,000.
"Increased civil service pensions, $20,000,000.
"Increase in civil service pay, $100,000,000.
"Education, $100,000,000.
"Total, $1,725,000,000.

OTHER PROPOSALS

"The present Federal income is approximately $4,000,000,000 per annum and such a program would imply an increase in taxes of 40 per cent.

"In addition to the above list other projects are being urged, but are not regarded as imminent, which would impose a further expenditure of fully $1,500,000,000 per annum."

After his lunch with the President, Speaker Longworth said the President merely had sounded a warning to Congress and the country on the necessity for careful spending.

"This is just a warning," he said, "of what will happen if Congress yields to all the demands made upon it. It is just a statement of the financial situation of the government. We are not in serious financial trouble and we don't want to be."

Mr. Longworth said there is no idea of repealing any appropriations already authorized or included in the regular Congressional program, but that the purse strings will be drawn tight against new proposals.

TARIFF VIEW INDICATED

There was merely an incidental discussion of the tariff between the two, the speaker said, and while he did not want to commit the President, he indicated that he personally leaned somewhat toward the lower rates being written into the bill in the Senate. "I think the House went too far," he said. "I had hoped the bill would be more limited in scope, but I have been associated with enough tariff bills in the last twenty years to know that what happened was inevitable."

The House has passed and sent to the Senate seven appropriation bills. It has three more to pass, along with a probable second deficiency bill. None of these bills have been taken up by the Senate because of the jam caused by the tariff delay, a fact which caused the President to warn last week that if funds carried in certain of the supply measures are not forthcoming in the near future, it might be necessary for the government to lay off from 10,000 to 20,000 workers.

ECONOMY PROMISED

After the White House conference, House leader Tilson said every bill will be carefully scanned and economy will be the rigid rule in his branch. Senator Watson, the Senate leader, promised every effort will be made to keep appropriations down in the Senate. Senator Smoot, chairman of finance, echoed the President's statement that if the budget is over-ridden, increased taxation will be the inevitable result. The general consensus is that the President's action in bringing the possible appropriation figures sharply to the attention of the country and Congress will have a wholesome effect.

Representative Garner of Texas, the House Democratic leader, on the other hand, said today's conference was "a move to divert the attention of the public from the chaotic economic and unemployment conditions brought on by lack of leadership of the President."

Speaking of the conference in the Senate, Senator Glass, Virginia, a former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury commented that "the whole thing is bunk and they know it is bunk."

Another Democrat of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Senator McKellar of Tennessee, referred to the conference as "all poppycock."

DUCHESS PLANE VICTIM

NAPLES, Feb. 24. (AP)—The Duchess Flammetta Carafa D'Andra, with the pilot, Castaldo, died today in a hospital here after a crash in the plane RO-5 at Capo Dichino Airdrome. They were flying at a height of about 140 feet when the plane went into a spin.

Army on Guard as Prince and Wife Part

Principals in Dynastic Crisis

Here are Princess Charlotte and Prince Pierre with their two children, as they appeared six years ago.

MONTE CARLO (Monaco) Feb. 24. (AP)—The entire Monacan army, eighty strong, was kept mobilized today following the stir caused by the marital difference between Prince Pierre and his wife, Princess Charlotte, but no disturbances were reported.

The Prince appears to be a favorite with the population. A mass meeting of voters instructed Mayor Eugene Marquet to convey to the Prince their regret at his departure and "to express the real sentiments of the population in this crisis the dynasty is traversing."

Both the Prince and Princess previously had filed suits for separation with the Monacan Council, the majority of which resigned rather than sit in the case.

Neither party intends to sue for divorce as each is Catholic, but have said they will seek annulment of the marriage once separation is ruled by the courts.

They were married in 1920. Princess Charlotte is a daughter of Prince Louis, ruler of the principality.

MEETING FAILS TO BRING RECONCILIATION

CAPE MARTIN (France) Feb. 24. (AP)—Prince Pierre and Princess Charlotte of Monaco met here today at the home of the Duchess of Dendome where they had come to visit their daughter. They reviewed their difficulties nearly an hour and separated, reports say, without reconciliation.

Princess Charlotte is understood to have insisted on pursuing her separation suit filed in Nice yesterday, while Prince Pierre elects to abide by the decision of the Monacan Council.

TAFT TOLD COURT'S REGRET

Letter of Justices on Retirement and Reply of Former Chief Made Public

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Correspondence made public today showed that the associate justices of the Supreme Court, under date of the 10th inst., joined in a letter to William Howard Taft expressing regret over his retirement.

The letter read:

"We call you Chief Justice still for we cannot quickly give up the title by which we have known you for all these later years and which you have made so dear to us. We cannot let you leave us without trying to tell you how dear you have made it. You came to us from achievements in other fields and with the prestige of the illustrious place that you lately had held, and you showed in a new form your voluminous capacity for work and for getting work done, your humor that smoothed the rough places, your golden heart that has brought you love from every side, and, most of all, from your brethren whose task you have made happy and light. We grieve at your illness, but your spirit has given life an impulse that will abide whether you are with us or are away."

Under date of the 12th inst. a letter signed by Mr. Taft and addressed to "my dear brethren" was delivered to the justices. It read:

"I cannot adequately say how deeply I am touched by your affectionate letter. I regretted for many reasons the necessity of tendering my resignation, but none so strong as the ending of those pleasant associations with each and all of you, which, during the past nine years, have been so dear to me. Only the advice of my doctors and my own conviction that I would be unable to continue adequately the great work of the court, forced me to leave you. That work, in your hands, will go on as well without me, but I am grateful, nevertheless, for your words of appreciation."

CHILDREN FLOCK TO NEW SCHOOL

ward came with seven young Woodwards, two of whom were twins. The mother also carried a baby in her arms.

The girls were dressed in their best. Celia Burraker, 10, was the only one who wore a hat. An orange poke bonnet, it was gay with morning glories and blue ribbons.

Pretty little Virginia Burraker, not quite 6, happily shook her honey-colored curls when a visiter gave her a vanity case. Her deep brown eyes flashed belligerently when several older girls made offers for it.

All the boys, with the exception of Ray Burraker, wore overalls and heavy shoes. Enthusiasm for school rivaled their enthusiasm over their teacher, Miss Christine Vest of Yosemite, Ky., a graduate of Berea College.

Miss Vest made no effort to teach them today, saying she preferred to wait until their excitement subsided. She is expecting more pupils soon, with the probability of many older boys and girls enrolling.

KING GEORGE ABLE TO VISIT GALLERY

LONDON, Feb. 24. (AP)—King George left Buckingham Palace yesterday for the first time since his return to London on the 15th inst. He paid a private visit to the exhibition of Italian art at the Burlington House, accompanied by Queen Mary, Prince George, Princess Mary and Lady Patricia Ramsay.

HUGHES TAKES COURT POSITION

is to sit our old associate, Charles Evans Hughes."

The white-haired, patriarchal jurist then formally noted the presence of the new chief. He directed the clerk to read President Hoover's appointment of him, and to administer the judicial oath to him. First the commission was intoned.

GREATEST MOMENT

The greatest moment in Mr. Hughes's sixty-eight years had come. He looked straight forward, his shoulders stiffly back, as the associate justice rose. He repeated in measured tones the judicial oath, which is as follows:

"I do solemnly swear that I will administer justice without regard to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on me as Chief Justice of the United States according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the Constitution and laws of the United States; that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God."

Later he signed the document from which he read.

HE SMILES HAPPILY

With a happy smile, the new chief of the American judiciary stepped lightly to his place at the center of the bench and grasped the hands of Justices Holmes and Van Devanter, sitting on either side of him. He bowed to the other members of the court and to those in the courtroom before sitting down.

With that the business of the court was under way. The associate justices began announcing the opinions they had prepared during the recess.

CAN COMPANIES LOSE $2,700,000 TAX SUITS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The American Can Company was prohibited by the Supreme Court today from recovery from the Federal government of approximately $2,700,000 paid as income and excess profits taxes in 1917 by it and two subsidiaries, the Missouri Can and the Detroit Can Company.

ENFORCEMENT LIGHT SOUGHT

Mitchell and Hoover Group Scheduled for Quiz

Senate Committee Decides to Issue Summons

Closed-Door Hearing Seen as Likely, However

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The views which the Hoover Law-Enforcement Commission and Atty.-Gen. Mitchell hold on prohibition enforcement are to be heard by the Senate Judiciary Committee — but probably behind closed doors.

The committee agreed today, after sharp debate over the Norris resolution for an inquiry into the enforcement situation, to call in these officials two weeks from now to obtain their ideas. The delay in action on the Norris proposal for a Senate investigation is regarded by some of those favoring the inquiry as auguring its defeat.

BOTH SIDES EXPECTANT

Members of both sides are looking forward to the opportunity to examine Mitchell and the Law-Enforcement Commission on their knowledge of conditions surrounding enforcement of the dry law. There have been persistent reports at the Capitol that the Hoover commission is sharply divided over the prohibition issue and over the manner of enforcement. While the Judiciary Committee voted to hear the whole commission, it is likely that only Chairman Wickersham and perhaps one or two other members will be called in.

Arguing for his inquiry resolution before the committee, Chairman Norris reiterated his belief that there has been "too much politics in dry enforcement and it is up to the President to eliminate it."

ASHURST URGES CALL

Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, terminated the sharp committee discussion by moving to call in the administration officials. The suggestion was advanced that it will defer the prohibition row until the tariff bill is out of the way.

Prohibition later came in for discussion in the Senate, where Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, in a speech condemning the first year of the Hoover administration, asserted "the President has taken no steps to bring about better enforcement of the liquor laws."

UP-STATE GETS SNOW AND RAIN

sion and the Pacific Gas and Electric Company reported poles struck in the bay district.

O. E. Langford, foreman for a tractor company at Porterville, who was killed when his auto skidded off the highway and crashed into a tree, was reported to have been the victim of blinding rain.

SNOW IN SIERRAS

Light snows fell in the higher levels of the Sierras and at some spots in the coastal range but the depth at Norden, the Sierra summit, remained at 73 inches. Last year the depth there was fifty-five inches at this time and the normal is 110 inches. There were two inches of fresh snow at Redding and six inches at Mt. Shasta and Dunsmuir.

The north-bound air mail was entrained at Redding and south bound at Medford, Or.

The forecast is "unsettled" with rain probable north of the Tehachapi and additional snow in the mountains, but the Weather Bureau foresees a slight rise in temperatures. The dominating storm influence, according to Forecaster Thomas, is a widespread low-pressure area from Kodiak to the Oregon coast.

RAIN RECORD

Precipitation in inches reported by official northern stations at 5 p.m. was:

	Last 24 hrs.	Seasonal to date	Seasonal last year

IT SHOULD BE FAIR AND MILD HERE TODAY

The sun and wind made short work yesterday of cloudy weather and, it appeared to the Weather Bureau last night, the rainy spell of the last few days definitely is over. The forecast is for fair and mild weather Tuesday and Wednesday, with moderate northwest winds.

Yesterday was a 100 per cent sunshiny day, standing against the February normal of 57 per cent sunshine. The wind averaged 9.6 miles per hour, against a February normal of 5.4. Velocities outside the city, however, were somewhat higher.

The lowest temperature yesterday was 49 deg., against a February normal of 46; the maximum was 64, against a normal of 65.

No rain has been added since the last announced total season precipitation of 6.34 inches, which is 4.12 less than normal, and 1.67 less than the corresponding precipitation one year ago yesterday.

Following is the rainfall, in inches, reported from various Southland points at 6 p.m. yesterday:

BORDER PLACES TO KEEP GAMES

are not favorable to the adoption of the President's wish at this time.

For the time being the Federal government will be content with preventing the opening of any new gaming places, it is believed. The President's wishes were conveyed to the governors in the words "the Federal Executive expects that, conceding to this purpose the attention its importance merits, you will cooperate efficiently toward realizing it."

The President's order was accompanied by a statement in which it was explained that one of the objectives of the present administration is to implant a "general morality campaign tending to the defense of the collective interests of the republic."

Probably later, it was explained to The Times, the antigambling crusade will be extended to include the entire republic, which would take in Baja California.

President Ortiz Rubio made known his desires to abolish gambling as much as possible through the Ministry of the Interior in a statement issued under the signature of Secretary Portes Gil, former President, himself a stout prohibitionist and antivice crusader. The statement was issued in connection with a circular sent by President Ortiz Rubio and addressed to all State governors without any mention made of Federal territory governors, such as that of Baja California. In it the chief magistrate declared that because gambling is contrary to his program of promoting general morality, he desired to recommend all State authorities to prevent the opening of such establishments as tend to encourage games of chance.

SCHOOLS NEED UNITY OF VIEW

Commissioner Addresses Session of Educators

Adjustment of Child to Niche Held Important

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Feb. 24. (AP)—The concept of parents and educators uniting in a wider view of what shall be given the child in education, was the basis of an address delivered by William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, of Washington, D. C., at the afternoon session of the department of superintendency.

The old custom of punishing the sluggard and not worrying if the slow pupil dropped out, no longer prevails, said Mr. Cooper. The sociologist and the psychologist are better able to help the child than they were a short time ago.

ADJUSTMENTS MADE

The social adaptation of the child is growing more important and it must be left to the taxpayers until all are convinced of the value of the service and are willing to provide funds for it.

None but the educator, he said, seeks the child as an important figure in society of which he is to be a member. He does not propose to make a diplomat out of material that would be best as a butcher, but he aims at adjusting the child to a niche in life where his abilities will be best expressed. In a questionnaire sent out to fifty-four cities with populations of 100,000 or over, forty reported they maintained some sort of psychological service, four psychistric clinics and sixteen others reported having both. In 115 cities of more than 30,000, forty reported services of these types.

MUCH MONEY WASTED

"There is much expenditure of time and money in education which may well be termed waste, if viewed from the standpoint of justifiable returns," declared George Child, the superintendent of schools, Salt Lake City, Utah, addressing a group of the department of superintendency.

"A great deal of this waste can and should be eliminated, resulting in an approved product at less expense. It is among our major duties as administrators to discover such waste and to reduce it to a minimum."

Elimination of the eighth grade in elementary schools was suggested by Dr. Childs.

PAINLESS METHODS IN DENTISTRY

IT is now an established fact that Dentistry WITHOUT PAIN is practiced successfully by dentists who use the E. R. Parker System.

For 35 years dentists using the E. R. Parker System have been doing painless dentistry. They were pioneers in the art.

Systematic methods of cutting costs through group of skilled dentists working together in a single office and through collective mass-buying-power, are other ways in which dentists using the E. R. Parker System have won fame for surprisingly reasonable prices, without slighting quality.

Remember, the longer you neglect your teeth the more it will cost you in the end and the greater the suffering and chance of serious illness in the meantime.

Not only are the prices moderate for dentistry done the Parker Way but you can pay for the work as it progresses.

COURT TO TEST MERGER PLANS

Huge Standard-Vacuum Oil Combine Distrusted

Department of Justice Will Seek Legal Ruling

Petroleum Concerns' Joining Held Up Till Decision

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The legality of the proposed $1,500,000,000 merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company will be tested in the courts by the Department of Justice before it is completed.

The department announced today the judicial proceedings will be inaugurated within ten days in St. Louis courts to test the validity of the merger. This action will be taken because attorneys of the government disagree with the contention of counsel for the corporations that there can be no question of the legality of the action. After studying the plans, department officials said they felt that they should be passed upon by the court.

Counsel for the companies in submitting the plans to the government argued that the proposed merger did not violate any of the sections of the Sherman antitrust law, and did not conflict with the decree of 1912 dissolving the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, of which the two corporations were subsidiaries.

The corporations had been informed of the intention of the government to file action in equity to test the validity of their proposal.

Under the plans of the corporations the Standard would change its name to the General Petroleum Corporation. This corporation would have all the assets of the Standard Oil Company of New York and would acquire the assets of the Vacuum Oil Company through exchange of three shares of capital stock of the General Petroleum Corporation for one share of Vacuum.

The Standard, in announcing the merger plan last week, told its stockholders that the Department of Justice believed the question involved should be decided by the courts, and said that pending this the final merger would be delayed.

Mrs. Brandon's Balm Suit Shorn of Many Counts

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—The suit of Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon, assistant Corporation Counsel, against George J. Gillespie for $874,165 was shorn of its counts of fraud, slander, libel and accounting of a joint law venture by Justice Louis A. Valente in Supreme Court today. The action came after Mortimer Hays, her attorney, had placed five socially prominent women on the stand and then rested his case.

Theodore Kiendl, defense attorney, wanted the breach-of-promise clause dismissed, too, but Justice Valente let it stand and the amount of the suit is not affected. The trial was then adjourned until Wednesday.

MRS. AYER'S DIVORCE-FEE PLEA DENIED

Advertising Man Victor in Suit Preliminaries; Mentions Lew Cody

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—Alimony and counsel fees for which she had applied in a separation suit were refused today by Supreme Court Justice Townley to Mrs. Mae Olive Ayer, whose husband, Capt. Wallace C. Ayer, an advertising man, opposed her suit on the ground that he had divorced her last year in Newport, Ky.

The husband also accused Mrs. Ayer of too close friendship with Lew Cody, motion-picture actor.

Ayer charged that her name was carved with Cody's on the latter's dressing-room door, and that she wore clothing and jewelry worth $25,000 which were not presents from her husband.

PHILIPPINE HEARINGS TO CLOSE SOON

Senate Committee Votes Time Limit of March 15 on Independence Bills

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—After an executive meeting of the Senate Territories Committee today Chairman Bingham announced the hearings on Philippine independence bills will close not later than March 15.

The vote to close the hearings was unanimous. It follwed a hearing in which Charles W. Holman of the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Association and Camilo Osias, resident commissioner, advanced what they termed the arguments of the American farmer and the Filipino people in favor of immediate Philippine freedom.

Chairman Bingham said he expected to call the next public hearing for March 10. As soon after the London naval conference as possible, he added, the Secretaries of State, War and Navy will be asked to appear before an executive session of the committee.

Osias attacked the testimony of previous witnesses who had claimed that independence for the islands would result in an economic collapse.

"We came through a worse regime under Spain," he said. "Given the alternative of sinking or swimming, I have no doubt that my people will swim."

GARY (Ind.) Feb. 24. (AP)—The body of Paul Perconti, missing leader of the Unione Cicila, an Italian organization, was found today hidden in a quick-lime crypt, sealed with concrete under a barn on a farm near Crissman, Ind., ten miles from here. He had been shot to death.

Perconti, believed by authorities to have incurred the enmity of local bootleggers, disappeared from his home last Tuesday.

Indian Bills Get Indorsements

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Secretary Wilbur and Commissioner Rhoads of the Indian Service today indorsed bills by Senator Johnson and Representative Swing, California Republicans, to authorize the Interior Department to arrange with the States for the care of Indians.

The measures are in line with Secretary Wilbur's policy of gradually weaning the Indians from governmental guardianship.

ARIZONA SOUNDS NEW RIVER CRY

Gov. Phillips Threatens Suit on Secretary Wilbur

Declares State Will Try to Block Dam Building

Action Planned at Time of Letting Contracts

TUCSON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Injecting a militant note into the question of Boulder Dam water and power distribution, Gov. Phillips said here today that Arizona will file suit in the Supreme Court of the United States to prevent construction of the dam "whenever Secretary of the Interior Wilbur lets construction contracts."

It is expected that the suit will be in the form of a petition for an injunction. Neither Atty.-Gen. Peterson, who announced some time ago that preparation of the court action had been completed, nor members of the Arizona Colorado River Commission would disclose the exact nature of the proposed proceedings.

At a meeting of the river commission held since the recess of the Phoenix tri-State river conference on the 9th inst., the Arizona chief executive said, it was decided to without filing of the suit until after the Secretary of the Interior "committed some overt act."

Gov. Phillips said it is his belief that Congress will not make an appropriation for construction of the dam until there is a seven-State agreement as to division of water and charges for delivery and storage thereof, and division of power generated at the dam, including fixing of a sale price.

This agreement, he said, can never be reached until Arizona and California compose their differences as to the water questions and California and the other six basin States "get together" on the matter of power allocation.

COLORADO RIVER CONCLAVE HELD AT RIVERSIDE

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 24. (Exclusive) The functions and operations of the Metropolitan Water District were explained to members and friends of the Present Day Club by directors of the district at a dinner tonight at the Congregational Church.

Riverside people have been considering joining the district, which is an organization of Southern California cities banded together to bring a domestic water supply from the Colorado River by means of the proposed Colorado River aqueduct. The speakers came to Riverside on invitation of those who feel this city should understand what the district is and how it functions.

Among the speakers were the following members of the board of directors of the district: Franklin Thomas of Pasadena, William O. Harris of San Bernardino and George H. Hutton of Santa Monica, and F. E. Weymouth, chief engineer of the district.

SOUTHLAND'S WEALTH

Mr. Harris, who was introduced by Sam Evans, former Riverside Mayor, chairman of the meeting, emphasized the fact that all over Southern California the water level is rapidly receding, and that in order to replenish it water must be brought in from outside the basin.

He also remarked upon the astounding wealth of Southern California, which he explained was built up on a meager water supply which was less than 1½ per cent of the water of the entire State.

He stated that the 1500 second feet proposed to be brought in through the Colorado River acqueduct, would mean 100 gallons per day per capita for 9,000,000 additional population.

The San Bernardino speaker also reminded those present that all of the cities outside of Los Angeles combined could not finance the proposed project, but that Los Angeles alone could do it and without the aid of the other cities.

"Los Angeles," Harris said, "is pledging 85 per cent of the bill, and the rest of the communities must look to that city for leadership in the matter."

Judge Hutton discussed the legal aspects of the Metropolitan Water District.

DRINK COLORADO WATER

Prof. Thomas talked on the engineering phase of the problem and said that Southern California is indebted to Los Angeles for initiating the move to bring Colorado River water to the coastal plane.

He concluded his remarks with the statement that "we cannot give too much credit to the agricultural interests for the fine way in which they have co-operated in the recent settlement of the water division."

Earl Pound, member of the Colorado River Commission, made a few brief remarks during which he said that there is ample water supply for all the coastal cities in the Colorado River.

Water from the Colorado River was served to those seated around the banquet table and not until the meeting neared its close did the diners know the source of the clear and palatable fluid in the tumblers.

Use of the water, which was shipped here from Yuma, Ariz., was undertaken in an attempt to offset propaganda that has been spread that the Colorado River flow is not fit for drinking purposes.

Constabulary in Islands Quickly Quells Uprising

MANILA, Feb. 24. (AP)—How an uprising of fanatics in the interior of the Island of Cebu was nipped in the bud was told in a report received here today from Col. Guillermo Francisco, district commander of the Philippine Constabulary in the Visayan Islands.

Two ringleaders, Fermin Igsolo and Andres Gutiay, former convicts, and twelve others were arrested. One hundred others were dispersed and allowed to go home.

According to information obtained by the constabulary the fanatics began concentrating at the town of Sogod last Wednesday with the object of seizing the government and plundering government buildings.

This is the LAST week of this great Piano Sale!

IF customers pour in upon us this week as they did last week, the instruments now on hand will not last till next Monday. For, when dozens of persons read the heading of this ad and realize that it is "now or never,"—they will swamp us with applications.

We know of enough persons who have told us they would take a piano before the sale closed, to book orders for every instrument now remaining unsold.

There is no thrill to equal that of owning your own Grand Piano

Applications for Pianos will be received up to the close of business Monday

This was decided upon last week: That we would supply instruments from the original number intended for the sale, as long as they last—then take orders until the close of business next Monday.

As long as any instruments remain unsold we will make immediate deliveries. As soon as the last one goes—we will take your application and make delivery in the order in which it is received.

In this way everyone gets a square deal. No one need miss this unparalleled opportunity. However, the late comer this week and those who come next Monday may have to wait a few days for delivery of their pianos.

PLANES HELP COAST GUARD SPOT SMUGGLER'S SHIPS

Radio and Aerial Photographs Used by Government's Watchmen Against Illict Importation

[This is the first of a series of four articles on the activities of the United States Coast Guard. By special permission of Rear-Admiral F. C. Billard, commanding the service, a North American Newspaper Alliance reporter and photographer spent several days with the land, sea and air forces of this branch of the government service.]

BY IVAN H. PETERMAN

CAPE MAY (N. J.) Feb. 24. (NANA)—Half a dozen mechanics and ground men rolled the orange-painted amphibian to the ship where she poised, her Liberty motor roaring challenge to the Atlantic. There was no fuss or hurry; the hop was a daily occurrence, and nobody, least of all Lieut. Walter Anderson, was even mildly excited.

"Mr. Crump, will you act as my radio man?" Anderson, commanding the Coast Guard aviation unit and the pilot for the day, addressed a small, wiry man in dungarees. Crump dropped his wrench, wiped his hands, and stopped work on a motor to become "Sparks" of the air.

I was the third man, occupying the observer's cockpit. Like Anderson, I wore a heavy fur-lined flying suit, fur-lined helmet and sheepskin flying boots. The Loening we were using is an open-cockpit plane, the radio man, deep in the hull, alone being protected from the weather.

"This looks like needless preparation," said the pilot, "but after we've been up for a couple of hours you will be glad you have plenty on." How true this was I learned later.

It was a bright day, biting cold, but with little wind. The flight was to be our first adventure with the Coast Guard, the first time, incidentally, that newspaper men were allowed to "see the works" with this much-discussed branch of governmental service. Mac, our photographer, and I, had presented ourselves to Capt. William H. Shea, commanding Section Base 9 at Cape May, a resort town ninety miles from Philadelphia, an hour earlier.

"You understand, of course, that much of our operations is necessarily confidential, that we pursue methods only the officers in charge are cognizant of," Capt. Shea said. "One of the fundamental parts of the service is enforcement of the laws, protection of life and property coming first, however.

ANTICIPATING SMUGGLERS

"As nearly as everyone knows, smugglers will attempt to enter the country unlawfully. It is part of our duty to anticipate this and to act accordingly. To keep up with violators we must know their movements. How we do this I cannot tell you fully, but the first trip you make today will give you an insight."

Capt. Shea then turned us over to Lieut. Anderson, and for the time being we became in effect an observer with the Coast Guard.

The take-off at 11 a.m. was smooth, although one gets plenty of spray when an amphibian leaves the water. As we arose the control stick in the second cockpit (the plane was dual-controlled) waggled dangerous near my chin, but I clung to the cowl and soon the base was below us with the ocean on the left. Crump already was busy talking into a tiny microphone notifying the base operator that C-G No. 2 was in the air.

VOICE ON RADIO

Radio communication in the Coast Guard is itself novel. There is no dot and dash code, instead the operators talk directly, the voices, in high, squeaky tones due to the short-wave frequency used, being audible only with the ear close to the phones. The message Crump sent went like this:

"Calling Base 9, Base 9. Will you give me o.k.? Will you give me an o.k. Base 9?" "O.K. C-G 2, o.k. C-G 2, I got you." Then, giving his position, Crump says: "Shaping course eastward, weather clear, wind about 25, Base 9," and repeats it. All this is done very quickly, so that a stranger is entranced by the rapid-fire conversation.

The ship, flying at 300 feet, howled out to sea, Cape May swimming momentarily below. I adjusted the goggles, and following Anderson's arm, saw several small fishing smacks and a motor boat or two. They were lustily heading toward sea, intent on the day's haul. A red-faced man regarded us nonchalantly as we skimmed down 100 feet to give him the once over.

Apparently the plane was no novelty in his life, for he busied himself with a net as we roared over his stern. For half an hour we proceeded eastward, land disappearing without my even noticing the change. The ocean was fairly calm, the wind cold, and the sun made of the whirling propeller blades a solid disc of silver.

I felt a touch on my knee and saw Anderson's arm thrust behind his back, holding out a note. It was marked "Radio," so I passed it down to Crump. It notified the base we were heading south, which we did with a slow bank.

"How far out?" I wrote, passing the note to the pilot.

"About forty-five miles," he replied. I looked at the altimeter; 500 feet only! We were doing seventy knots (around seventy-eight miles an hour.) It was comforting to know that the ship could land on the sea. One appreciated how Lindbergh felt. On, on, we flew for an hour or more. Getting colder. Water, water everywhere. Not a ship in sight.

VISIBILITY POOR

The compass wiggled around. We were turning. Another radio message advised Base 9 we were changing to a westward course. More monotonous scanning of the sea. "Visibility is poor today," wrote Anderson. I nodded agreement. A white line appeared directly ahead, stretching away to a fine thread north and south.

"Clouds or fog?" I wrote. Underneath Anderson scribbled: "Neither. Maryland shoreline." We veered south again, being almost opposite Ocean City, Md. A dreary expanse, the winter shoreline.

Not in years had such a heavy snowfall visited the coast line, we were informed. It was picturesque to see the white blanket extending down to the very waves. Lonely fishing huts. Overturned boats. Marshes. Ice. Snow. Ugh! I drew the fur collar closer. Not a wisp of smoke from a solitary chimney. The pilot swung out to sea again.

Suddenly a gaudy spot loomed up. In white letters against the red hull we read "Fenwick Lightship." What a life!

"We're heading north, quite a way out. If you see anything, point." I nodded. Below, his head resting against my toes, Crump waited for something to happen.

LIST OF "SUSPECTS"

I spotted a steamer. It was only a tramp, a dowdy looking boat which made barely enough headway to develop a wash. The decks were strewn with rusty chains, and the hull needed paint. We zoomed very low, reading the nameplate on the stern.

A few more miles and I was nearly flipped against the control stick by a sudden bank. Below I saw a tiny gray blot. Circling not ten feet above the water, both Anderson and Crump became suddenly alert, and Crump hauled out an aerial camera which he thrust through a window in the hull. Twice we whirled around the boat.

"That's a Canadian boat," Anderson wrote. Crump consulted a long mimeographed list of "suspects." He passed up a note for the pilot. "The Bear Cat. Let me take another picture." As we zoomed again, a dour gentleman on deck regarded us without enthusiasm.

We were about thirty-five miles at sea, and it occurred to me that life out there on a little boat, smuggler or no, is no fun. Here was this small craft, not much larger than a fair-sized bathtub, bobbing on the ocean, drifting, waiting, waiting. We flew away, heading north.

"Can't touch that one; foreign boat outside twelve-mile limit," Anderson wrote. Then we saw another. This time my companions showed real excitement. Here, apparently, was a newcomer. The Bear Cat had been known.

Lying low on the ocean, with scarcely any superstructure, painted a dull gray which nearly blended with the waves, a long, drab-looking motorship rose and fell with the swell. We shot past her stern and there was the legend: "Audrey B." At the same time the crew stood on deck and hailed, while one wag, leaning out the cabin window, waved a white tablecloth vigorously. Surrender? Perhaps!

Later we were told the Audrey B was an old acquaintance. From Canada, she is well known to the Coast Guard, having been chased by a cutter, and closely watched. Her construction is that of a typical smuggling ship, being least likely to attract attention.

"She is built for speed and well camouflaged against the gray of sea and sky," I was told. "Next time we go out she may have changed her position." He was right. The next flight revealed no sign of the Audrey B. She had slipped away in the night.

"The coast is long, the ocean is large," Capt. Shea had told me. "We have comparatively few vessels to keep track of suspects with. We have to spot them and try to keep in touch constantly if they come too close."

Proceeding west again, we skimmed the surface, not more than twenty feet between us and the waves. It was exciting flying, the idea being to identify another steamer a mile or two beyond. Heading into land near Atlantic City we cruised southward along the shoreline toward the base. It was 2:35 p.m. when the Loening glided gracefully to the surface of the inlet.

Stiffly, almost frozen, we climbed out. The ground men pulled the ship on shore; we got out of our greasy clothes. Somebody traced a course on the map. In three hours and thirty-five minutes we had traveled nearly 300 miles, scanning approximately 5000 square miles of ocean, and we knew that two possible smugglers were lurking off the coast between Atlantic City and Ocean City, Md.

But we did not possess this information exclusively. Oh, no. Crump and his little radio had been busy. Likewise, Mr. Anderson's report told much. Even before we landed the air was crackling with messages, some in code. Certain patrol boats were speeding eastward. Where, why, and what for we would learn most graphically later.

REDS TO CLOSE MEXICAN OFFICE

Socorro Rojo Preparing to Move to New York

Soviet Relief Group Issues Notice to Radicals

Action Believed Result of Anti-Communist Policy

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—The international "Socorro Rojo" or Red Relief, affiliated with the Third Internationale which has directed Communistic operations in Mexico and is allied with similar soviet propaganda organizations in Central and South America, is preparing to withdraw from Mexico judging from a circular sent by the organization's executive committee to all affiliated bodies.

The circular advises all Communist party leaders that it is the intention of the Red Relief to move its office to New York where it will operate jointly with the Latin-American department of the International Labor-defense League.

New York is given as the future seat of activities because of the large number of Communist refugees from various countries said to be now located there. While the contents of the circular as published do not specify the reasons for disbanding the local association, this decision follows in the wake of the stern anti-Communist policy adopted by the present Mexican administration.

STATE PIONEER DIES

STOCKTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Angelo Garbarino, California pioneer, died in a hospital at Sonora last night. He had lived practically all his life in Coulterville. He was 69 years of age. He leaves a widow and ten children.

At 4 weeks . . . at 6 weeks your baby should have Bottled Sunshine every day!

The breast-fed baby has many advantages over the bottle-fed. But even the breast-fed baby may not always be able to build strong, straight bones and sound, uncrowded teeth.

A certain protective substance (Vitamin D) must be supplied if bones and teeth are to develop properly.

There are two common sources of this protective factor. Sunshine and good cod-liver oil! Direct sunshine would keep your baby safe if he could get enough on his bare body. But clothing, clouds, fog and smoke make this impossible. Even ordinary window glass filters out the protecting rays—the ultra-violet rays

Physicians urge the use of Bottled Sunshine—and direct us to the dependable way to assure correct formation of your baby's bones and teeth.

And thousands of them rely upon one particular kind—Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. They point to it because laboratory tests show it to be very rich in two essentials.

In Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" which is necessary to build strong bones and sound teeth. And in Vitamin A which promotes growth and increases resistance to infections.

Your physician knows he can depend on Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil because it is vitamin-tested, vitamin-protected. Insist on Squibb's. All reliable druggists have both Plain and Mint-flavored.

I gave them a trial and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Wilma Stearns, 1316 Remington Court, Seattle, Wash. "CONDEMNING SHADOWS"

(Shakespeare, 1564-1616)

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—you men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"It's Toasted." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

RUSSIANS CLOSE MORE CHURCHES

Synagogues and Mosques in Group Shut by Reds

Furnishings Sold to Permit Buying of Tractors

Workers and Peasants Said to Have Asked Action

MOSCOW, Feb. 24. (AP)—Despite the campaign abroad against the soviet government for its attitude toward religion, soviet authorities in different parts of the union have closed a number of additional churches, synagogues and mosques.

These, it is declared, were shut "on petition of the workers and peasants."

Tass dispatches today reported that soviet officials closed three churches, three mosques, one synagogue and one Polish church in Alma-Ata, capital of the province of Kazakstan.

In Karabudakhkent, near Makhatch-Kala, capital of the Dagestan republic, the population, of which is predominantly Mohammedan, the authorities closed no less than thirteen mosques. Ecclesiastical objects removed from the latter including rich rugs and mosaics, were sold and the money converted into American tractors for the new collective farms.

Another Tass dispatch said that in Tyer, Central Russia, the soviet officials decided to close a local synagogue and to convert it into a club "on the insistent demand of laboring Jews."

BORAH QUERYING DECLARED UNOFFICIAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Cotton said today that communications between Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and soviet Russia concerning asserted prosecution of Jewish rabbis, had been made without consultation with the State Department.

Cotton said the State Department has aken no action on the Russian matter, and that neither Borah's original query of Moscow, nor the soviet answer has been placed before him.

Senator Borah announced after communicating with the soviet government that he had been informed that all but three of the Jewish rabbis held by the soviet had been released.

MacDONALD VOICES CONCERN OVER SITUATION

LONDON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald, in a letter made public today, said the British government is much concerned about antireligious activities in the soviet union, but could not say what it can do until it has all the facts. The letter, an answer to an unnamed correspondent regarding religious affairs in Russia, was made public by the press department of the Labor party.

It specified that news from Riga, Latvia, should not be believed until corroborated, and added that many statements from that source have been proved false.

HISTORY TRACED

"The history of religion in Russia, however," the letter continues, "is unfortunately full of records of persecution. Persecution has never, in one way or another, been absent from Russian religious life, and the revolutionary mentality which generations of oppression have created has all the characteristics of narrowness and violence of purpose."

The Prime Minister continues that to his colleagues and himself religious persecution is hateful, but he says that is not the question at issue. It is, rather, "have we considered what we can do?"

Diplomatic recognition of Russia, said the Premier, was decided purely on practical and political grounds and without reference to internal beliefs or policies. He added that Russia has been recognized for general good, however intricate and troublesome immediate problems may be.

TEMPER HARDENED

"To outlaw a country is not to make it amenable to world opinion, but the opposite," he said. "Even now you must see that the tone and temper of the agitation are hardening rather than softening the heart of the Russian government and giving it the opportunity of persuading its own people—however erroneously—that this is all a part of the conspiracy of other governments to bring a war against the soviet government."

Great Britain, the letter concludes, knows quite well that the government is not indifferent to the situation, but that the "only question is what are the facts and what are our opportunities and how can they best be used? It would be the easiest thing in the world to act in such a way as would add to the inflictions which Christians may have to endure. That we shall avoid, whatever the agitation may be."

Meantime only seven patients remain in San Francisco hospitals and it is believed they will be able to leave by tomorrow.

STATE MOTOR ACT UPHELD

United States Supreme Court Rules Collection of License Fees Not Double Taxation

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—The Supreme Court today upheld the California State courts in holding that the Motor Vehicle Act of that State is not a double-taxation measure, does not involve collection of "tolls," and that it is constitutional.

Justice Stone delivered the decision for the court on two cases against F. G. Snook, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles for California brought by the A. B. C. Transfer and Storage Company and others.

In his decision Justice Stone said that although both the State and incorporated cities can collect license fees from motor vehicles hired for transporting passengers and freight under the California act it is not a case of double taxation. Plaintiffs in the A.B.C. case stated that they did not use State highways but that they had to pay the State tax, used in part for maintenance of State and county roads, as well as the city tax used for city-road maintenance. The city transfer case also brought up this point though the plaintiffs claimed they used the State highways but very little.

State taxes, graduated by weight of the motor transports under the fact were not tolls but are "demands of (State) sovereignty, not of proprietorship," Justice Stone said.

The exemption of vehicles under 3000 pounds from graduated taxation is not, as charged by the plaintiffs, discriminatory, in the opinion of the court, but purely a matter for the State Legislature to decide in drawing a line between vehicles which tend to break down highways rapidly and those which do not.

OFFICER KILLED IN TAKING FELON

Chicago Detective Wounds Slayer, However

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. (AP)—A detective gave his life in Chicago's fight on crime today but not before he had sent three bullets into the body of his assailant, wounding the latter probably fatally.

The detective, John J. Ryan, was slain as he struggled with Joseph Fallon, ex-convict under indictment for robbery. Fallon fled in a taxi after the shooting but on the cab driver's directions he was located in a West Side apartment late today. The man was too weak to resist and was taken to the jail hospital.

Another death was marked up today against the sidewalks of Chicago when Joseph Sarnowsky, 23 years of age, was killed in a feud clash between Mexicans and Poles.

Condemned Man Refused Review by High Court

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review the case of Joseph Murray, alias William O'Brien, now held in the San Quentin prison in California, under sentence of death for the murder of William Charles McFarlin.

Murray was charged with others with having murdered McFarlin in Alameda county, California, in July, 1928. He was found sane and convicted, but contended the California law under which his plea of insanity had been tried is invalid because it did not provide which of the two juries which tried him should fix the punishment. He insisted that neither jury had the right to determine that he should suffer death.

Mrs. Collett, Centenarian, Dies in North

OAKLAND, Feb. 24. (AP)—Mrs. Georgiana Collett, who would have been 107 years of age July 19, next, died today.

Born in Dorsetshire, Eng., in 1823, Mrs. Collett came to the United States soon after the Civil War in a sailing ship with her husband, Capt. Theodore H. Collett. A short time later she traveled to San Francisco via the Isthmus of Panama. She had lived in Oakland since 1906.

Mrs. Collett had given as one of the greatest pleasures of her life an airplane ride she took over Oakland on her one hundred and sixth birthday.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

New Assurances Paid for An Increase of $213,207,000	654,451,000
Assurances in force, (net) An Increase of $504,322,000	$2,401,237,000
Total Income (net) An Increase of $28,110,000	172,857,000
Surplus earned during the Year	42,863,000
Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries	69,174,000
Surplus and Contingency Reserve An Increase of $5,869,000	72,807,000
Total Liabilities (Including paid up Capital)	495,390,000
Assets, at December 31st, 1929 An Increase of $79,239,000	568,197,000

Rate of Interest earned on mean invested assets 7.02%

The high rate of dividends allotted to participating policyholders is continued and the special dividend on maturing policies extended and increased.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

New policies paid for numbered 161,391 for a net amount of $654,451,143.27, an advance of $213,206,752.36, or more than forty-eight per cent., over the previous year. This marked increase and the fact that the average policy, for the first time, exceeded $4,000, affords impressive evidence of the ever-growing popularity of the Company.

After deducting amounts reassured, the total assurances in force amount to $2,401,237,036.94, an increase of $504,321,102.37. This advance is notable not merely for its magnitude, but because when allowance is made for terminations by death and maturity, it represents a remarkably high rate of continuance and evidences great satisfaction on the part of our policyholders.

The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $139,290,474.03.

The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets has risen to 7.02 per cent. This figure includes a certain amount from bonuses and stock privileges accruing on many of the Company's holdings; but if these were entirely eliminated the rate would still be 6.60 per cent.

A net profit of $13,077,284.62 was realized from the redemption or sale of securities.

The surplus earned during the year, based on the values entered in the accounts, amounted to $42,863,578.59, but from this sum substantial appropriations have as usual been made to further strengthen the position of the Company.

An additional $10,000,000.00 has been deducted from the market values of our securities as a provision against possible market fluctuations, raising the amount thus set aside for this purpose in the accounts to $30,000,000.00.

A further $1,000,000.00 has been written off the Company's buildings.

$931,000.00 has been appropriated to raise the annuity reserves to the Rutherford table of valuation, with interest at 3½ per cent. This exacting standard requires reserves $2,656,000.00 in excess of those of the Dominion Government standard.

$1,200,000.00 has been set aside as additional provision for claims arising from total disability, death claims as yet unreported, and possible claims under cancelled policies on which a surrender value or reinstatement might be applied for.

$22,606,265.67 has been paid or allotted as profits for the year to policyholders.

The special amount entered as a liability to provide for unforeseen contingencies has been maintained at $12,500,000.00.

After making all these deductions and allocations, $5,868,899.96 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over liabilities, contingency accounts, and capital stock to $60,307,762.44.

In accordance with our usual conservative practice the securities owned by the Company have again been valued at figures much below the market quotations current at the close of the year. This undervaluation represents an important element of strength to the Company additional to the specific provisions in the statements.

Your Directors are pleased to announce that the high scale of profits at present allotted to participating policyholders will be continued during the ensuing year, while the Special Dividend on maturing policies, introduced last year, has been extended to include policies maturing after having been in force five years or longer, and the scale of benefit has been increased.

The business of the Company has always been conducted under the exacting provisions of the Canadian Insurance law and the rigid supervision of the Insurance Department of the Government of Canada. Ever since we entered the United States in 1895, the Company has been under similar supervision there and is now subject to the regulations of thirty-eight States of the Union which requlre periodical examination of the affairs of all companies licensed in their territory. In the discharge of their regular duties a committee of twenty-two examiners, representing the States of Michigan, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Ohio, Tennessee, Washington, Virginia, West Virginia, Florida and the District of Columbia recently completed an exhaustive examination into every department of the Company's affairs. The report of this committee makes gratifying reference to the liberal treatment accorded to our policyholders, and provides authoritative testimony to the Company's strength. Even adopting the low valuations placed by us on our securities, the committee still reported a surplus at the close of last year $1,333,921.71 in excess of the figure claimed by the Company.

"Not in Europe or Asia Did I see Sargon's Equal"

"I've been a trained nurse for the past thirty years and I've had broad experience and observation in Japan, England, Germany, Canada and here in California, but I never in all my life saw any medicine to equal this wonderful Sar-gon," said Mrs. Frieda Buxton, who resides at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, San Francisco, recently.

MRS. FRIEDA BUXTON

"When I first heard of the wonderful accomplishments of this new compound I naturally became interested in its scientific background, but before recommending it to anyone I personally put it to a most severe test. For the best part of a year I'd been in terribly rundown condition, due to long hours put in at my work; my nerves simply went all to pieces and I was right on the verge of a complete breakdown. No doubt it was these nerves that affected my digestive organs, for I lost my appetite and the little I did eat would give me indigestion in the form of gas bloating and heart palpitation and keep me in misery from one meal to another. My liver became sluggish and I frequently had bilious attacks and sick headaches, and my complexion was awfully sallow. I lacked vigor and energy and I was mentally depressed.

"Almost from my very first day with Sargon I could feel its invigorating effects, and the way it has since overcame all my troubles is nothing short of remarkable! My nerves are strong and steady now, and I never have a sign of indigestion, although I have a splendid appetite and eat anything in the world I want.

"I also took Sargon Soft Mass Pills along with the liquid and found them very valuable in reconditioning my liver and regulating my eliminations. I never have those bilious attacks or sick headaches any more, and my complexion has cleared up wonderfully.

"Sargon has convinced me unquestionably of its merits in toning up and strengthening the entire system, and I can conscientiously recommend it as a wonderful medicine."

The Sargon Man is at the Owl Drug Store, 6th and Broadway, where he is meeting the public daily and explaining the merits of this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may also be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett's Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

SMITH RECITES TALE OF GRAFT

Alameda County Officials' Transactions Told

"Pay-Off Man" Gives Names and Dates to Jury

Fled to Los Angeles in Fear of "Ride," He States

OAKLAND, Feb. 23. (Exclusive)—Fred C. Smith, former San Leandro automobile dealer, who has developed into the key witness in the grand jury inquiry into asserted paving, bootlegging and gambling graft in Alameda county, which has brought out the names of several high officials, went into intimate details of transactions in which he was the "pay-off" man as the grand jury resumed its sessions today.

He named men and places he said were protected by law-enforcement officers and listed amounts he is said to have received from them; he was substantiated by his wife and his uncle; detailed the formation of the Greater Oakland Construction Company, in which he declared he interested Los Angeles capital, and went into additional explanation of charges previously made that he acted for a time as the agent for C. L. Ormsby, former Oakland attorney who went to Los Angeles three years ago and subsequently represented Aimee Semple McPherson for a time.

SENSATIONAL STORY

The testimony was considered by Dist.-Atty. Warren as "sensational" and vied in interest with the refusal of William H. Parker, City Commissioner formerly in charge of the streets department, to testify on constitutional grounds.

Smith prefaced his new disclosures with the assertion he had been told by one of his closest friends, after he had learned more than was considered healthy to the future of several officials and their aides, that he was to be framed into resisting arrest and "accidentally shot." This really was the reason, he declared; he fled to Los Angeles after being indicted for grand theft. He was returned from there several days ago.

BECKER ACCUSED

Sheriff Becker, whom Smith has named as receiving protection money, finally visited him in Los Angeles, Smith testified, and gave him $500 to "get out of the country."

This testimony climaxed a series of accounts of taking tribute from bootleggers and gamblers and of wild parties in various Alameda county resorts in which Sheriff Becker, Deputy Sheriffs Collier and Davis and Commissioner Parker are asserted to have participated.

He detailed several asserted instances in which he acted as liaison agent between Sheriff Becker and Ormsby in arranging protection and handled the funds passed between them.

HIGH COURT RULES WITH RAILROADS

Cost Value Measure of Damage Claims on Goods Lost in Transit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—A decision of outstanding importance to railroads was rendered by the Supreme Court today when it held that roads in paying for shipments lost in transit cannot be required to pay what the lost merchandise would have brought if it had been delivered and sold at retail.

The question reached the court in a case brought by the Illinois Central, seeking to have reversed a decision of the lower courts holding that the P. McCoy Fuel Company of Minnesota was entitled to recover for coal lost in transit from Roy-alton, Ill., to Minneapolis damage measured by the price the coal would have brought had it been delivered.

The Pennsylvania and a large number of railroads joined the Illinois Central in contending that the liability of the carriers, when shipments are lost in transit, should be a fair average market value of the lost merchandise at the time and place of shipment.

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) Feb. 24. (AP)—Frederick I. Thompson, Mobile publisher and former member of the United States Shipping Board, today formally declared himself a candidate for the United States Senate seat now held by J. Thomas Heflin. Thompson will oppose John H. Bankhead of Jasper, in the Democratic primary to be held August 12, next.

Thompson's announcement of his candidacy followed his plea of Saturday to Edmund W. Pettus of Selma, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, for an extension of time from March 1 for candidates to qualify and enter the primary.

Chair Resigned by Prof. Rogers

COLUMBIA (Mo.) Feb. 24. (AP)—Criticising "interference" by the administration of the University of Missouri in freedom of teaching and research, James Harvey Rogers, professor of economics, today announced his resignation in a letter to President Brooks and the board of curators.

The resignation, to become effective September 1, next, was tendered in order that Prof. Rogers may accept a professorship at Yale University, his alma mater. He was active in support of Prof. Max Meyer in the recent sex questionnaire investigation at Missouri University.

When Death Lurked at Grade Crossing

Panic Reigns After Collision

WRECK LAID TO MOTORIST

Train Crash Which Killed Eleven Blamed on Autoist Taking Chance at Crossing

KENOSHA (Wis.) Feb. 24. (AP)—Responsibility for the wreck late last night of two North Shore electric trains, with a toll of eleven dead and eighty-four sent to hospitals with injuries, appears to center, officials said today, on Norman E. Shinners, 21 years of age, of Milwaukee, who took a chance at a grade crossing and lost his life and that of a friend in the automobile with him.

The other nine dead, four women and five men, were among 130 passengers aboard a southbound five-car train from Milwaukee to Chicago, which struck Shinners's automobile, which had just escaped being hit by a northbound sixteen-car freight train.

LIST OF DEAD

The complete list of dead follows:
Frank Buday, Milwaukee.
Norman E. Shinners, Milwaukee.
James D. Poteous, Racine, Wis.
E. F. Reibe, Milwaukee.
George Brofka, Chicago.
James Fitzgerald, Manistique, Mich.
J. B. Goggin, Chicago.
Miss Betty Shema, Chicago.
Miss Evelyn Metager, Chicago.
Ruth Reibe, Milwaukee.
Alex Stenhorst, Kenosha.

The passenger train, traveling at a high speed, rocked violently for a moment, surviving passengers said, and then left the rails, striking the freight train. After the impact, which derailed thirteen of the freight cars, the passenger train hurtled to the other side, coming to rest in a ten-foot ditch 125 yards from the crossing. Four of the crushed cars paired up alongside each other in the ditch, while the fifth brought up the rear.

CHAUTEMPS SET FOR TEST TODAY

New French Premier Awaits Vote on Strength

Radical-Socialist Element Sights Majority

Even Division of Deputies Estimated by Foes

PARIS, Feb. 24. (AP)—France's new Radical-Socialist government was ready tonight for the first test of strength in the Chamber of Deputies, counting on a majority of from ten to fifteen in the crucial vote on confidence tomorrow.

Premier Camille Chautemps, who will read the ministerial statement of policy at 3 p.m., personally expressed confidence today in his chances of weathering the storm from the Right that undoubtedly will rock the Cabinet ship. Receiving newspaper men, he said he will outline his policy to the Deputies and they can then take the responsibility of accepting or rejecting it.

The greatest uncertainty prevails in other circles, however. A thorough canvass of Deputies of all groups made by supporters of the government today showed the voting strength of the Chautemps Cabinet and of the opposition to be about evenly matched.

The opposition believes the government will be defeated by a few votes, and the Nationalist elements frankly describe it as "the still-born government."

The new Premier's budgetary program may prove his salvation. A statement promising lower taxes is confidently expected, and the popularity of such a measure may cause many Deputies who would otherwise vote against the government merely to abstain from voting.

In any case former Premier Tardieu and his group of sixty-four Deputies will be in the ranks of the opposition. The "Republicans of the left" today decided unanimously not to give their confidence to M. Chautemps. M. Tardieu told his followers he felt it was "impossible for them to support" the Radical-Socialist leader.

A full meeting of the Cabinet examined the draft of the ministerial declaration. Another Cabinet meeting, under the direction of President Doumergue, will re-examine it tomorrow.

NAVAL PARLEY'S EYES ON FRANCE

Fate of Conference Hangs on Chamber Vote

British Journal's Assumption of Failure Refuted

Next Move Awaits Verdict on Chautemps Cabinet

LONDON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The London naval conference is awaiting anxiously tomorrow's vote in the French Chamber of Deputies as to whether the Chautemps government will survive.

If all goes well with Chautemps, Foreign Minister Briand will return here and captain the French delegation. The conference then will swing into action before the week-end and another plenary session may be expected next week.

Both Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Col. Henry L. Stimson of the United States at Stanmore, where the Premier was a guest of Mr. Stimson, read with surprise the sensational account in one of London's large newspapers this morning of the collapse of the naval parley and its adjournment until 1935.

REPORT TRUTHLESS

When Mr. MacDonald returned to Downing street he authorized a statement that there is "no truth whatever in the report." No statement was available from Mr. Stimson, but Arthur Wilson Page, his aide, issued a denial.

The events of the day in themselves indicated that the conference continues along the lines announced when the French were forced to leave London because of their domestic political situation.

Technical experts dealing with special classes of warships wound up their task at St. James' today The jurists assigned to work connected with the "humanisation" of submarine warfare will meet again tomorrow.

DELEGATES FETED

The entire conference assembly gathered tonight in the Foreign Office buildings in Downing street for Foreign Minister Henderson's official reception to the delegation. Mr. Henderson received several hundred guests after a dinner in the marble halls where state functions were numerous before the World War. Mrs. Henderson entertained the wives of delegates with a similar dinner across the way at No. 10 Downing street, which Prime Minister MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel turned over for the purpose.

The Prime Minister was annoyed tonight at the defeatist attitude taken by some sections of the British press. It was to avoid such reports that the delegations decided to adjourn for a week while the French ship of state righted itself. No one here minimizes the seriousness of the situation should Chautemps be defeated tomorrow, but reports indicate he seems assured of a small majority and perhaps a month of life, in which the London negotiations can be concluded.

PACKING ACT RATE FIXING HELD VALID

Supreme Court Upholds Legislation in Test Case by Stock Raisers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The section of the Packers' and Stockyards Act of 1921 authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to fix maximum rates to be charged by live-stock commission salesmen, today was sustained as valid by the Supreme Court.

The law was tested by Tagg Brothers & Moorhead and other commission merchants at the Omaha (Neb.) stock yards. Live-stock growers and dealers throughout the country were interested.

The government defended the law as a proper regulation of a business affecting the public interests, designed to protect the consumer and also give a reasonable profit.

The law was attacked on the ground that it proposed governmental regulation of private business.

Wales Sees Wild Beasts From Air

NAIROBI (Africa) Feb. 24. (AP)—In addition to stalking game on foot, the Prince of Wales has had a fine aerial view of specimens of big game roaming about in their wild state on the great Athi Plain near here.

The chance came when the Prince paid a visit to the Nairobi Airdrome on the edge of a big game reserve where wild creatures including lions, wildebeest, gazelles and ostriches may be seen wandering right up to its boundaries. At the invitation of Pilot Black, the Prince made a short flight over the region, the pilot taking the plane over the plain where the Prince could see the animals in their native haunts.

EDITOR TALKS TO STUDENTS

'America Stresses Quantity, Not Quality, He Says

'Unthinking Worship of Size' Criticised

Happiness Linked to Riches, Says Speaker

PASADENA, Feb. 24.—"Because a man rides in a Rolls-Royce instead of on a donkey's back is no indication that he is civilized," asserted Syud Hossian, editor of the New Orient, in addressing the California Institute of Technology student body today.

"The great danger in the United States," declared the editor, "is the belief that industrial progress is synonymous with general social progress."

"An extraordinary tendency in America is the unthinking worship of size. Here radio is great, not because it enables great men to speak to the people but because it enables enormous audiences to hear. Similarly, a newspaper column is wonderful because it is read by 200,000 readers and not because of its intrinsic worth. Men are judged by their audiences, not by their words.

"Civilization should mean a measure of the virtues man has acquired." Hossian continued. "In the United States man is not even expected to be sober without the aid of legislation. We have sky-pilots masquerading as legislators to make us honest and good and to tell us what to eat.

"Happiness is becoming linked to an ever-increasing degree with the acquisition of things, instead of with the building up of peace of mind and enrichment of the soul."

Conservation of Water Asked

ONTARIO, Feb. 24.—Ranchers, citrus and deciduous growers and other consumers of water, today were urged to practice conservation of water as much as possible, in order that the community will not in the future face any shortage. The plea was sounded at the annual meeting of stockholders of San Antonio Water Company at Chaffey Union High School. George G. Laidlaw, president of the company, announced water levels are lower this year because of lesser rainfall.

In his annual report President Laidlaw suggested a series of check dams be built to hold back the rain waters and flood waters, causing it to sink into the gravel beds of the basin.

During 1929 the company made additions to its holdings totaling $165,778.01.

Present officers are G. G. Laidlaw, president; W. K. Beattie, vice-president; A. C. Reynolds, secretary-manager.

Still Found Under Floor

OXNARD, Feb. 24.—S. Gota, Japanese, was arrested Saturday night on charges of possession of a still, it was announced by the Oxnard police department today.

Headed by Chief of Police Joe Kerrick, Officers George Pryor and Richard Meeks raided the establishment at 702 Oxnard Boulevard. They found the still cleverly concealed under the wooden flooring.

The apparatus was well built with copper coils, with a capacity of five gallons. Some fifteen gallons of saki, Japanese whisky, and a quantity of rice mash was discovered. Gota was taken to the County Jail and faces charges of possession of apparatus designed to manufacture liquor.

AUTOIST'S DEATH CAUSES INQUEST

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24. An inquest will be conducted on the body of William P. McSwain of 4573 Sepulveda Boulevard, who was instantly killed yesterday when he drove his automobile into bridge railings on Laurel Canyon Boulevard just north of Ventura Boulevard. Some time after the accident McSwain's body was found by San Fernando police officers patrolling a section near the bridge. They say the car must have been going at a terrific speed for parts of the bridge were demolished by force of the impact. The body was conveyed to the McNamara Mortuary, where the inquest will be held.

NEW STREET NAME PROPOSED AT BEACH

MANHATTAN BEACH, Feb. 24.—A proposal asking the change of the name of Rosecrans avenue here to Compton Boulevard to conform with the recently completed boulevard improvement which connects Rosecrans here with Orange county points, is being prepared for presentation to the City Council. It is not expected that the move will be opposed. The Council is also investigating the advisability of widening the pavement to the east city limits.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—George Williamson was awarded the contract to build the new Christian Science Church that is to cost $15,000, and which will be erected on Morrison street near Lankershim Boulevard. Work on the new edifice will be completed as soon as possible.

FIRST MEETING IN YEARS

Riverside Water Company Finally Succeeds in Rounding Up a Quorum to Elect Officers

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 24.—Francis Cuttle today was re-elected president of the Riverside Water Company following the first stockholders' meeting in twenty-two years. The stock is sold with the land and since 1908 it has been impossible to obtain a quorum. At the election of directors this morning J. Harrison Wright, T. L. Richmond, Robert Webber and C. J. Hammer were retired from the board. The directors elected include M. B. Peterson, R. S. Keys, Scott Thursby, P. B. Goethals, E. S. Olson, Charles Moody, George Thomas, A. H. Halsted, C. R. Erwin, D. R. McMillan and Francis Cuttle.

As the initial act of the new board a resolution was passed demanding the complete reorganization of the company, which provides irrigation water for thousands of acres of citrus orchards in the Riverside district.

It is proposed to evolve a plan whereby "dead" stock will be eliminated and the problem of obtaining quorums for annual meetings solved. It is proposed to transfer stock of the company without title to the land.

The election followed many weeks of efforts by various factions to round up stock, and charges were heard that certain members of the former board of directors were making efforts to prevent a quorum being present.

DEATH IS CAUSED BY DRINKING

Autopsy Shows Acute Alcoholism Killed Michigan Banker

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 24.—Acute alcoholism caused the death of Robert Sproule, 65 years of age, wealthy Bay City (Mich.) banker found dead in his bed in a downtown hotel last Saturday morning, Coroner Kelly announced.

The cause of death was determined by Prof. Ernst Mundowald, County Hospital chemist, who made an analysis of the contents of the dead man's stomach today.

Sproule arrived here from Los Angeles Friday morning with a nephew, R. L. Sproule. They registered at a hotel and then made a trip to Tia Juana.

The elder Sproule retired shortly after 8 p.m., it was said, and was found dead early next morning by the house detective.

Elizabeth Sproule, widow of the dead man, is in Los Angeles. Coroner Kelly has received no word from her or from the nephew, who left shortly after the death. The body will be sent to Los Angeles for burial, Coroner Kelly said he learned today.

Pomona Man Killed by Train

POMONA, Feb. 24.—Identified as Joseph M. Garber, 48 years of age, of 217 East Seventh street, the mangled body of a man found alongside the Union Pacific tracks near the baggage room late last night, was being held in the Hotchkiss funeral home pending inquest, date of which has not been set.

Reconstructing the tragedy from statements made by J. S. Garber, a brother, residing at the same address, authorities established that the man, evidently in a hurry to get to church services, was struck by an eastbound passenger train at 7:10 p.m. last night, and his body lay beside the tracks for some time before its discovery.

His identity was not established until this morning when his brother called police in an endeavor to find out why the relative had not returned from church.

The deceased came to this city from Mt. Jackson, Va., six months ago to stay with his brother. He is survived also by a sister, Miss Virginia Garber Cole of Pomona, and another brother, I. N. Garber of Elgin, Ill. Funeral services have been deferred pending inquest.

HUGE BATTLE PLANE AT LONG BEACH

LONG BEACH, Feb. 24.—The first battleship of the air to reach the Pacific Coast attracted attention of aviation enthusiasts and navy men at the naval reserve base at the Municipal Airport here today.

The Curtiss A-3 battle plane, carrying six machine guns, the largest single-motored plane in the army equipment, was flown here from Kelly Field, San Antonio, by Lieut. Ralph Snavely, chief bombardment instructor at the Texas field.

Snavely visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Snavely, 3850 Wilton avenue, after landing here. He will fly to San Francisco and then return to San Antonio after a brief stay at Crissey Field.

The armament of the plane includes a half-inch cannon, six machine guns which can be fired simultaneously on a dive, and arrangements for carrying ten bombs.

MAY WIDEN ROAD IN SANTA SUSANA PASS

CHATSWORTH, Feb. 24. — If present plans of County Engineer Charles Petit are accepted by the Ventura County Board of Supervisors, the grade over Santa Susana Pass, between here and the Simi Valley, will be widened and straightened within the year. It is announced by Petit, who is completing estimates of expense for the job. The work, it is stated, will cost about $50,000.

Devonshire Boulevard, which leads from San Fernando Valley over the pass, is now being widened and paved and will cause a great increase of travel over the pass highway. For some time the widening of Santa Susana Pass highway has been in contemplation in anticipation of this increase of traffic from San Fernando Valley. The present road through the pass is one of the most attractive of scenic routes in Southern California.

REDONDO BEACH ELKS VISIT WHITTIER LODGE

REDONDO BEACH, Feb. 24.—Officers and drill team of the Redondo Beach lodge of Elks will conduct the initiatory ceremonies for a large class of candidates of the Whittier lodge on Wednesday evening.

This will be the first official visit of the lodge to the new home of the Whittier Elks and many of the membership will attend also, according to Secretary Tim Larson. Exalted Ruler Chris Schaeffer and Col. Robert Ingersoll, drill master, will head the local delegation.

Opposition of Council Looms

MONROVIA, Feb. 24.—Opposition voiced by the City Council that Monrovia should bear the expense of the continuation of Fifth avenue, the dividing line between Monrovia and Arcadia, as a part of the Huntington Drive bridge-widening project, looms as an obstacle in the proceedings with no immediate solution in view.

Plans already completed by the county's engineer's office call for the widening of the bridge which spans Santa Anita Wash, to conform with the present width of Huntington Drive. Widening of the bridge will remove a portion of the Fifth-avenue entrance and to assure a new opening for the street located at the east end of the bridge in Monrovia, it will be necessary to acquire adjoining property by either condemnation or a cash settlement with the owners. This phase of the project results in a stumbling block due to the fact that, although Fifth avenue is within the city limits of Monrovia, the adjoining property is in Arcadia, which collects the taxes from the land. It has been proposed that Monrovia should bear the expense for the new street entrance into the boulevard, which has been approximated at $1000, but city dads have other ideas concerning the matter. Latest reports among city officials are that the City Council of Arcadia have agreed to divide equally with Monrovia the expense involved in the difficult phase of the improvement.

According to City Clerk Meade of Arcadia, the City Council did pass a resolution last week that the city of Arcadia would bear half of the expense in connection with the extension of Fifth avenue.

Mayor A. J. Little emphatically stated today that it was not Monrovia's place to pay for this project. "Monrovia needs do not demand that this bridge be widened," declared Mayor Little. "State and county demand the widening, and I cannot see why this city should stand any expense in a project that brings no benefit to Monrovia people. The property is in Arcadia, which city receives the revenue from the land, and I can see no reason why Monrovia should bear the financial burden of extending the street."

Monrovia City Council for several months has been attempting to reach an agreement with the Arcadia board relative to improvement of Fifth avenue, but so far nothing has been accomplished.

The county will bear the expense of widening the bridge.

Woman Dies at Auto Wheel

SAN GABRIEL, Feb. 24.—Stricken with a heart attack while driving an automobile, Mrs. Catherine E. Hilts of 114 East Avenue 40, Los Angeles, expired just as the car came to a stop at the corner of Valley and San Gabriel boulevards, today.

Mrs. Hilts was driving the car, with her husband, W. A. Hilts, at her side, when she suddenly became ill. She motioned to him to take the wheel, but before he could do so she had slumped over unconscious. The Alhambra city ambulance was called, but the woman was dead upon arrival at the Alhambra Hospital.

BUSINESS MAN DIES AT SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 24.—Oscar Easley, 50 years of age, prominent business man of this city and an early resident, passed away suddenly at the clinic and hospital last night.

The body was taken to the Utter Mortuary in Alhambra, where the services will be held and interment in Forest Lawn Cemetery. Easley is survived by his widow, two sons, Clifford and William, and one brother, Carl, of Los Angeles.

The deceased was a Mason and a Shriner, a member of the Pasadena lodge of Elks, and a member of the San Clemente order of the Eastern Star. He came to this city when it was first laid out and was elected a member of the City Council when the town was incorporated. He was the owner of valuable property here.

PIONEER GARDENER DIES

VAN NUYS, Feb. 24.—N. Schwegel, 64 years of age, of 14526 Hartland street, pioneer San Fernando Valley nurseryman and landscape gardener, died here today. Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. from the Van Nuys funeral parlors. He is survived by his widow and one son. He had been a resident of the State for thirty years.

FLIES FOR NEW RECORD

Glider Expert Establishes New Mark

Hawley Bowlus Takes Off
Sailplane starts on epoch-making flight.

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 24. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, spurred by reports of strong winds about San Diego, came here today in hopes of personally demonstrating glider operation on sustained currents. He found it possible, however, to make only one flight, lasting twenty or twenty-five minutes, but with which he was much pleased as he was able to soar northward along the coast a distance of approximately fifteen miles.

Taking off from Mt. Soledad, high bluff a half-mile from the sea shore between San Diego and La Jolla, Col. Lindbergh soared at ease in circles for ten minutes. Then, heading northward along the precipitous shore, the glider was seen slowly to settle lower, but still progressing until it faded from sight against the yellow bluffs.

LANDED SAFELY ON SAND

Observers watching from the take-off point were surprised to find, upon motoring up the coast to search for him, that Lindbergh had successfully rounded a high point and landed on the sandy beach nearly fifteen miles from Mt. Soledad.

The flight marked the christening by Lindbergh of a newly built Bowlus sailplane, it not having previously been given a real test in the air. Lindbergh expressed considerable elation over the length of his glide, which is the longest he has made, but stated that he would not return here until notified by Hawley Bowlus, builder of the glider, that "real winds" prevail.

RETURNED TO LOS ENGELES

He explained he wished winds strong enough to carry him past the "weak spots," or flat spaces, where no upcurrents are met, to learn more about the capacities of the glider. He returned to Los Angeles in his Falcon biplane this evening.

Previous to making the sole flight of the day, Lindbergh had one glider set up on the seaward tip of Point Loma and the other on Mt. Soledad, ten miles away. Considerable discussion of the merits of wind conditions at the two places ensued before Mt. Soledad was chosen. The movement of the gliders mounted on automobile trailers over the coast highway attracted many motorists to the scene and more than 100 persons watched Lindbergh's take-off and flight.

Remaining in the air over Point Loma 9 hours, 5 minutes and 27 2-5 second, Bowlus, American glider endurance record holder, established two new American records last night. Bowlus took off from Point Loma at 5:37:03 p.m. yesterday and landed at 2:43¼ a.m. today.

American altitude and duration records for gliders were broken during the flight, Bowlus remaining aloft nearly three hours longer than he did on a former record-breaking flight of six hours forty-five minutes and attaining an altitude of from 800 to 1000 feet. The former record of altitude for gliders was 600 feet, according to William Van Dusen, San Diego representative for American Aeronautical Association, who witnessed the flight in an official capacity.

Tujunga Plans Annual Journey to Mission Play

TUJUNGA, Feb. 24.—Next Sunday will be the day for the annual pilgrimage of John Steven McGroarty's neighbors of Tujunga and Sunland to see the Mission Play at San Gabriel. Plans have been made to carry a large crowd by a motor-bus line, and many others will go in private automobiles.

This year, the local attendance is expected to be twice as large as it has been heretofore. Next Sunday the Mission Play will have reached its three thousand and sixteenth performance, outdistancing all other stage productions in the history of the world in number of performances and in the numbers of persons who have seen the play several times.

Noted Flyer Must Pay Wife

LONG BEACH, Feb. 24. (AP)—Superior Court today ordered Leslie Arnold, former United States Army airplane pilot and one of the army round-the-world flyers, to pay Mrs. Mildred Avery Arnold $75 a month temporary alimony pending trial of a separate maintenance suit filed by the wife.

The hearing was a sequel to a series of marital disputes between the couple which started after Arnold presumably obtained a divorce and then married Priscilla Dean, former motion-picture star.

Shortly after his marriage to Miss Dean, Mrs. Mildred Arnold started action in Atlanta (Ga.) courts and succeeded in having the divorce decree set aside. Arnold and Miss Dean were married in 1928 at Agua Caliente, but they separated when they learned Mrs. Mildred Arnold had annulled the decree.

Mrs. Arnold then began a separate maintenance suit but process servers could not locate Arnold immediately. He was reported in various cities and after three months, the papers finally were presented to him.

At the hearing, Arnold testified that he was working for a commercial aircraft company here and had a salary of $100 a week which he "didn't always get." Besides the temporary alimony, the court also ordered him to pay $50 court costs and $100 attorney fees. Date for hearing of the suit was not set.

Arnold first married in 1918 in New York City, but he and Mrs. Mildred Arnold lived together only a short time before he was called to war. The couple did not live together after the close of the war and in 1926, Arnold started suit for divorce in Atlanta. Two years later, a decree granted him was annulled.

DEMURRER FILED IN HARBOR FIGHT

VENTURA, Feb. 24.—Chairman T. G. Gabbert, Secretary Richard Bard and John T. Rooney never legally have been members of the Ventura County Harbor Commission. Such is a new allegation made today by Dist.-Atty. Hillingsworth and his deputy, Don Hold, in filing with the State Supreme Court their demurrers, answer and return in the mandamus action brought by the harbor commission in an effort to force the Board of Supervisors to call an election for voting of $2,000,000 Hueneme bond issue. The case is set for hearing March 4 at Los Angeles.

TWIN GIRLS BORN TO YOUNG BANKER'S WIFE

VAN NUYS, Feb. 24.—Twin girls were born today to Mr. and Mrs. W. Park Newcomer. Newcomer is head of the escrow department of the Security-First National Bank at Van Nuys and one of the champion amateur tennis players of Southern California. Mrs. Newcomer was Miss Ida Englehardt before her marriage about two years ago.

Child Saved by Inhalator

PASADENA, Feb. 24.—Restored to consciousness by the local fire department's inhalator squad, 2-year-old Donald Griffith is reported to be recovering from the effects of camphor poisoning. Mistaking the bottles, the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Griffith of 2338 Sierra Madre street, gave him a dose of camphorated instead of castor oil early today.

The baby became violently ill and when he lapsed into unconsciousness at 4 a.m. he was rushed to Keaster's Hospital. Failing in a frantic effort to revive the still form, Dr. W. M. De Tuncq telephoned for the inhalator squad.

Alternating between the manual and mechanical method of artificial respiration, the firemen worked until 7:30 a.m., when the small victim was breathing so normally that he was pronounced out of danger.

DRUG STORES ROBBED

Bandits and Burglars Get Cash and Liquor at Establishments in Glendale

GLENDALE, Feb. 24.—An armed bandit who posed as a customer when he first entered the Beal Drug Store at Glenoaks Boulevard and Irving street last night returned a few minutes later as H. F. Beal, the owner, was locking up and forced Beal, at the point of an automatic, to go into the back room and lie down on the floor before he proceeded to rob the cash register.

A customer, B. Bowker, 1840 Glenwood Road, who was in the store with Beal, was also forced to lie down and the bandit tied both men with rope and wire that he took from a brief case he was carrying. Beal was slow in obeying orders to lie down and the bandit shifted the brief case to his other hand long enough to draw a blackjack and strike Beal with it on the jaw.

The cash register yielded $95 and the robber also took a quantity of narcotics before he walked out and closed the door behind him. Beal and Bowker worked for ten minutes before they could free themselves of their bonds and call the police.

Another burglar who wore rubber gloves to avoid leaving fingerprints, robbed the Brown Pharmacy, 227 North Central avenue, taking eight pints of whisky, a pint of brandy and $147.16 that had been concealed in a closet. Entrance to the store was obtained by a pass key.

RAIN CAUSES ACCIDENTS

Four Injured in Five Auto Wrecks in Ontario District Over Week-end

UPLAND, Feb. 24.—Four persons injured in five automobile crashes in this community was the toll of Sunday's sudden rainstorm, it was made known at San Antonio Community Hospital today. Traffic on highways through Upland was unusually heavy as the last day of the National Orange Show at San Bernardino caused hundreds of motorists to travel east.

Floyd F. Young, 35, his wife and Marie Thompson, four years old, were taken to the hospital after Young's car blew out a front tire and ran into a telephone pole.

Severe cuts, bruises and sprains sent Arthur Robinson, 23, of Tacoma, Wash., to bed in the hospital. He was struck down by an automobile driven assertedly by Iva Glass, 24, of Los Angeles. Robinson was walking at the edge of the highway. The driver reported glaring headlights on an approaching automobile so blinded him he could not see Robinson.

Two cars crashed in the center of the highway, but so far as police could learn no one was hurt, although the occupants of the two machines vanished a few moments after the crash.

The fact that Leroy Monce, 18, of Ontario, was driving at a speed of fifteen miles an hour probably saved the life of Dorothy Hall, 5-year-old Upland girl. Dorothy ran from behind a car parked at the curb and ran directly in front of Monce's car. She was struck down and painfully, though not seriously, injured.

LUTHERANS TO MEET IN INGLEWOOD

Last Meeting of Ohio Synod Before Merger With American Church

INGLEWOOD, Feb. 24.—Lutherans, both clergy and laymen, from many points in the United States will gather in Inglewood this week for the annual convention of the California District of the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio, this synod being one of three in the United States. Sessions will be held daily beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding at 4:30 p.m., in the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of Inglewood, corner of Buckthorn and Grevilles streets, and will be presided over by Rev. G. F. Paushart of Santa Ana, president of the California district.

Speakers of the convention will include Rev. E. A. Rode of Rio Linda, Cal.; Rev. C. C. Hein, D.D., of Columbus, O.; Rev. R. H. Long, also of Columbus; Rev. G. H. Schuster, pastor of the Inglewood church.

Large Class Applies for Citizenship

REDLANDS, Feb. 24.—Three Redlands residents are included in the list of fourteen San Bernardino county persons who will appear before Superior Judge F. A. Leonard on March 12 to take the naturalization examination necessary to secure citizenship in the United States.

The fourteen prospective American citizens represent a dozen nationalities, according to the tabulation made in the County Clerk's office, and ports of entry on all sides of the country have admitted the applicants to the United States.

The Redlands residents are George Basil Nash and Thomas N. Nash from Ireland and David Dejager from the Netherlands.

San Bernardino residents seeking to become citizens of this country include Henning Loock, who came from Denmark; Imrich Lettunich from Czecho-Slovakia, William Bird from England, Mrs. Jennie Walters from Lithuania, George P. S. Langon from Brazil, Edward E. Lanser from the Netherlands and Andrew P. Patalis from Greece.

The remaining persons to ask admittance to American citizenship include Mrs. Clara Siegel of Ontario from Rumania, Louis Beggenster of Chino from Switzerland, John H. Kay of Fontana from Scotland and John William Anderson of Fontana from Sweden.

Boat Aground Near San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 24.—Second of last season's most successful San Diego swordfish boats to be wrecked this winter, the fifty-foot rock cod fish boat Mina G., owned and operated by W. C. Chase, went ashore last week on a rocky spit near the entrance to Turtle Bay, about 350 miles south of Point Loma, according to report at the water front today. The vessel is believed to be a total loss, although attempts may be made to salvage the forty-five-horsepower Atlas-Imperial Diesel engine, it is reported.

With the swordfish boat Success now aground at the south end of North Island, the Mina G. was high in swordfish catches made last season, being second only to the Success, which broke all records for swordfish catches during 1929. Details of the cause of the grounding of the Mina G. last week were not available today.

LITTLE INTEREST IN SCHOOL ELECTION

MONROVIA, Feb. 24.—From tentative appearances the approaching school-board election will be as quiet as the city election. The term of W. G. Barks, local optometrist, of the high-school board expires this year and whether he will run for another term has not yet been announced by him.

Former Mayor A. J. Everest will automatically retire from the elementary school board this spring unless he seeks re-election. Announcement concerning the candidacies will be forthcoming. The school-board election will be held on March 28, it was announced today, and nomination blanks must be filed ten days prior to the election.

New Pastor for Redlands Parish

REDLANDS, Feb. 24.—H. O. Hofstead, D.D., has arrived in the city with Mrs. Hofstead from Alexandria, Va., to become pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here. They drove from Virginia. He takes a pastorate that has been vacant for more than a year, since the resignation of Rev. Paul Prichard.

Dr. Hofstead is a graduate of Yale and holds academic degrees of A.B. and A.M., and divinity degrees of B.D. and D.D. Within the past two months he has received calls from several churches, including the First Presbyterian Church of Moundsville, Va., and the Associate Congregational Church of Baltimore. He had been preaching in the Baltimore church before accepting the Redlands call.

Prior to the Baltimore pastorate, Dr. Hofstead was pastor for twelve years of the Church-avenue Presbyterian Church of Memphis, Tenn. He has occupied pulpits in the largest churches of New York City and Brooklyn.

The automobile journey was a novel experience for the new pastor and Mrs. Hofstead. After leaving Virginia, they traveled through North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and the Spanish trail to Texas. Then to Phoenix and the many-detoured trail to Yuma and up through Imperial Valley to Redlands. They experienced all manner of weather, rain, sun and sandstorms, but arrived yesterday thrilled with their tour of 4000 miles and enthusiastic to start their Redlands residence.

INDIO DRUGGIST IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

INDIO, Feb. 24.—Jay M. Mahoney, 40 years of age, pharmacist at the Indio Drug Company store here, is lying at the point of death in a hospital in Los Angeles following an automobile accident yesterday on the State highway about thirty miles east of here in Imperial county. Mahoney was on his way to Imperial Valley and as far as could be learned no one was in the car with him. He is believed to have gotten a wheel off into the sand and in attempting to turn back to the pavement his car turned over three times.

Mahoney was unconscious when found by passing motorists and was brought to the Community Hospital here. He had not regained consciousness when taken to Los Angeles late last night. At the local hospital it was found he had sustained a fractured skull and several broken ribs. The car, which he had bought two days before, was demolished.

Alois Podrasnik, commander of the local G.A.R. post, responded to the various talks. C. H. Preis, commander of John F. Dillon camp, was master of ceremonies.

GUNMEN WAGE HOSPITAL WAR

Three Raid Room and Fire on Wounded Patient

Victim Known as Chicago's "Toughest Gangster"

Three Bullets Find Mark Perhaps Fatally

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. (AP)—Frank McErlane, known as Chicago's "toughest gangster," was wounded, probably fatally, tonight by three assailants as he lay on a cot in a hospital room.

McErlane, who entered the hospital as "Charles Miller, a soap salesman," fired back at his assailants as they fled down a fire escape. McErlane, who was being treated for bullet wounds in his leg, was wounded three times in the firing.

One shot entered his back, another in the right wrist and a third in the right thigh. Hospital authorities said his wounds probably will be fatal.

When McErlane was admitted to the hospital January 28, he told attendants he had accidentally shot himself while cleaning a pistol.

After tonight's episode, police believe he was shot then by rival gangsters, who returned tonight to finish their victim.

BREAK WITH PRINCESS DENIED

Marriage Set for April in Bucharest

New Picture of Princess Ileana and Count Alexander Hochberg

LONDON, Feb. 24. (AP)—A Cannes dispatch to the London Daily Mail today quoted Count Alexander von Hochberg as saying stories from Bucharest that his engagement with Princess Ileana of Rumania had been broken were "fabrications of the Rumanian government, which wants the Princess to marry a Crown Prince."

He declared: "We love one another. I have done nothing to be ashamed of. My fiancee knows me well enough to trust me. We are going to be married in Bucharest April 27. I am going to Pless and London and thence to Cairo, and will return to Cannes about March 25 with the Princess."

When asked regarding reports of his imprisonment in Germany the Count replied that there was a certain amount of truth in them, but the affair had occurred when he was a boy and he regarded it as blackmail. They could have hushed the case with money, he said, but preferred to take it into court, where a nominal fine was imposed. He said he was not sentenced to imprisonment.

ICE PACK KEEPS BYRD SHIP BUSY

Party Expects to Meet Up With Whalers Thursday

Thoughts Turn Back to Plan Left on Hill Behind

BY RUSSELL OWEN

[Copyright, 1930, by The Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and St. Louis Post Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.]

ABOARD BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (Tuesday) (Exclusive)—Last evening the New York, bearing the Byrd expedition home, began to encounter scattered pack ice much before it had been expected and all last night the ship was running before a favorable wind, dodging in and out between broken floes and large pieces of pack. This morning a strong wind from the southeast is driving us north through heavy masses of ice around which the ship works its way, occasionally bringing up against one with a force that would smash an unprotected steel ship.

There is a long swell which shows that the storm would kick up a sea if it were not for the ice blanket which holds it down.

TO MEET WHALERS SOON

The ice was encountered so much farther south than had been expected, at least 2 deg. lower than it was when the New York came out of the pack on the way to the barrier, that probably a lot of ice has been blown from the ice fields to the east. If this is so, this loose pack is probably about seventy-five miles wider than it was before, although there is the possibility that the northerly winds of a few days ago opened up the pack and blew part of it south.

The whalers on the northern edge of the pack should be reached early day after tomorrow if the pack is not too heavy and if it is possible the dogs will be placed on one of them which is returning in a short time to New Zealand so as to get them out of the well deck amidships where they would suffer in the heavy weather in the middle latitudes. That also will leave the decks clear for working the ship and she will be in good shape to make the passage back despite the severe punishment she took on the way down.

PLANES STORED SAFELY

It was to keep the decks clear that the smaller plane could not be brought back. It was, of course, impossible to get the big plane aboard the New York, which is a small ship with little stowage space, and when it was found that the Eleanor Bolling could not come through because of the heavy ice this year, all hope of returning the Ford to the States had to be abandoned. But the two planes are stowed carefully on a hill back of Little America and it may be possible to get them at some time. They are safe there so long as the barrier stays in its present condition at that spot.

SUN-MAID CUTS AD CONTRACTS

Farm Board Issues Order Following Price Slash

New Move Said to Involve $750,000 Expenditure

Called Drastic Effort to Cut Down Expenses

FRESNO, Feb. 24.—Following telegraphic notification of brokers and divisional offices last night of drastic cuts on prices of Sun-Maid raisins, effective today, it became known today that the Federal Farm Board has ordered cancellation of all Sun-Maid advertising contracts, aggregating approximately $750,000. Both actions were the result of action by the Farm Board, operating through C. C. Teague, who has charge of the promulgation of an industry program for the co-operative.

The price reductions, which range as high as $30 per ton on Sun-Maid carton packs, and which are scaled downward from that point to one-quarter of a cent a pound on some varieties and packs, are the most drastic that have been made in ten years. It is said that the reductions on the carton goods will return the association less than the $60-per-ton advances to the growers under the Farm Board's guarantee.

In a circular addressed to the brokers, Carlyle Thorpe, manager of the California Walnut Growers' Association and Farm Board representative in the realignment of Sun-Maid's affairs, said the "plan is to hit bottom prices in our first offering through brokers, and thus develop a strong and advancing market as the system progresses."

The circular said the new policy is to divide Sun-Maid's stocks on hand into six equal blocks and to advance the price as each block is sold, the advances being from one-eighth to one-half cent per pound.

These developments, in connection with the recent announcement of a policy of marketing through brokers and virtual abolition of Sun-Maid's big marketing organization, scattered throughout the United States, are taken locally to indicate that the Farm Board's policy will be one of cutting overhead to an irreducible minimum and of moving the entire current crop by November 1, when the new crop will be ready for the market.

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ½ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."—[Advertisement.

PAPER COMPANY TO OFFER NOTES

Crown Zellerbach Issue Totals $10,000,000

Debentures to Carry Stock Purchase Warrants

Banking Group to Distribute Six Per Cent Bonds

Public offering of an issue of $10,000,000 ten-year 6 per cent sinking fund gold debentures with common stock purchase warrants of the Crown Zellerbach Corporation is expected to be made shortly by a banking group headed by Blyth & Co., and including Bancamerica-Blair Corporation and Continental Illinois Company, according to an announcement yesterday.

The warrants will entitle the holder of each $1000 debenture to purchase twenty shares of the corporation's common stock at a price close to the prevailing market quotations on the New York Stock Exchange.

With its subsidiaries, including Crown Willamette Paper Company and Pacific Mills, Ltd., the corporation is the second largest producer of paper products in the world, with assets of more than $117,000,000. For the first eight months of the current fiscal year to December 31, last, it reports a balance of net profits of $3,505,970 after payment of dividends on preferred stock of subsidiaries and allowance for minority interests. This is at the rate of more than eight and one-half times interest charges on this issue, it was stated.

For this period the corporation's earnings were running at the annual rate of approximately $2.25 a share on the common stock, while estimates place the earnings on the common for the fiscal year starting May 1, next, at an annual rate of $3 per share. This improvement will reflect directly investments made in additional properties resulting in increased production, much of which is sold under contract.

Products of the corporation, sold chiefly west of the Rocky Mountains through its own organization, include newsprint, sulphite and kraft, wrapping papers, tissue papers, waxed papers, paper bags and fruit wraps, and such products as solid fiber and corrugated containers, cartons, folding and stiff boxes, paper cans, oyster pails and nationally distributed brands of towels and bathroom tissues.

New Conversion Loan Offered by Great Britain

LONDON, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—Announcement of a new 4½ per cent government conversion loan, 1940-44, made after business hours in the money market on Saturday, came as a complete surprise to the financial district, as not even a rumor had been current regarding the offer.

The amount is not stated, and it is for cash to holders of the £134,700,000 5½ per cent treasury bonds due May 15. Reduction of the floating debt is the general object of the offer.

The debt today is £86,000 lower compared with the same date in 1929, but the advantage due to the success of the conversion loan of November will be largely lost in May, when £55,000,000 of 5½ per cent bonds unconverted in the November operation will be due for redemption. Although there is no limit to the subscriptions, it is to be assumed that the treasury aims raising somewhere about this £55,000,000.

Brake Group to Consider Deal

Stockholders of the Hydraulic Brake Company and the Hydraulic Brake Associates, Ltd., at a special meeting yesterday called for the purpose of considering an exchange of the stock of the Hydraulic Brake Company for stock in another company, appointed a committee to negotiate on merger proposals, W. Mr. Bintliff declined to deny or affirm rumors circulated on the street that Bendix Aviation Corporation, holding patents to the Bendix brake, has made an offer to exchange its shares for shares of the Hydraulic Brake Company. Officials of the Bendix company in Los Angeles also declined to comment. Another meeting has been called for March 3.

FUTURE OF GAS SKETCHED

New York Investment Banker Predicts Lines of Natural Gas System Will Soon Cover Nation

BY EARLE E. CROWE

George L. Ohrstrom, New York investment banker, is a bull on natural gas. Interested in two large natural gas companies himself, he remarked yesterday on his arrival here that nearly every large city in the country, as he found on his present swing through the larger centers, is anticipating the day when the pipe lines of the expanding transmission companies will arrive.

WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR STOCK

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE, S. PAUL

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad operates 10,235 miles of road, of which 650 miles are electrically operated. The territory includes eleven States, with the company's major network of lines concentrated in the region between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains. Of the total freight carried, mine products constitute 36 per cent, manufactures 24 per cent, agricultural products 18 per cent and forest products 14 per cent. Approximately three-fourths of all the company's freight traffic originates on its own lines.

The present company represents the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company and took over the operations of the properties on January 14, 1928. Gross income for the period from January 14 to December 31, 1928, was $165,000,000, the highest in the company's history, and the operating ratio was reduced from 83 to 73 per cent. A further gain was shown for the eleven months ended November 30, 1929, when gross was $159,000,000, compared with $137,000,000 in 1928. Net income for this period amounted to $6.04 per share on the preferred stock and $1.48 per share on the common.

Successful transmission of natural gas from Louisiana to St. Louis, a distance of 536 miles, and from Louisiana to Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., a distance of 450 miles, has awakened other cities to the possibilities of cheap fuel, Mr. Ohrstrom said. Chicago, he observed, is counting heavily on the extension of the St. Louis line and up in the Northwest Minneapolis and St. Paul are ready to take whatever quantity Chicago fails to use.

MARKET WIDENS

There is also discussion, Mr. Ohrstrom said, of running natural-gas lines into New York City; and over at Seattle he learned that industrialists are hoping for the extention of lines from the Kettleman field into the Pacific Northwest. One of the companies in which he is interested is projecting a line from the Monroe field in Louisiana into Omaha, Neb.

So much progress has been made in the discovery and measuring of natural gas supplies and in the solution of the mechanical problems involved in long-distance transmission that Mr. Ohrstrom believes the time is not far distant when natural-gas lines will cover the country. There is no doubt of the demand, and the alert geologists, engineers and executive officers of the gas companies are working deligently, he said, to balance the other end of the equation.

Next, this authority predicted, will come the era of super-holding companies, along the line of the United Corporation in the light-and-power field. To date the expansion has been conducted by operating companies of the type of American Natural Gas and Southern Natural Gas, properties in which Mr. Ohrstrom is interested in which his banking house finances.

Important financial interests are already taking a hand in natural gas. The Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, the company that recently completed the 536-mile line from the Monroe field to St. Louis, is controlled by a syndicate including the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, United Gas Company and Electric Bond and Share Company. This group owns the prolific Monroe field, from which it expects to supply its St. Louis line with 150,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily in the early months of this year.

MAY LINK FIELDS

Interconnection of transmission systems, Mr. Ohrstrom believes, will follow as soon as the large holding companies come into natural gas. With gas fields interconnected the danger of interruption in service or of shortage will be eliminated. Against these possibilities the operating companies are now opening up smaller fields along the routes of their pipe lines. Geological crews are constantly at work exploring likely gas territory.

Mechanically, the industry has made substantial progress in surmounting the difficulties of long-distance transmission. Mr. Ohrstrom sketched the progress made in the manufacture of lighter pipe, permitting more footage, less tonnage and longer units. Coupling connections have been devised to give flexibility to meet variations in temperature, and ditching machines have simplified the laying of the pipe systems.

Mr. Ohrstrom will remain in Los Angeles for a few days conferring with his representatives here, after which he will start on his return journey.

EXPANSION OF FIDELITY ANNOUNCED

Loan Unit's Addition to Board Viewed as Entry of New Control

Consolidation of the Guarantee Building and Loan Association of San Bernardino and the Equitable Building and Loan Association of Pasadena with the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles was announced yesterday by George L. Eastman, president of the Fidelity.

Combined resources of the San Bernardino and Pasadena associations, according to the announcement, are approximately $4,000,000. Resources of the Fidelity Savings and Loan are increased through the transaction to more than $37,000,000.

Mr. Eastman also announced the election to the directorate of the Fidelity Savings and Loan of A. E. Grow, president of the Equitable Building and Loan Association of Pasadena; Fred L. Wilke, investment banker, and Erle M. Leaf, president of the National Bank of Commerce. Mr. Leaf was also elected executive vice-president of the Fidelity.

Election of the foregoing men to the board of the Fidelity follows, it is understood, the purchase by Equitable Associates of controlling interest in Fidelity Associates, Inc., the holding company.

Acquisition of the Pasadena and San Bernardino institutions, Mr. Eastman said, is in line with a policy of conservative expansion recently formulated by the Fidelity under which it is intended to extend its facilities to outlying communities. During the last year the resources of the Fidelity increased by $2,318,344.89, and surplus, undivided profits and reserves increased $351,841.95.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—A further severe decline occurred in the cotton market today under renewed March liquidation and more or less general selling. All active months were made new low records for the season under the pressure which was promoted by suggestions of March notices tomorrow and weakness in wheat, while arguments advanced in favor of reduced acreage in the South served to encourage bearish views of the present crop position.

The midafternoon market was within 2 or 3 points of the lowest and barely steady at net declines of about 30 to 36 points.

BRITONS IN COPPER SEARCH

Airplane Survey of Huge Area in Rhodesia and Sudan to Require Eighteen Months

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—British interests are exploring Africa these days with the aim of locating copper deposits, as well as a lot of other things.

Two of their expeditions are about to begin surveying Rhodesia and the Sudan, where nearly 100,000 square miles of unmapped territory are to be mapped and photographed. A photographic map, using about 15,000 photographs, constructed on a scale of four miles to an inch, will be pieced together by these expeditions as a part of the survey job.

It will take fully eighteen months to do the work. In the days before airplanes, at least fifteen years would have been required.

The Rhodesian survey is expected to reveal the outline of a very rich copper district. British interests in Africa are already producing much copper, but this new survey is expected to show other rich deposits.

American copper interests, which control a vast amount of copper in the United States and South America, are watching the expansion of British copper production with more and more interest.

Canada has buckled down to pay her war debt. Her 10,000,000 of people have heavy taxes for current expenses, but each year her total funded debt shows a slight decrease over the preceding year.

For the calendar year just closed the funded debt was decreased a little more than $50,000,000—from $2,362,853,000 at which it stood on December 31, 1928, to $2,304,894,000 at the close of the last calendar year.

The figures furnished by the Canadian Department of Finance show that there were increases of nearly $20,000,000 in dominion notes and nearly $9,000,000 in government annuities, insurance and superannuation funds, as well as a decrease of about $3,500,000 in the deposits of postoffice and dominion government savings banks.

Canada's credit ranks among the best in the world's market centers.

"Prosperity, in the final analysis, is governed by just two things—work and thrift," says H. D. Ivey, Los Angeles banker. "There never has been a time and there never will when we shall lack prosperity, if our 120,000,000 people hold fast to the determination to be industrious, and to practice thrift, which is but a sensible application of foresight."

Some time ago a statement was made in various newspapers that some banking groups in the East were planning to enter the branch banking field in California, and this statement was attributed to Mr. Ivey. The statement was inaccurate.

What Mr. Ivey, who is president of the Citizens' National Bank, did say was that business opportunities were such in California that some of the larger eastern industrialists were planning to invest a considerable amount of money in the southern part of California.

"No banking institution incorporated outside of the State of California can enter the banking business legally in the State," says Mr. Ivey.

Turnover Smallest for Session in Month

Wheat and Cotton Decline; Curb Enthusiasm

List Generally Moderately Lower at Closing

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—Stock prices drifted lower in the dullest session of the Stock Exchange in more than a month today. Price drastic declines in the wheat and cotton markets and indications of ...end business reports ...turned the damper on speculative enthusiasm. Total sales were 2,320,430 shares, about 300,000 less than Friday's.

Losses were largely fractional, the price index of ninety representative shares showing a decline of less than 3 points, and the market suffered primarily from lack of demand rather than extensive offerings. A bear group operating in southern resorts was said to have applied a little pressure here and there.

The opinion prevails that the recession in commodity prices is rapidly passing its most severe stages, but the situation, particularly at this season of the year, is clouded with uncertainty, with the Farm Board presenting a new element of untested influence, the probable effects upon business found extraordinarily difficult to estimate.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—The bond market was dull but steady today. Prices edged upward and eased off in confusing fashion, leaving an even mixture of gains and losses which, in the case of the high-grade listings, were scarcely half a point in extent. The volume of the day's languid business was about $1,500,000.

United States governments labored below the Friday total.

...through one of the dullest sessions in weeks. Turnover for all the listed issues did not reach $100,000 par value, and fluctuations were minute, with closing quotations off slightly from the previous close.

One of the busiest groups was the foreign section. For the most part an early advance in prominent loans failed to hold, although net gains predominated. The easing tendency, however, carried through the close in Argentine 6s "A," Belgium 7s, Chile 6s, Rome 6½s and a few others. Australia 5s of 1957 lost a point, Cuba 5½s, Belgium 6s, Italy 7s and numerous French issues were firm.

In the prime domestic rails there were unimportant declines in Santa Fe general 4s and Pennsylvania general 5s.

Convertibles sold off in sympathy with stocks. American Telephone 4½s lost 2½ points net, International Telephone 4½s dropped 2¾ and Alchison 4½s fell 3. Weakness of Cuba Dominican Sugar listings featured the industrials. The 7½s tumbled 5½ points to equal their low of 34, while the certificates of deposit sagged 4 points to 34, a record low.

Inquiry for the utilities was light.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (for thousands of dollars) and the highest and closing prices in order given. To expedite transactions, the close is omitted when the range is the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

BARKER PROFITS SHOW INCREASE

Report Reveals 6 Per Cent Gain Over 1928

Net Earnings Equal $4.10 on Common Capital

Plans Made for Banner 1930 "Golden Jubilee"

Consolidated net profits of Barker Bros. Corporation for the year closed December 31, last, amounted to $810,528 after all charges including taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $4.10 a share on the 150,000 common shares outstanding, according to the annual statement issued yesterday by Clarence Barker, president. Current dividends on the common stock are at the annual rate of $2 a share.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Price Level Yields Fractionally on Light Sales; Hydraulic Brake Slumps

Listless activity marked the resumption of trading yesterday following a two-day recess on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the few selling orders accumulated over the week-end caused a general fractional recession. The value of the day's operations amounted to less than half of Friday's session.

Hydraulic Brake was a highlight of the market as on a rumored merger deal with Bendix, the stock broke 5 points to 35. The action of the stock was accompanied by unofficial reports that ten Hydraulic Brake shares would be exchanged for eight Bendix. A stockholders' meeting of Hydraulic Brake appointed a committee to negotiate on merger proposals.

Transamerica led the activity with a turnover of 2300 shares and slipped back ⅛ to 45½. Security-First National Bank scored another new peak for the year, up ½ to 115, and closed at 114 3-4. California Bank held firm to 115.

Oils turned slightly softer with Union and Union Associates each ◆off 1-4 to 42 and 41½, respectively, and Rio Grande yielding 3-8 to 18 1-4. Standard Oil of California, particularly active on Friday, was not traded, having a closing bid posted at 58 3-8. Signal Oil, an inactive issue, crossed the board at 27½, off 2½ points. Richfield, on sales of only 300 shares, held steady to 23 3-4. Shell traded unchanged at 21½.

Pacific Finance was relatively active and eased 1-8 to 39 on turnover of 1000 shares. International Re-Insurance advanced 3-4 to 46¼ and Foster & Kleiser, 1 1-8 points to 8 1-8. Claude Neon of Delaware, traded quietly and eased 3-8 to 42 5-8.

Sales totaled 12,327 shares, valued at $410,495; previous day, 29,392 shares, valued at $1,002,445.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—Stock prices drifted lower in today's curb market with selling inspired by the break in commodity prices, higher money rates and President Hoover's declaration that higher taxes were likely unless there was a sharp curtailment in governmental expenditures proposed in Congress. The reaction embraced practically all groups of stocks, with the bulk of the day's activity again in the public utility group. The day's sales totaled only 831,300 shares.

Electric Bond and Share was in rather free supply, closing 2½ points lower at 94½, which contrasts with the recent high of 102¾. American Gas and Electric dropped 6½ points, American and Foreign Power warrants 2¾, and Brazilian Light and Traction, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Power Associated, Hydro-Electric, United Light and Power convertible preferred and Utilities Power lost a point or more. American Light and Traction jumped 6¼ points, Duke Power 5¼, and Sierra Pacific Electric and Tampa Electric recorded moderate gains.

Aluminum Company of America broke 30 points to 316, which contrasts with the year's high of 348 and a low of 278. Deere & Co. (new) broke 5 points to 113 and Metropolitan Chain Stores sank 13 points to 24, both new 1930 lows.

Stock of the new General Petroleum Corporation, which was organized to merge the assets of the Standard Oil Company of New York, and the Vacuum Oil Company, subject to government approval, was admitted to unlisted trading privileges. A few hundred shares changed hands at 32½ and 33⅛. Vacuum closed 2 points higher at 93. Gulf Oil secured 1½.

Investment trust, trading and holding corporation shares were heavy, losses of a point or more being recorded by Goldman Sachs, Lehman, Graymur and Ungerleider. Radio and aviation shares were quiet, with most of the leaders showing slight recessions.

A break of nearly 10 points in General Theaters Equipment 6s featured the trading in curb bonds.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Wheat Crashes to Low Mark of Fifteen Years

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. (AP)—In a sensational collapse of all grain prices today, wheat suffered a vertical drop of 7¾ cents a bushel, outdoing records going back fifteen years. Whirlwind selling rushes and extreme dearth of buyers tumbled wheat values down to 56 cents a bushel below the season's top figures, barely escaping the old-time land mark of $1 a bushel here, but hitting it squarely at Kansas City. Reports of threatened exhaustion of storage facilities, with no adequate quick export outlet in sight, appeared to have nearly demoralized the wheat trade, forcing corn, oats, and rye into upsets of all previous low price records this season.

Fluctuating widely, Chicago wheat trading closed excited, 5¼ to 6¼ cents a bushel lower than Friday's finish. Corn closed 2¾ to 3¼ cents down; oats ¾ to 1¼ cents off, and provisions showing 20 to 25 cents drop.

Rivaling the worst stock market smashes of the year, wheat broke headlong downward in price from the outset, carrying every other cereal quickly to new low records. Bottom of most quotations, however, were not reached until just before business ended in a nearly frenzied outburst of selling. It was estimated the day's total sales of wheat here reached the stupendous amount of 150,000,000 bushels, a large part of the offerings thrown wholesale upon the market appeared to come from owners of future delivery contracts who were unable to stand further losses and who were stampeded by continued downward plunges of wheat values at Liverpool and Winnipeg.

Prospects of larger preharvest carryover of wheat in the United States this season than in 1929 had much to do with sellers' rushes to let go of ownership. Assertions were made that United States export clearances of wheat must total 9,000,000 bushels weekly from now on or else result in more domestic wheat being left undisposed of than before harvest last year. Violently contrasting with these assertions was the fact that export purchases today, not merely from the United States but from Canada, as well, aggregated only 300,000 to 400,000 bushels. Meanwhile, reports of lack of adequate storage room were being received from Omaha in particular, but also from other big centers southwest and northwest. Suggestions of possible domestic crop damage ahead were virtually ignored, and at the day's bottom the March delivery of wheat in Chicago was quoted 15 cents a bushel under the basis at which the Federal Farm Board has been loaning money freely on wheat as collateral.

Adding to demoralization of the wheat market was late announcement that the United States visible supply had decreased only 1,608,000 bushels in the last week, and is now 197,444,000 bushels against 193,315,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn, oats, and rye were pounded down by the momentum of the crash in the wheat market.

Provisions were affected both by downturns of hog values and the acute weakness of grain.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—A fair supply of cattle carried an increased proportion of steers which showed some improvement in quality over last week's offerings. A few loads early were considered fully steady but sound late sales were mixed, weak to 25c lower. The moderate supply of she stock, including several loads of heifers, was generally steady.

A few good 1123-pound intermountain steers topped at 12.00, with several loads of 800 to 1193-pound intermountain, Arizona and Texas steers at 11.50@11.90. A few loads of plainer steers brought 10.50@11.10, with a load of 675-pound weights going to a feeder at 10.00.

Two loads of baby beef type fed heifers averaging 861 to 891 pounds brought 11.35, with odd head at 10.50@11.25. A few loads of 607 to 708-pound heifers made 10.00@10.35, with nonsensonal cows down to 8.00 and below. Odd head of fairly good cows brought 9.00@9.25, with bulk of common to medium cows at 6.50@7.00@8.75, bulk of dairy type animals, however, stopping at 8.50. Low cutters and cutters ranged from 4.00@5.75. Some feeder cows went out at 8.00. Bulls, mainly in odd lots, sold up to 9.00 for good kinds, with bulk of medium quality at 7.00@8.50 and cutter kinds down to 6.00.

CALVES—An active and strong market prevailed in the vealer class, with medium to choice vealers fairly numerous at 13.00@13.50 and odd head going at 14.00 and above. Bulk of lower grade and heavier calves made 10.00@12.50, with culls down to 8.50.

HOGS—Light receipts for the week's opening session met with a good demand at prices mainly 10@15c higher than last Friday's steady to 10c lower close. Packing sows were unchanged. Six loads of 172 to 203-pound Colorado and Nebraska butchers at 12.00, while four loads of 143 to 178-pound Colorado, Nevada and Idaho made 11.00@11.75. A load of 208-pound Idaho at 11.25. Two loads of good Nebraska butchers sold Saturday at 11.90. A few weighty truckins sold up to 11.00, with packing sows at 8.50@9.25.

SHEEP—The fairly liberal supply of sheep sold readily with lambs finishing strong. Clippers were not in desirable condition and the sales looked weak. Approximately fifteen decks of 92-pound lambs from Idaho, Nevada and Idaho cashed at 11.00. Most of the lambs sold with a 20 per cent sort at 9.75 and 10.25. Twenty-five loads of 98-pound lambs at 11.25. A few weights out at 9.00. A deck of 127-pound ewes brought 7.00, with two decks of 128 to 132-pound yearlings at 9.25 and 9.50. At present levels good to choice handy weight lambs are quoted at 11.50, with shorter quality lower to 7.25.

ZINC SITUATION SHOWS WEAKER

Demand Reported Light at Shade Lower Price

Lead Strong and Unchanged on Moderate Buying

Copper Continues to Keep in Strong Position

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS,
The Mining Journal, Phoenix

Copper and lead sales continue in fair volume but zinc has again been undergoing a disturbance and has dropped a little in price. Copper conditions strong at 17.775 f.o.b. refinery, lead at 6.25 f.o.b. New York and zinc at 5.15 to 5.20 f.o.b. St. Louis.

While zinc for April and May delivery is being held at 5.25, it is possible to buy freely for immediate delivery for 5.20 and with some bargain lots available at 5.15, the latter figures holding for delivery through March. Zinc, therefore, is very quiet again and with no promise of activity under its present statistical condition.

CONFIDENCE IN LEAD

There is much confidence in the stability of the lead market, both among the producers and consumers. Consumer confidence is shown by the fact that March buying is more than half done and practically all outlets for lead are in the market. Statistically, lead is in excellent condition.

The lead trade appeared to be well pleased with the figures for January production and stocks for United States and Mexico. The production of crude lead in the United States and Mexico in January amounted to 72,930 tons, a decrease of 2000 tons from December, when the output was 76,930 tons. January figures were the lowest since February, 1929. In January, 1929, the output was 82,230 tons.

Production of refined lead in January amounted to 72,894 tons, compared with 76,680 tons in December, a decrease of 3000 tons. Antimonial lead output was 1257 tons, 182 tons less than in December, when it was 1439 tons. The combined refined and antimonial lead output in January was 74,151 tons as against 78,-319 tons in December, a decline of 4168 tons.

Total stocks of refined and antimonial lead on the 1st inst. amounted to 86,065 tons, of which 67,417 tons were refined, and 2248 tons antimonial, the lowest since June, 1928. On January 1, refined and antimonial stocks were 61,675 tons. Industrial surveys recently made by competent people indicate that 1930 can be expected to be a better year for lead than 1929.

NO CHANGE IN COPPER

The copper market has undergone no change either for the better or worse. There is nothing in the situation to stimulate buying on the part of consumers, outside of their own urgent requirements. Hence they are adhering to their policy of buying only when they are in need and only as much as they have immediate use for. Producers on the other hand, are sitting tight and not pressing metal for sale.

The appreciation by consumers that there is plenty of copper available is causing them to lay off doing any purchasing until the last minute. On the surface, copper sales are not showing to any great aggregate but the activity of copper manufacturers indicates that many of the larger consumers are getting their metal on a monthly contract basis and are not entering the market to buy in definite lots.

The copper situation is encouraging but buying in quantity and for advance shipment cannot be expected until such time as the surplus stocks are going downward rather than upward. The turn is expected to be shown with the February statistics but there is no anticipation that February shipments are going to be materially larger than production and stocks will not drop much.

COPPER FIGURES BETTER

The January copper statistics measure up to the general expectations. They show a decrease in output all along the line from the mines through the refineries, an increase in shipments to domestic consumers and a substantial gain in refined stocks. As was to be expected, the full effect of the curtailment schedule was not reflected in the January statistics, since many of the mines did not cut their output until the latter part of the month, and others not until the beginning of the current month.

The production of refined copper at North and South American refineries totaled 132,376 tons in January, against 138,303 tons in December, 145,976 tons in November and 154,472 tons in January, 1929. Shipments totaled 100,200 tons in January, against 93,803 tons in December, 106,858 tons in November and 197,189 tons in January, 1929.

Stocks of finished metal at North and South American refineries amounted to 283,404 tons at the close to January, against 171,230 tons on December 31, 126,919 tons on November 30 and 62,749 tons on January 31, 1929. Production of copper by United States mines totaled 67,802 tons in January, against 74,772 tons in December; 86,325 tons in January, 1929, and a 1929 monthly average of 83,850 tons.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says: February steel demand has shown the expected leveling following the January upturn in January as consumers generally are proceeding cautiously in the matter of extended commitments. On the average, however, February demand will approximate that of January and on the basis of this showing the general situation is considered as still favorable.

Unfilled orders for rails and railroad equipment remain substantial. Pending work in three pipe line projects. The automotive situation holds considerable uncertainty and will be a determining factor in the extent of steel activity over the spring months.

OIL NEWS

BY PORTER FLINT

The Petroleum Securities Company added new interest to the campaign to find deep production in the southeasterly portion of the Signal Hill field by completing Graham No. 1 for 1400 barrels of 28-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 6738 feet. Production is cutting less than 3 per cent and is rapidly cleaning up.

Petroleum Securities' newest completion is near the intersection of Park Lane and Orizaba street and is within a short distance of the State Company's Sievers No. 1, which was completed about six months ago at 6819 feet for 2400 barrels of oil per day and has since been a steady producer. That success started a drilling and leasing campaign in the southeasterly portion of Signal Hill which may extend the present bounds of the field many blocks.

In the same general vicinity of Petroleum Securities' Graham No. 1, the company's Painted Hills No. 1 on a ten-acre lease is rigging up to spud in within a few days. Its Wilson No. 1, near that lease, is drilling below 3500 feet. The company also is preparing to go back into the Universal Consolidated's Graham No. 1, just across the street from the latest producer, and will resume drilling with present bottom at 6300 feet and endeavor to penetrate the deep producing sand encountered in the former, which is believed to be about 200 feet deeper.

Pinching Down Flow

With the State-wide curtailment program starting anew today, the various fields are pinching down the daily average production to reduce the total flow to 608,995 barrels daily, the desired quota set by the fact-finding committee as the amount of oil needed by the refineries.

At Santa Fe Springs the daily average production yesterday was approximately 164,000 barrels and operators are endeavoring to reach a quota of 149,502 barrels daily. At Signal Hill the total yield yesterday was about 113,000 barrels and the desired figure is 89,422 barrels daily. At Elwood yesterday's flow was in excess of 42,000 barrels, which is 5000 barrels above the desired quota. The average daily production in the Ventura-avenue field is slightly above 50,000 barrels and is 10,000 barrels in excess of the figure set by the fact-finding committee.

A few small completions at Signal Hill include the Warren McCrate's Mackey No. 2 for 400 barrels daily; C. W. Murphy's No. 1 for 200 barrels daily and the Western Oil and Refining Company's Liebert No. 1 for 500 barrels daily. At Santa Fe Springs the Texas Company's Mutual No. 2 came in for 224 barrels of 33-deg. gravity oil per day from the lower Clarke sand with a slight cut. Shell's G.H.N. No. 24 was recently brought in for about 700 barrels daily at 7900 feet.

Preparing to Recement

B. G. Anderson's Langman No. 1 north of State Highway and on Patterson avenue at Goleta is preparing to recement for a water shut-off with bottom of the hole below 4500 feet. This project came in wet recently when more than 100 feet of oil sand was given a production test. Officials of the company feel certain that an entirely new field may be discovered.

Near the Langman No. 1 the Ring Oil Company recently leased thirty-seven acres, ten acres on the west side and twenty-seven acres on the east side. On three sides of Anderson's lease the Standard Oil Company has 200 acres as protection in the event Langman No. 1 shows any promise. George F. Getty, Inc., and one or two other operators also hold acreage there.

Deep Drilling

Despite the poor showing of the lower Clarke sand at Santa Fe Springs, the Texas Company intends to carry its Patterson No. 10-A still deeper near the corner of Little Lake and Forest roads. Yesterday it was drilling below 8734 feet and is the deepest active undertaking in the field at present, while the Wilshire Oil Company's Baker No. 4-A in the same general area is drilling below 8476 feet. It is just south of Texaco's deep test.

Texaco's Patterson No. 10-A originally drilled to 8535 feet, where a fishing job developed and side-tracking started at about 8100 feet. It had more than 150 feet of oil sand to test below the lower Clarke sand and is thought to have a fair chance of finding production as it is located nearer the top of the structure than Oscar Howard's Hathaway No. 7, which went to a new depth for any hole in the world at 8350 feet in the extreme southwesterly portion of the Santa Fe Springs field. This undertaking, however, failed to effect a water shut-off at that depth and has since been plugged back to 8030 feet, where it now is suspended.

Has Showings

The Marcel Petroleum Company's Marcel No. 1 on Sec. 31, 2-8, in Carbon Canyon, yesterday was drilling below 1560 feet in oil sand and shale and company officials stated they expected results within a week. The test is located on a 260-acre lease northwest of the Beiyea Trucking Company's No. 1 gasser on Sec. 32, 2-8, five miles south of Chino and in the same area where a number of shallow tests are searching for production. Marcel's project has encountered five different oil sands, according to company officials and at three different levels had gas showings.

Coring Ahead

The Clearwater Oil Company's Candler No. 1, located on a 300-acre lease at Bellflower, midway between the Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill fields, yesterday was coring below 4950 feet, having topped a new sand after having had showings of oil sand and gas.

Clearwater's test is near the corner of Cerritos and Washington boulevards, at Bellflower and is searching for an entirely new field. The area being tested is about six miles southwest of Santa Fe Springs and strictly wildcat.

New Locations

The Standard Oil Company has approved four new locations, two on its Emery lease and two on its Murphy lease at Coyote Hills. The company's new locations include Emery Nos. 46 and 47; the Murphy Coyote No. 103 and No. 104, and are in the same general area where Emery No. 43-A was recently brought in for 1200 barrels of 31-deg. gravity oil a day by discovering a deeper sand at 5382 feet.

Coring Oil Sand

The Plymouth Oil Company's No. 9 near the corner of Twentieth and Ohio streets in the southeasterly portion of the Signal Hill field is coring in oil sand below 6600 feet. This undertaking is a short distance from the Petroleum Securities Company's Graham No. 1, just brought in for 1400 barrels of oil a day, and near a number of other active tests searching for deep production.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 19

A loss in the sale of stock or bonds may not be deducted on account of anticipated profits that have not been realized. A dealer in securities, as defined by income-tax regulations, may use the inventory method to report income because the stocks and bonds held by him are not investments but comprise his stock in trade.

A taxpayer possessing stock of a corporation cannot deduct from gross income any amount claimed as a loss merely on account of shrinkage in value of such stock on account of fluctuation of the market or otherwise. The loss allowable in such case is that actually suffered when the stock is disposed of.

A taxpayer, other than a dealer in securities, cannot deduct any loss claimed to have been sustained from the sale of stock or securities, if within thirty days before or after such sale he has acquired (other than by bequest or inheritance) substantially identical property. This provision is designed to prevent a taxpayer, in computing net income, from claiming as a deduction a so-called "loss" sustained from a sale of securities, which is immediately followed or immediately preceded by a purchase of substantially identical securities.

Gain or loss, however, is realized in the case of a "short sale." A taxpayer owning 100 shares of the X corporation, who purchases another 100 shares and within thirty days thereafter sells the first purchased stock cannot deduct any loss claimed to have been sustained from the transaction; if he sells the entire 200 shares, a gain or loss from both transactions is thereby realized at that time; and if he sells the stock included within the second purchase a gain or loss is realized.

ALL-YEAR ICE SPORTS SEEN

American Rights Acquired to Chemical Process for Artificial Rinks

[Copyright, 1930, by New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—Year-around ice sports may be within the reach of American hockey and skating enthusiasts through the introduction of "opal ice," by Clarence H. Low of New York, who has acquired exclusive rights for the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba after investigating the process of making chemical ice evolved by the German engineer, Max Heinrich Guerth. Low, who sails Wednesday, carries a miniature skating rink split into six-foot squares and large enough to accommodate five skaters simultaneously, which will be exhibited for demonstration purposes in New York. He hopes to popularize ice hockey, which heretofore has been hampered by unsteady ice conditions.

MEXICAN QUOTA BILL PREPARED

Full House Committee Will Consider it Today

Yearly Decreasing Total of Entries Proposed

Canadian Figure Fixed at 60,000 Annually

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—The House subcommittee drafting a restrictive immigration bill aimed at Mexico and other countries on the Western Hemisphere virtually completed its work this afternoon, and the full Immigration Committee will meet tomorrow to go over the measure. An immediate favorable report to the House is likely, although more time may be needed to acquaint the full group with the details of the legislation and gain majority support.

The work of the subcommittee has been shrouded in careful secrecy, but from authoritative sources it was learned today that the Mexican provisions of the bill that has been drawn would permit entry of approximately 12,000 the first year, 7000 the second year, and 2900 a year thereafter. This so-called "sliding scale" was proposed by Representative Jenkins, Republican, Ohio, on the theory that it would give agricultural interests of the Southwest, dependent upon Mexican common labor, time to adjust themselves to the exclusion policy.

CANADIAN FIGURE

It was learned also that in the case of Canada the proposed legislation would permit entry of approximately 60,000 immigrants a year, without any sliding scale or other restriction except the setting of a definite annual figure.

This fixing of specific numerical quotas for the countries of the western world was also insisted upon by Representative Jenkins, who, with Representative Box, Democrat, Texas, has been at the forefront of the fight for restriction that has waged in the House committee for several years.

In a general way, it is understood the subcommittee adopted the ratio plan proposed by Representative Johnson of Washington, chairman of the Immigration Committee, whereby a certain number of Mexicans, Canadians and other nationals awould be given entry to the United States for every one American citizen emigrating permanently to that particular country. Johnson, in the bill he is sponsoring, suggested that three be allowed to come in for each citizen of the United States going out, but the subcommittee is declared to have boosted this ratio to about four to one.

OPPOSITION FORESEEN

However, either ratio or any bill considered would reduce Mexican immigration to virtually nothing within a short time and, despite Representative Jenkins's professed belief that his plan would "take care" of the problem of southwestern agriculture, this is not the case, according to antiexclusion spokesmen in Washington.

Representatives of interests in California and other States where Mexican labor is essential will oppose the bill about to go to the House and make every effort to prevent its passage. However, they are directing their efforts at the moment principally toward obtaining recall of the favorable report on the Harris exclusion bill which was quietly railroaded through the Senate Immigration Committee a week ago. Hearings had been promised on the bill by Senator Johnson of California, former chairman, and this promise was violated. The committee will be asked in fairness to bring the bill back and permit opponents to be heard.

SENATE FAVORS HIGH WOOL DUTY

Steepest Rates Ever Placed in a Bill Supported

Democratic Proposals for Slashes Voted Down

Grundy Drawn Into Debate on Effect of Tariff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Four roll call votes in the Senate today showed overwhelming majorities in favor of the highest wool rates ever placed in a tariff bill to protect both the grower and manufacturer.

Three of them sent to defeat Democratic proposals to slash the Hawley-Smoot levies on coarse wools used in the manufacture of cheap clothing, the protective rates on wool yarn and the ad valorem duties on men's, youths' and boys' clothing, leaving unchanged the bill tariffs on all of these articles.

SCHEDULE ASSAILED

A fourth record vote easily carried an amendment by Senator Thomas, Republican, Idaho, recently assigned a berth on the tariff readjusting finance committee, to make dutiable at the much higher wool rates all mixed woven fabrics containing 15 per cent or more of wool by weight. These fabrics at present bear materially lower duties according to the chief value of the material.

All of the votes came in the face of a bitter denunciation of the wool schedule by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, who asserted it is one of the "twin sins" of the bill. With the rayon schedule, he said, the two are the measures's glaring iniquities.

The Georgian, in discussing his amendment to cut the protective duty on wool yarns, said the increase proposed was in favor of Senator Grundy, Republican, Pennsylvania, who is a worsted manufacturer.

HE GETS IN DEBATE

Senator Grundy was drawn into the tariff debate for the first time later in the day when Senators Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, and Blaine, Republican independent, Wisconsin, questioned him regarding the effectiveness of the wool tariff. He denied wool could be purchased cheaper in this country and said the bill levies favor principally the producer instead of the manufacturer.

As on the first occasion when the increased wool yarn rate was voted on, Senator Grundy arose when his name was called and said that because of his personal interest in the manufacture of this article he would refrain from voting.

LITTLE CUT-UP HUSBAND DAILY CARVES ON WIFE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 24. (AP)—To demonstrate his love, Alejandro Miranda Garcia each day slashed his wife playfully with a razor.

The action was accompanied by endearing words and invariably was followed by expressions of apparent concern over the pain this habit might have caused.

But, when the wife Maria threatened to inform the police, she was told politely the razor might slip and, perhaps, do fatal damage.

In time the scars on Maria's body came to number several hundred, and she decided finally such a life wasn't worth living; at least she was in a frame of mind to take a chance.

She notified police and remained away from home till Alejandro was behind the bars.

"Certainly," he said, when confronted by the evidence, "I did it, but just to prove my love."

WHEAT HAS NEW DROP IN CHICAGO PIT

Futures Quotations Fall by Co-operative Buying Holds Up Cash Price

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. (AP) — The spectre of dollar wheat stalked into the futures pits today. But the farmers with cash wheat to sell came to market with carloads, converting thousands of bushels into legal tender of the land as prices glided 15 cents a bushel above the current quotations for wheat futures.

The Farmers' National Grain Corporation stood by its promise to pay at the Farm Board's level for country-run wheat, while traders in future contracts dumped volumes into the pit and sliced 5 to 7 cents from prices. The net losses on the Chicago market was 5 1-8 to 6 3-8 cents a bushel, with an extreme drop of 7 3-8 cents.

The Chicago operator of the National Co-operative bought 25,000 bushels. At Kansas City the corporation purchased 130,000 bushels at prices 13 cents more than the equivalent grade of wheat was worth in the futures market. At Omaha the stabilisation corporation having bought more than 500,000 bushels since it began to operate there, was forced to quit buying because of lack of storage space. The corporation's national offices here issued no statement concerning the situation.

The grain trade was shaken generally by the huge world oversupply, with resultant dull demand for North American wheat.

Lloyd's Film Withdrawn to Pacify Chinese

CHANGHAI, Feb. 25. (Tuesday.) (AP)—As a result of a rising tide of Chinese animosity against Harold Lloyd's motion picture "Welcome Danger," the Paramount Corporation, distributors of the film in the Orient, today withdrew the production from showings at local theaters.

The action followed a protest to the Nationalist government against further presentation of the film in China, by the Shanghai District Kuomintang political party headquarters in response to students' demands. The Shanghai Kuomintang members viewed the film as subjecting the Chinese to ridicule and also comprising "insult to the Chinese nation."

Federal Control of Distilleries Asked in Canada

OTTAWA (Ont.) Feb. 24. (AP)—A resolution urging government control of distilleries throughout Canada has been drafted to be placed before the House of Commons by William Irvine of Wetaskawin.

"High profits in the liquor industry," Mr. Irvine's resolution read, "have led to violation of our own laws as well as to international complications."

He asks that the government consider the advisability of supplementing the policy of government control of the sale of liquor "by establishing a system under which the Federal government would have exclusive right to manufacture."

TRIO SEIZED ON BAD COIN ACCUSATION

Half-Dollar Pieces Said by Officers to Have Been Found in Men's Room

Three men, one of them 72 years of age, were arrested yesterday on charges of counterfeiting half-dollar coins in a room at 120 West Fifteenth street. They gave the names of Frank Clark, 44; Robert D. Latham, 40, and Charles E. Connell, 72.

Search of the room revealed twenty-five half-dollar pieces and molds for the manufacture of the coins, according to Detective Lieutenants Holloway and Jamison of the Georgia-street division.

The arrest of the trio followed a report from a citizen that there had been a shooting in the room. The detectives responded to the call. Each of the trio denied there had been any gunfire, the detectives said, but, detecting the odor of burnt powder, the latter decided to conduct a search.

Clark was lying on a bed with a revolver in his hand concealed by a quilt, the detectives reported. Holloway jumped on Clark and disarmed him.

The trial of May Otis Blackburn, leader of the Divine Order of the Royal Arms of the Great Eleven, religious organization, will enter its closing phase in Superior Judge Judge Fricke's court this morning.

According to Thomas W. Cochran, defense attorney, rebuttal testimony probably will be finished within thirty minutes.

Judge Fricke announced that defense and prosecution attorneys will be limited to six hours' argument, which may permit the case to be submitted to the jury before adjournment tonight.

Mrs. Blackburn is charged with grand theft of large sums of money placed in her hands by Clifford R. Dabney, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ferguson, prosecuting the case, charges that Mrs. Blackburn misappropriated the funds furnished by Dabney. Mrs. Blackburn, however, asserts that Dabney gave the money to her intending it to be used in aiding the religious order.

BAKER ADDS NEW KILLING TO HIS LIST

Confessed Poisoner Says He Murdered Driver of Taxicab in Detroit

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (Exclusive) The murder record of Texas Jim Baker, the young poison enthusiast who has admitted the slaying here of Henry Gaw, elderly Guggenheim laboratory watchman, was swelled to eleven today when the prisoner, with little or no coaching, casually told of the wanton killing of Otis South, a Detroit cab driver, on the night of January 20.

Baker was being questioned at police headquarters when the newest of his string of ghastly crimes popped up. A communication from Detroit police quickly verified the details.

They advised the New York police they will seek to extradite Baker for trial of the South murder and the killing of Walter Aue, a railroad detective, in the unlikely event he is acquitted here.

Mexico's New Airport to be Opened Today

Mexican aviation interest will center today on Los Mochis, Sinaloa, where flyers and government officials will dedicate the new $50,000 airport that is the major landing-link for coastwise air travel between here and Mexico City.

L. C. Goldsmith, superintendent of Pickwick Airways, is scheduled to take part in the ceremonies. He announced on his departure from here that the new port will cut flying time of southbound planes to the Mexican capital to two days, with an overnight stop at Los Mochis. The new schedule will become effective tomorrow over the triweekly mail, express and pasenger line. Northbound ships will continue to make a night stop at San Diego.

FORD CAR PLANT READY SHORTLY

New Project at Harbor Near to Completion

Expect Start of Operations About March 20

Will Hold Output at Present to Coast Field

BY WALDO DRAKE

The $6,000,000 Ford plant at Wilmington yesterday entered the last stage of its construction period. Production, it was stated unofficially, will get under way about March 20.

The finishing touches are being placed this week on the machinery in the glass factory, as well as the several miles of ovens for baking car bodies. All rail facilities, rail loading platforms and the ship terminal facilities will be completed this week, while several score of motor trucks are busy making the final fills in the storage yards and approaches.

Company officials yesterday declined to divulge operating plans of the plant, but said that for the current year, at least, all production will be confined to supplying the demands of dealers on the Pacific Slope. There are 221 distributors in this particular area, it was said, who in 1930 are scheduled to sell more than 80,000 pleasure cars and trucks. In the event the company decides to devote part of the local plant's production to the Asiatic trade, additional facilities will first be constructed, it was said.

The completed plant, totaling approximately 407,000 square feet of floor space, will employ 2500 workmen. Raw materials and parts will be delivered to the factory from North Atlantic ports in the Ford Motor Company's own steamers.

NEW CRAFT TO JOIN LUCKENBACH FLEET

Luckenbach Line's latest acquisition, the ex-Shipping Board refrigerator freighter Deerfield, now named Mathew Luckenbach, is due at the port on April 8, next, from gulf ports on her maiden voyage, it was announced yesterday by H. C. Ewing, district manager of the line. The newcomer is a sister ship to the Susan V. Luckenbach, ex-Neponset, here from New York over the week-end on her maiden voyage.

Mr. Ewing announced also that the Edgar F. Luckenbach, departing New Orleans on the 11th inst., will make a special call at San Diego on the 27th inst., to discharge 1000 tons of pipe and building materials.

Compagnie du Boleo's little Mexican steamer Korrigan III, put into port in distress early yesterday as a result of a severe buffeting by the southeaster she experienced on the fifty-four-hour trip from San Francisco. Capt. Salvador Mesa reported on arrival that his ship struggled against the gale at full speed ahead off Point Montara for fifteen hours and scarcely made a knot good on her course.

She went to the local Bethlehem yards for repairs, pending the arrival from San Francisco this morning of E. G. Egbert, Bureau Veritas representative, who will make a damage survey.

Capt. Henry Stephenson took the Panama Mail liner El Salvador out last night for New York, via Central American ports, with a capacity list, including ninety-four cabin passengers, fifty in steerage and 3500 tons of California freight. Among her passengers was J. P. Heinz, leading Chicago broker and member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Representatives of various case oil-carrying steamship lines reported assurance from the Harbor Department yesterday that the municipal case-oil dock at Berth 181, Wilmington, will be completed and used for that purpose.

They were in conference with Harbor Department officials following reports that a berth in the outer harbor was about to be designated as the permanent case-oil station.

Preference was expressed for Berth 181, because of its nearness to Los Angeles, and to the absence of a slight surge declared bothersome at the outer harbor berth.

Trans-Atlantic motor liner Parakola sailed with a dozen passengers and freight last night for Australia via San Francisco and on around the world. She loaded 2500 tons of Southland cargo.

Better lights and a sound signal for navigators to maneuver in and out of Fish Harbor are to be sought by the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, at the request of its fishing division. Application will be made to the harbor department, which now maintains a small light.

Fifteen hundred tons of cotton seed cake will go out for Europe in the Danish carrier Chile of the East Asiatic Line tomorrow, together with 500 tons of borax. The Peru of the same line is due March 1 to drop 3500 tons of European coke and ferro-maganese and general cargo.

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Boulevard, Wash. at Vermont.—"The Dark Road World." Rough humor and broad comedy, should you care for such. Pictor Madison and Edmund Lowe.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center.—"Devil May Care." The adventurous spirit of Napoleonic days is brought to light by Ramon Novarro in his delightfully musical drama of love and bravery.

Criterion, 642 South Grand.—"Anna Christie." Greta Garbo speaks the lines Eugene O'Neill's play. Also, Marie Prevost, Clarence Brown has done some of his best directing.

Figueroa, Fig. at Santa Barbara.—"Forgotten Faces." Evelyn Brent and Robert Montgomery suffer the penalties of parental divorce in this modern comedy-drama.

Filmarte, 1266 Vine.—"Flames on the Poles." Russia runs rampant 'round Reindeer in the form of Catherine the Great. Plenty of action, but that's almost all.

Grauman's Chinese, 6925 Hollywood Blvd.—"Hollywood Revue." Lawrence Tibbett, Marion Davies, Conrad Nagel, Jack Benny and others in a vaudeville romance of nearly great quality.

Grauman's Egyptian, 6708 Hollywood Blvd.—"Mammy," musical of the Shows." Marie Dressler and Douglas Fairbanks bring Shakespeare up to date in a refreshing manner.

Loew's State, Spring, at 7th.—"Bishop Murder Case." Orient takes to rhyme in this S. Van Dine Mother Goose murder. Small business and a large cast make it fairly exciting.

Million Dollar, Broadway at 3rd.—"Party Girl." Comes tonight.

Orpheum, Spring, bet. 6th & 7th.—"Navy Blues." William Haines comes to port all in the name of fun.

Paramount, Hill at 6th.—"Street of Chance." A stable taken from the life of Hatchetite, excellently played by William Powell and Kay Francis.

State, 3200 Whittier.—"Not for Paris." An all-star vaudeville show. Ted Lewis is associated now with Victor McLaglen, El Brendel and Fill Dorsey.

U.A.O., Hill at 8th.—"The Racketeer." A Carleton Hellmuth comedy-drama of unusual angle and you'll like Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard.

U.A.O., Grafton, Broadway at 9th.—"Sweethearts Keep Us Baldheads." An all-star stage spectacle revived as a talkie with Richard Dix suffering as ill effects in the transition.

Uptown, Western at 108th.—"Taming of the Shrew." Goes above.

United Artists, Silver, nr. 9th.—"Lummox." Fannie Hurst's novel of sorrow and laughter is across the screen with Winifred Westover giving a feeling performance.

Warners' Downtown, Hill at 7th.—"She Couldn't Say No." Title is not the play. It transpires to be the excuse Constance Cummings will make when requested to take another husband.

Warner's Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox.—"The Green Goddess." Intelligent as might be expected from George Arliss. At his best in this film.

Wiltern, 611 Alvarado.—"The Laughing Lady." Ruth Chatterton demonstrates that a little suffa'll go a long, long way, as the result of sensational and divorce. A show for the sophisticated.

STAGE

Belasco, Hill at 11th.—"Journey's End." R. C. Sherriff's fine war play is produced with a splendid company.

Biltmore, 7th nr. Grand.—"Once Upon a Honeymoon." Reviewed in today's Times.

El Capitan, Hollywood Blvd. nr. Highland.—"Spring Is Here." Lew Brice and Lola Lane head the list of the lively jazz affair itself as quite a numerous group in this farce comedy set to the capricious May Robson.

Figueroa, Figueroa, Fig. at 39th.—"The Laziest Murder." Dumb before and maybe better, but it doesn't make much difference. Edward Everett Horton is there.

Hollywood Playhouse, 1735 Vine.—"Hall Weiler." A well staged and finely enacted comedy of the sea, starring Frank Craven.

Majestic, Silver, at 9th.—"New Moon." The popular operetta of Nell Kelly, Jean Darling the song hit, "Lover Come Back to Me." Perry Askam and Josephine Houston.

Mason, Play, San Gabriel.—The best-liked annual season of the spring in California, up to its usual standard. With R. D. MacLean.

Music Box, 6126 Hollywood Blvd.—"Bill of Divorcement." This is Clemence Dane's dramatization of one of England's problems. Ian Maclaren is featured.

President, Silver, at 6th.—"Give and Take." Big business in a canning factory, with Kolb and Dill syruping it on and the audience sunshine just as much.

Vine-street, 1616 Vine.—"The 31st Floor." Howard is pictured as something is hardly to, which in this case can't matter at all. With Emerson Treacy.

VARIETIES

Burbank, 6th and Main.—Burlesque.

Follies, 4th and Main.—Burlesque.

HIGH COURT TO RULE ON CAR SEIZURE

California Case Involves Confiscation of Liquor Auto on Revenue Charge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The Supreme Court today consented to decide a case from Southern California brought by the Department of Justice, Inc., asserting that the Federal government when it seizes an automobile used unlawfully to transport intoxicating liquor must pay the owner under the Federal prohibition law to give the firm selling the vehicle on deferred payments an opportunity to recover possession.

A Federal prohibition agent seized an automobile which the Department of Justice, Inc., was selling on deferred payments, and to which it had title. It was charged that the automobile was used in the illegal transportation of liquor.

The person operating it was charged with violating the National Prohibition Act. Later the charge against the operator was changed to a violation of the internal revenue laws, and he pleaded guilty.

The government then sought to sell the automobile under the internal revenue laws, which gave the owner or company no opportunity to redeem it.

The company instituted suit, with success in the lower Federal courts, that when an automobile is seized on the charge of illegal transportation of liquor the prosecution to confiscate it must be brought under the Federal Prohibition Act, which gives the owner a chance to redeem it by proving that its unlawful use had not been authorized.

Murder Appeal Lost by Rocco

BUDGET FOR HOSPITAL TO BE GUARDED

Success Looms in Fight to Keep Cost of New Unit Within $11,000,000 Limit

Discussion of ways and means between members of the Board of Supervisors and architects of the new acute unit of the General Hospital to complete the institution within the budget of $11,000,000, instead of an advanced estimate of $16,000,000, yesterday indicated possible success.

After members of the board held an informal session with the architects, Supervisor Graves, who is one of the leaders for the restriction of the cost to the budget figure, announced that he expects completion of the unit on the figure of the first estimate.

Graves has held that without sacrificing comfort or facilities in the construction of the building the $11,000,000 will suffice. It has been asserted, however, that in order to stay within that figure readjustment of plans and contracts may be necessary.

The meeting with the architects did not produce any formal statements yesterday on agreements or disagreements.

VARIED LIST OF APPEALS CONSIDERED

Stafford Case Continued and Others Taken Under Submission by Court

A wide variety of cases came up for adjudication yesterday before Division One, District Court of Appeals. Justice Conrey presided.

The case of Clayton C. Stafford, wealthy El Monte grain dealer, appealing from a conviction on a charge of having attacked his secretary, Miss Rae Schade, was continued until March 10, next.

Appeal of Edward Kavanaugh and his wife, Mary, from conviction on a charge of having robbed the United Artists Theater of $12,500, was taken under submission on briefs.

The court also took under submission the State's appeal from a Superior Court order granting a new trial to Arthur B. McClanahan, negro police officer, convicted on bribery charges. Attorney Thomas F. White, representing McClanahan, contended that his client was entitled to a new trial on the ground that two codefendants of the officer were acquitted on the evidence on which McClanahan was convicted.

The appeal of George (Rush) Meadows, former football star, convicted of fraud, was submitted.

Pantages Ill After Seizure

Alexander Pantages, convicted theater owner, last night was reported rallying from another severe heart attack which, early Sunday morning, alarmed attendants of the County Jail hospital, where he is confined. The attack was recorded as occurring at 2:30 a.m. Sunday. A jail physician and a nurse gave Pantages attention and ordered him to remain quiet for two days.

Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician, yesterday examined Pantages. He later announced that no personal physician had been called in to attend the vaudeville magnate, who is appealing from his conviction on a charge of attacking Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer.

F. O. McKEE, PIONEER, WEDS AMANDA COLE

Frank Orla McKee, who lives in the Old Burnt Mill Canyon near Lake Arrowhead, dropped into the office of The Times yesterday like he used to do forty years ago with an "item for the editor." McKee, 60 years of age, married Amanda Cole, 51, of Los Angeles, yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Judge Pope. McKee lived in Los Angeles forty years ago. His bride has lived here thirty-five years. They left last night for Lake Arrowhead.

VENICE AREA OIL PERMITS GO THROUGH

Council Gives Residents License to Drill After Obtaining Legal Advice

A group of permits in the shape of ordinances to drill for oil in the Venice region were adopted yesterday by the City Council.

James S. Bennett, attorney for Director Stevenot of the State Department of Natural Resources, made a plea to the Council to cooperate with the State in preventing waste of natural gas and oil. He said that daily 500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas is lost.

City Attorney Werner filed an opinion that it will be legal for the city to charge a license fee and to collect a royalty on production; also that the Council can establish reasonable limits to the number of wells to be drilled in a certain area. This opinion is in line with the contentions of Councilman Randall.

The ordinances granted are for Cleveland, Burks, Davenport, Acret, Herndon, Dickinson, Young, Hersee and Feeney.

While the ordinances do not contain the emergency clause, the committee report recommends that the applications be granted upon publication of the ordinances. They now go to Mayor Porter. The vote was unanimous, with Councilmen Williams and Barthel absent.

Woman Struck by Cash Carrier on Stand in Suit

Injured by a cash carrier that jumped a wire track in a grocery store at Sixth and Spring streets, August 2, 1928, Mrs. Nora Kirkland appeared in Superior Judge Sproul's court yesterday to testify in her $50,000 suit against the store.

Mrs. Kirkland says she was permanently injured by the metal carrier. Her attorney showed it traveled at the rate of fifty miles an hour. It weighs eleven ounces. "I thought I had been struck by a bullet," Mrs. Kirkland, who was injured in the chest, testified.

The case will continue today.

PLANES HUNT LOST FLYERS

Doles, Bieber Believed Safe After Forced Landing; Kelley Found to Have Broken Vertebrae in Crash

Search for two missing aviators in the storm-ridden waste lands between here and Kingman, Ariz., was begun yesterday following a spectacular mountainside crash of another pilot, Fred Kelly, whose mail plane fell and was destroyed by fire while he miraculously escaped death when thrown from the wreckage by force of the impact.

The missing men are James E. Doles and Albert W. Bieber, Western Air Express pilots, who left Kingman at 11:45 p.m. Sunday ferrying an empty trimotored passenger plane to the local terminus and have not since been heard from.

ALBERT W. BIEBER

George Rice, a fellow-pilot of the Western Air Express, with two mechanics was aloft yesterday scanning the country in which Doles and Bieber are believed to have been forced down and perhaps standing by a disabled craft. Other flyers of the company are also searching.

Kelly returned here yesterday in the private plane of Ernest Lomprig, a flyer of St. George, Utah, near where the mail pilot was caught in a blinding, swirling snowstorm at night and crashed against a mountainside. He was thrown twenty-five or thirty feet from the wreckage of the plane when it struck.

FRED KELLY

The Western Air Express mail pilot reported to the local offices yesterday that he was thrown into soft earth and miraculously escaped being tangled in the plane, which burst into flames directly it struck. He said he was dazed and confused by the fall and lay where he landed to watch the fire destroy the ship and 242 pounds of mail. The mail cargo is believed not to have been particularly valuable.

MINISTERS ASK RECESS ON GAMES

Resolution Urges Olympic Events be Not Scheduled During Hours of Worship

A resolution requesting the directing committee of the Olympic Games to schedule no events during Sunday worship hours was adopted yesterday at a meeting of the ministerial association at the First Methodist Church.

Dr. F. M. Larkin, secretary of the California State Church Federation, told the ministers that since California has no Sunday-closing laws, the Olympic Games committee lacks authority to prevent sporting events on Sunday, but said the State church federation has been assured that the committee will co-operate with the churches in their efforts to keep Sunday service hours free from athletic events.

In an address on "The Orient" Dr. James C. Baker, bishop of Korea and Japan, praised the educational system of Japan, which, he said, has the smallest percentage of illiteracy of any nation in the world.

Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood spoke of the need for more personal evangelism in Christian service.

MRS. BRADFORD DIES AT HER OHIO HOME

Word was received here yesterday of the death at Youngstown, O., of Mrs. Gertrude Bradford, writer and lecturer on psychology and a former resident of Los Angeles. After living here six years she returned to Youngstown two months ago to make her home with a sister, Mrs. Carl H. Fuller. She leaves two sons, Harry Pike of Youngstown and Leon Edgar Pike, formerly of Inglewood, with whom Mrs. Fuller is anxious to communicate.

MINNESOTA GROUP TO PICNIC

Former residents of Northfield, Minn., will hold their annual all-day picnic next Saturday at Echo Park.

ROBERTA SEMPLE ROUTED AS TEMPLE PEACE MAKER

Attempts of Aimee Semple McPherson, through her daughter, Roberta Semple, to regain control of the Four Square Lighthouse at Pomona, yesterday sent the suburban pastor to the church's attorney following a scene in the church Sunday night. While members of the Pomona congregation denied the reports that Roberta Semple was ejected bodily from their church after she had attempted to take the platform, it was admitted that the young woman was restrained from speaking by threat of arrest.

The Pomona Four Square Lighthouse, under the pastorate of Rev. Temple Turner, withdrew from affiliation with Aimee McPherson's Angelus Temple several months ago. On Friday, last, Mrs. McPherson went to Pomona and tried to effect a reconciliation in which her parent church would be recognized. This effort failed.

ARREST THREATENED

Sunday night, when the services in the Pomona Lighthouse were about to be started, a delegation from the Los Angeles parent church entered, led by Roberta. Members of this delegation asked permission to speak to the Pomona congregation. This request was denied by Turner.

Despite his refusal, Pomona members reported yesterday Aimee's daughter forced her way to the platform and started to address conciliatory remarks tending to draw the congregation back to her mother's leadership. Turner interrupted her, telling Miss McPherson that he had refused her the platform. As she continued speaking, Officer Bain,

BOND VOTE PROGRAM LAID

Water Issue Poll May Be Set For May 20, Next; Ordinance Before Council Committee

May 20, next, probably will be the date set for the special election on the $38,800,000 water bonds, it was learned yesterday following a conference in Mayor Porter's office. The ordinance calling the election was before the City Council yesterday morning, but the date was left open and referred to the Water and Power Committee.

In the meantime the Mayor was in meeting with the executive committee of the Citizens' Water and Power Committee, comprised of Joseph Scott, Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst and E. J. Fleming. E. F. Scattergood, chief electrical engineer of the Bureau of Power and Light, and Burdette Moody, business agent of the Department of Water and Power, also were present.

It was decided to recommend May 20, instead of April 8, as at first considered, as it is believed that the extra time will be needed for an educational campaign.

Need for extensive work on reservoirs and dams, extension of water mains and the acquisition of lands and water rights were given as reasons for the request to City Council to place on the ballot a proposition for the water bonds, in an address at the City Club yesterday by H. A. Van Norman, chief engineer and general manager of the Board of Waterworks and Supply.

Reviewing the activities of the Bureau of Waterworks and Supply since 1923, Mr. Van Norman said that Los Angeles already has purchased 90 per cent of Owens Valley Lands and said that the other 10 per cent should be obtained as soon as possible.

"The water supply for Los Angeles is so important that nothing should be allowed to interfere with it," said the speaker. "Even if the Colorado River project were cleared up it would be at least ten years before we could expect water from that source.

"Of course, we are not sure of the sufficiency of the supply from Owens Valley unless we bring in Mono Basin, and every effort is being made to obtain the basin lands from private owners and corporations."

COOLIDGE DISCOVERS KEY TO SOUTHLAND SUCCESS

Says Angelenos 'Make Best of Most;' Booth Traces Prosperity Rise in Chamber Banquet Address

In a few gracious words of appreciation, former President Coolidge last night expressed his gratitude to Southern California for the hospitality the community has shown him and Mrs. Coolidge, and called on his hearers, 1261 of them, to continue the remarkable strides of development of the past two decades.

The occasion of Mr. Coolidge's only address during the week he has been here was the thirty-ninth annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce, where John C. Austin succeeded Shannon Crandall as president, and Willis H. Booth, vice-president of the Guarantee Trust Company of New York and the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, and the chamber's president twenty years ago, gave his hearers an inside view of international finance, and assured them that the country's condition is stable.

COOLIDGE OVATION

When Mr. Coolidge rose to speak, with seeming reluctance, the great assembly, which crowded the ballroom of the Ambassador, stood and cheered. The ovation was repeated later for Mrs. Coolidge. During the addresses Mr. Coolidge sat at the right hand of Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific Company, who acted as master of ceremonies, smoking a long cigar, and maintaining an impassive countenance Apparently he had heard the jokes of the several speakers before, for he never cracked a smile.

Some minutes prior to the entry of the distinguished guests, a skylight, about twenty feet from where Mr. Coolidge later sat, tumbled down on the table, slightly injuring Harry Breasheer, one of the chamber's department managers. Hotel attendants hurried to the roof and found no one. It was thought possible that some eager spectator had mounted the roof to gain a view of the guests and had inadvertently broken the window.

Mayor Porter made a short welcoming talk, and for a time it seemed as if the former President would decline the suggestion to reply. Then he rose slowly and approached the microphone.

"Because of my desire to run true to form to my reputation, I had an explicit understanding with the management that I was to maintain silence through the evening," he said, and the crowd roared with laughter, "but the obligations of hospitality are inexorable.

"After the gracious words of welcome from your Mayor, and the marks of hospitality shown me in my week in your community, it would be inappropriate not to respond.

DISCOVERS REASON

"I have been interested in observing the remarkable development of your country. I have wondered if there were any particular reason. I have reached the conclusion that here is a community determined to make the best of the most, both in themselves and in the land, and because you have followed that policy you have achieved this success.

"I have talked with your early settlers, and they tell me that in former days there was little here attractive to the outward eye. There was the climate, but few to enjoy it, the rich soil, but it was unproductive, and little was raised on it. There was the broad Pacific, but it bore no commerce. It was a new and almost barren country.

"But the spirit of the men and women who were here was to make the best of the most about them. The population was little, but population was attracted. There came development. You have built remarkable industries, you have created banks, insurance companies and financial institutions to compare with such structures in any city of the land.

HAIL HIM IN SONG

"All you need to insure your future is to continue to follow these principles.

"In leaving your hospitable community I look back with pleasure. My visit has satisfied me with increased respect for my country. You are a people able, virile, ambitious, industrious. Continue to build."

Before Mr. Shoup could seize the gavel, the crowd burst into the strains of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," which appeared to add to Mr. Coolidge's enjoyment.

During Mr. Booth's address, Mrs. Coolidge, who was seated next him, had an opportunity of indulging her

ARIZONA DAM BID ACCEPTED

Coolidge to Dedicate Huge Structure Tuesday

End of Stay Here Reported Scheduled for Monday

Visitor Unconcerned Over Letter With Warning

Former President Coolidge has accepted an invitation to dedicate the Coolidge Dam on the Gila river near San Carlos, Ariz., and will be present for the ceremonies there next Tuesday.

Information that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will conclude their visit to Southern California next Monday and, on their return trip east, go by way of the great engineering project which bears his name, came from authentic sources.

Officials of Arizona and parties interested in the dedicatory program have been here for several days seeking the acceptance of Mr. Coolidge. They admitted late yesterday that their quest has been successful and that the ceremonies are set for March 4, next.

SILENT ON PLANS

The former Chief Executive declined yesterday to make any public announcement of his plans for the Arizona trip.

Last night the Coolidges were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet at the Ambassador, and left at midnight on a special train over the Southern Pacific for the San Simeon ranch of William R. Hearst near San Luis Obispo.

They expect to return to Los Angeles on Friday. The week-end will be spent here, according to the announcement.

WARNING LETTER

A warning letter received by Mr. Coolidge yesterday failed to annoy the former President or his wife, and they spent a quiet day in their suite. Mrs. Coolidge journeyed out during the afternoon to visit some of the shops.

The message warning Mr. Coolidge that his life would be taken while on his visit here came in the morning mail, and showed a postmark of the 22nd inst., that it had been mailed at the Arcade station.

The envelope was addressed "Hon. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Biltmore Hotel," but the letter bore the heading, "Hon. Mr. C. Coolidge."

It was opened by Mr. Coolidge, and, after reading it, he turned it over to Detective Lieutenant Hynes, in charge of the bodyguard. The former President offered little comment on the contents of the note, but said to Hynes: "This is a matter for you to attend to."

MAN'S HANDWRITING

The writer of the letter, according to Hynes, wrote in a clear but waving style and evidently attempted to disguise the handwriting. Some of the words were misspelled, and the warning was written by a man, according to the detectives, who immediately started a search for the writer.

The letter, written in ink on an ordinary ruled sheet from a school notebook, said:

"I would like to warn you that a gunman murderer from East arrived in Los Angeles and he said Mr. Coolidge is going to make trip back east in coffin because he is going to kill him, so for God's sake be careful and protect yourself and Mr. Coolidge, because he sure will do it. His brother is in penitentary (penitentiary) for bootleging (bootlegging.)

NORMAND FUNERAL FRIDAY

Final Plans for Actress' Rites Await Arrival of Her Mother from New York

While messages of condolence were being received from all parts of the world, Lew Cody yesterday made preliminary plans for the funeral services for his wife, Mabel Normand, former screen comedienne. Miss Normand died early Sunday morning at a Monrovia sanatorium after a prolonged illness.

As tentatively planned yesterday the services will be conducted Friday. However, the time and place will not be selected and pallbearers will not be chosen until the arrival of Miss Normand's mother, Mrs. Claude B. Normand, who departed yesterday for Hollywood from Staten Island, N. Y.

It is understood that the funeral will be a semiprivate affair with only immediate members of the family and intimate friends present. It appeared almost certain yesterday that the public will not be invited to view the remains or permitted to attend the services.

Cody, with his friend, Norman Kerry, appeared yesterday at the funeral chapel and chose a beautiful bronze casket for his wife. According to Kerry, it will be determined on the arrival of her mother whether Miss Normand will be interred in Southern California or at the place of her birth, Staten Island.

"Out of respect for Miss Normand's mother," Kerry said, "Mr. Cody does not want to make any definite arrangements for the services until she arrives. We received word she left yesterday morning and is expected to arrive Wednesday or Thursday."

Messages by the score were received yesterday at the Cody residence in Beverly Hills. All Hollywood, too, joined in mourning with Cody the loss of Miss Normand, who at one time was one of the screen's most popular idols and highest-salaried star.

Mary Pickford, with whom Mabel Normand worked for David Wark Griffith in the days of the old Biograph Studio, yesterday said:

"The screen has lost its most

by Harry Carr

FARMERS near Kansas City have appealed to a fashionable hunt club to hunt down coyotes with its fox hounds.

This is a good idea. It will give the dogs a lot of healthful exercise and the coyote a good laugh. A coyote can run so fast that he can stroll away from anything except a racing greyhound.

In the old days of the California ranches, they knew how. Old Nacio, the coyote hunter on one of the big cattle ranches, still knows. He has a dog pack of three or four racing whippets who run down the coyote and two airedales to lumber up and kill him.

Just as none but racing dogs can get within telephoning distance of a coyote, only trained fighting dogs have any curiosity about tackling them once they are run down.

PRO BONO PUBLICO

Presumably the reason this Arizona woman was hanged was to purify and benefit the public. Had she murdered everybody she knew, it would not have done the public as much harm as the reading of these ghastly accounts. There are enough funny noises in the skulls of the nerve-strained inhabitants of this country as it is without adding daylight nightmares.

WE'RE ALL SCOTCH

Mr. Coolidge has brought out a curious and interesting strain in the American people that no one ever before suspected.

The most loquacious and extravagant people in the world, we have an enormous and secret admiration for anyone who can keep still and who is close with money. Witness all the Scotch stories.

WHAT KEYSERLING SAYS

Count Keyserling says we are all turning Indian—taking up the ancient heritage. Unquestionably that is the cause of the popularity of heroes who grunt in monosyllables.

TERRIBLE!

It looks to me as though the next war would be between Boise City and Pocatello, Idaho. I have a letter from that State rebuking me for saying that Senator Borah comes from Pocatello. It appears that Borah lives "not at Pocatello, a dirty, selfish railroad-shop city, but in beautiful Boise, serene, tree-towered capital of Idaho."

HIGHBROW

When an asserted dope peddler writes letters like this to jailbirds in prison, you have to come to the conclusion that the world is become so highbrow that it is almost beyond human endurance: "Before you and I were born, there were dawns and twilights and it was not without design that the revolutions of the skies were sanctioned."

GIVE THEM A CHANCE

The comments of some of the eastern medical journals on the cancer experiments of Drs. Coffey and Humber are unreasonable and cruel. No claim has been made that it is a cure. No discoverers have ever put forth their tentative gifts more modestly. They cannot know what they have found until they try it on sufferers—who have nothing to lose.

DEAF GROUPS TO MEET

Mrs. Theodore Poindexter, San Francisco, vice-president of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing, is conferring with local representatives on the annual conference to be held in this city, April 14-15. Delegates and visitors from the twenty-three organizations of the Pacific Coast and Western States and Canada are expected.

JOLSON SINGS AT AUTO SHOW

Seventeenth Annual Exhibit Interests Throngs

Antiquated and Latest Model Vie for Attention

John Barrymore Scheduled Attraction Tonight

BY AL FARMENTER

"I remember when" is the slogan of visitors at the seventeenth annual Los Angeles Automobile Show being held this week at Shrine Auditorium. Going through the ballroom where most of the 1930 models are displayed the visitors usually find their way down a flight of stairs to the banquet hall where the cars of the very first days of the automobile are displayed. Here they remember these old cars in their prime with their wagon wheels, one cylinder motors, doors in the rear. There are a limitless number of laughs whether the spectator ever rode in one of them or not.

These cars, thirty in number, are just about the oldest things in Los Angeles coming in classification of automobiles.

MOTORS ANYWHERE

Three cars made in 1900 are there varying in their stages of "nudity." Some are paintless (and these characteristics are typical of all the old cars there in the Shrine) windshields are something that came under the head of extras in those days and are absent, lamps are the carbide type and made of brass.

Many of these old cars had the radiator immediately under the driver and passenger's feet—funny-looking things. Curved dashes. Wooden bodies with carved thing-amajigs to ornament them. High tops. Door entering the middle of the rear seat. This is in a 1903 Ford.

A one-cylinder motor. A two-cylinder motor. Motors under the seat and back of the seat. Cranks at the side. Bodies at step-ladder heights.

A model like the first car to travel around the world. Another like the first to be driven from San Francisco to New York.

Their dates are 1900, '02, '03, '04, '06 and so on. One is a car built in Los Angeles, a Tourist of 1905. It sold for more than $1300, lamps, windshield and practically all parts but wheels, body and motor extra.

DISPLAY OF LATEST

They are part of the entertainment. A band is another part, but the feature is the attendance of stars. Mary Pickford was there opening day and last night Al Jolson sang from the stage in the ballroom. Tonight John Barrymore will furnish the entertainment with the soliloquy from "Richard III."

In the display of 1930 cars such things as dual ignition, a feature of the Nash display; adoption of hydraulic shock absorbers in practically all lines, including the lower-priced ones.

Mechanical features that are improvements over past cars still hold the interest in the 1930 car exhibits. The dual ignition in Nash is gaining interest for that exhibit. Chevrolet in the low-price group brings to attention the fact that even those cars with the smaller price tags now have shock absorbers.

There is a sixteen-cylinder car, the Cadillac V-16. More than a dozen new eights and practically an equal number of sixes. There are only three four-cylinder models exhibited. The Plymouth, Ford and Durant are all that are left in this group.

LIFE ENDED BY HANGING

Despondency caused David Wilson, 25 years of age, a barber, to commit suicide by hanging himself in his garage at 7750 Ethel avenue yesterday. The body was discovered by Mrs. Wilson. He formerly worked at 4260 Lankershim Boulevard.

VETERAN RAILWAY WORKER SUCCUMBS

A railroad career of fifty-one years came to an end yesterday when Harry Isaacs, assistant general baggage agent of the Santa Fe Railway, died at the Santa Fe Hospital at 3:30 p.m. Apparently in usual health Sunday, he was not taken to the hospital until yesterday morning.

Mr. Isaacs, who was well known in railroad circles, entered the service of the Santa Fe at El Paso, Tex., in 1882, as baggage master and freighthouse foreman, after three years' experience with the Southern Pacific. Later he saw service with the Santa Fe at Winslow and Colton and was appointed assistant general baggage agent in 1910, with headquarters in Los Angeles. In recent years he made his home at the Alexandria, where he became ill Sunday night.

ENGLISH ACTOR GIVEN SUSPENDED SPEED FINE

The journey of Desmond Roberts, English actor, to take his part in the matinee performance of "Journey's End," running at a downtown theater on the 13th inst., ended yesterday in Municipal Judge Bush's traffic court. The journey, it developed, was interrupted at Wilshire Boulevard and Vermont avenue by Traffic Officer S. J. Anderson, who gave Roberts a tag for driving thirty-eight miles an hour in a twenty-mile zone. Roberts explained to Judge Bush that London, in which he has done most of his driving, has no speed regulations and that traffic moves there on the left side of the street. The difference bewildered him, he said. Judge Bush suspended a $5 fine for five days on condition that Roberts learn the local traffic regulations in that period.

TAX OFFICIAL TO SPEAK

WEATHER HALTS RACE TO WIFE'S FUNERAL

While flying here to attend his wife's funeral, H. L. Henderson of Detroit, formerly a city trustee of Venice, last night was forced by weather conditions to stop overnight at Albuquerque, N. M. His wife, Mrs. Jeanette Henderson of 1500 Venice Boulevard, died Saturday night following an attack of pneumonia. The Hendersons' daughter Marianne, 13 years of age, and C. W. Dixon, a brother of Mrs. Henderson, were with her at the time. Upon being notified Sunday morning Henderson, who is an advertising manager of the Detroit Times, started from the Michigan city by air routes, scheduled to reach here last evening via Western Air Express. The plane was forced to lie over.

HEARING DATE FIXED IN LIQUOR-CANDY CASE

Victor Menacker, head of the Reliable Trading and Sales Company of 303 Aliso street, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Head and his hearing on a charge of selling candy containing liquor was set for March 10, next. Earlier in the day Menacker failed to appear and the commissioner forfeited his bond of $3500. This order was later set aside when Menacker arrived and explained his failure to appear was due to a misunderstanding.

DR. POPENOE WILL SPEAK

Popenoe's subject will be heredity and family relations. The lecture is open to the public, and is free.

crash and fire and spread his parachute over near-by brush so the scene of the mishap could be located from the air. Then he found a highway where he was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to St. George. There he received medical attention for his spine.

Although it was thought at first that Kelly had suffered only a badly strained back, subsequent examination is said to have disclosed that his vertebrae was fractured and upon his return to this city he was rushed to the Good Samaritan Hospital. No specific information concerning his injuries was obtainable at the hospital last night, but it was said there that he was resting comfortably.

The country in which Kelly was forced down is believed to hold the secret of another Western Air Express pilot, Maury Graham, who disappeared a month ago and, although an object of wide search, has not been located.

DOLES RESOURCEFUL

The company officials feel no great apprehension for Doles and Bieber. They are thought to have been caught in unfavorable flying weather and landed with possible damage to the plane which will keep them earthbound until assistance arrives.

Doles's skill and resourcefulness under adverse conditions received wide attention several months ago when he and his ship and two passengers were caught in bad weather and he landed on a rugged New Mexican mesa. He was missing for thirty hours but returned safely with plane and passengers when the weather cleared.

WAR FLYER AND STUDENT KILLED IN FALL

SANTA MARIA, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—A flying ace of the Royal Air Force in the World War and a fledgling pilot were killed today when a training ship of an aviation school crashed on the Ontiveros Ranch, fourteen miles east of here. Joseph W. Pearson, 31 years of age, the ace-instructor, and Thomas J. Middleton, 24, of 222 McCadden Place, Los Angeles, apparently were attempting a forced landing when the craft went out of control and crashed, according to witnesses. Middleton died instantly, and Pearson, employed by the Hancock Foundation College of Aeronautics, died in an ambulance.

ORDINANCE ADOPTED

The Council also adopted and set for hearing on April 4 the ordinance of intention for the improvement of Two Hundred and Fifty-seventh street between Belle Porte avenue and Governor avenue, and for the improvement of the streets in the Crestihaven Drive and Rosswood Terrace district.

Dr. Thomson will speak on "Evolution and Human Life," at the Philosophical Union meeting Friday evening in Royce Auditorium.

FUNERAL OF A. W. FRYE TO BE TODAY

Banker and Business Man Succumbed at Long Beach Following Operation

Funeral services for Anthony W. Frye, banker and business man, who died Saturday at the Community Hospital, Long Beach, following an operation for mastoid trouble, will be conducted at 11 a.m. today at the Los Angeles Crematory chapel. Christian Scientists will be in charge of the services.

A native of Lucas, O., Mr. Frye, who was 56 years of age, was a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College of Pennsylvania, where he was a star on the football team. Later he played baseball on the Chicago National League team.

Mr. Frye came to Southern California in 1909, since which time he had lived at Hynes. He was a member of the Compton Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Frye's first work in the Southland was as financial secretary to H. C. Merritt of Pasadena. Later he became cashier and auditor of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, and then became vice-president of the Bank of America, which he helped to organize. After serving as vice-president of the People's Bank, Mr. Frye became organizer and president of the Insurance Plan Building and Loan Association.

Mr. Frye at one time was treasurer of the Los Angeles Flood Control Commission. Formerly he was a member of the executive committee of the Municipal League. In 1921-22 he was president of the City Club, and was a director at the time of his death.

Mr. Frye leaves his widow, Mrs. Cora Frye; his daughter, Miss Jane Elizabeth Frye, and his sons, William A. and Carl A. Frye.

NORMAND RITES AWAIT MOTHER

spontaneous comedienne and I a loyal friend."

Charles Chaplin, for years a friend of Miss Normand, said:

"I am deeply grieved over the loss of a dear friend."

Other of her old studio associates, Blanche Sweet, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels, Marie Prevost, Wallace Beery, Ben Turpin and Roscoe Arbuckle expressed similar sentiments over Miss Normand's death, which culminated a long and brave fight against tuberculosis.

DETAILS OF DEATH

More details of Miss Normand's death at the Pottenger Sanatorium in Monrovia were told yesterday by Mrs. Julia Benson, for eight years her secretary, and one who was perhaps more intimately acquainted with the actress than anyone else. Mrs. Benson said yesterday she had a premonition that Miss Normand was reaching the end of her desperate battle.

"I usually left Miss Normand at 10 o'clock every night to retire in a room adjoining," Mrs. Benson said.

"But Saturday night I felt lonely and instead of going directly to bed I called the Cody residence to get the housekeeper, as I wanted to talk to somebody. When I went back up to Miss Normand's room I realized at once she had taken a turn for the worse. I could tell by her breathing and by her eyes that she would soon go to sleep forever."

At 2:25 a.m. Sunday Miss Normand passed on quietly, with Mrs. Benson and a nurse at her bedside.

TAYLOR MENTIONED

According to Mrs. Benson, only once during recent months—about three months ago—did Miss Normand make any mention to her concerning the William Desmond Taylor murder case in 1922, when her name was brought into the limelight because she was the last person to see Taylor alive.

"She seldom if ever spoke of Mr. Taylor and on this occasion she merely expressed a wish the mystery of his death would be solved before she died. She always felt she had told all she knew about the case, and for that reason there was no more for her to say."

Yesterday scores of curious visited the funeral parlors or called to view the remains, but all were turned away at Cody's request.

and I will pray for you and remain your friend." It was signed "A. D."

Several messages from cranks and fanatics have been mailed to the Coolidges since their arrival here a week ago, Hynes said. All of them, he stated, we easily recognized as coming from people who attempt to reach distinguished personages.

No increase in the Coolidge guard was directed on account of the warning, but orders were issued to the four officers to redouble their vigilance while the guests are away from the hotel.

DOLLAR ROBBERY PENALTY FIXED

Pair Get Probation But They Must Spend Six Months in County Road Camp

Wilbur H. Fluke and Stanley G. Dearwater, convicted of robbing Charles Schwabe of $1 on December 17, 1929, yesterday were granted two and one-half years' probation by Superior Judge Brittan with the understanding that the first six months of this time be spent in the county road camp.

Mrs. Clara Bleich, who was convicted of acting as the lure to take Schwabe to the place where he was robbed, was sentenced to San Quentin prison a week ago.

Marriage Bureau Holds Up Filipinos' Applications

Judge to Give Early Ruling on Injunction Plea

Robinson Girl Reported Wed to Moreno in Mexico

At least a dozen Filipino young men who have applied for marriage permits in Los Angeles county to marry white women now must wait until Superior Judge Smith dissolves or makes permanent the temporary injunction obtained by Mrs. Stella Robinson to enjoin County Clerk Lampton from issuing a marriage license to her daughter, Ruby Robinson, 22 years of age, and Tony V. Moreno, 24-year-old Filipino. The mother seeks to prevent her daughter's marriage under California's miscegenation law, which forbids the marriage of a white with a negro, mulatto or a Mongolian. She holds Filipinos are Mongolians.

Since Mrs. Robinson instituted her injunction proceedings on the 7th inst., the County Clerk has issued orders to Miss Rosamond Rice, marriage license clerk, not to issue any more licenses to Filipinos contemplating marriages with white girls until there has been a ruling on Mrs. Robinson's injunction. Up until last night twelve of these applications had been held up by Miss Rice.

REPORTED ALREADY WED

There was a rumor at the Courthouse yesterday that Moreno and the girl had gone to Tia Juana and been married there. Neither of the attorneys representing Mrs. Robinson had had any official word to that effect, but they said that if the couple has been married in Tia Juana the marriage will not be recognized as legal in this State if the contention that Moreno is a Mongolian is upheld.

Color was lent to the report of the Mexican marriage by the fact that a subpoena had been served on Moreno several days ago to appear in court today, but he did not appear. The subpoena had been served at an apartment-house at 936 South Fremont street and a call there elicited the information from the manager that Moreno had only stopped there several days last week with two friends who live there. The statement was made by one of Moreno's friends that he and the girl had been married in Tia Juana more than a year ago and wished to be married in this city only because they were not certain of the validity of the Mexican ceremony.

Arguments on Mrs. Robinson's petition for a permanent injunction were heard yesterday afternoon by Superior Judge Smith of Calaveras county, sitting here in Department Forty-seven of the Superior Court. At the close of the hearing he announced there will be an early decision.

It developed at the hearing that last year fifty-five applications of Filipino men to marry white girls were made in Los Angeles county. Out of this number forty-eight licenses were issued. Only one license was issued to a Filipino man and Filipino woman to marry.

Attorney H. S. Harper, who, with Attorney Joseph H. Goaling, represents Mrs. Robinson, said that Los Angeles county is the only one in the State where a Filipino man or woman can obtain a license to wed a white.

Deputy County Counsel Penn, representing the County Clerk at the hearing, told the court the main question to be settled is whether a Filipino is a Mongolian, as outlined in the State's miscegenation law.

DISPUTE OVER RACES

Attorney Penn argued that from the time of Blumenach, the great scientist and enthnologist, who flourished in 1775, down through Linnaeus, Cuvier, Buffon, H. G. Wells and A. H. Kean, there has been a dispute as to whether Malays and Filipinos are Mongolians. He cited Webster taking Blumenach as authority that there are five races, the Caucasian, Ethiopian, Mongolian, Malay and American redskin.

Dr. Walter Sylvester Hertzog, for eighteen years director of historical research in Los Angeles, declared on the stand that in his opinion native-born Filipinos are Mongolians, and that all of the brown races are Mongolians. He declared that a Filipino is a mixture of black negritos race, and yellow Mongolians, which makes a brown race.

Attorney Harper also presented to the court an opinion in which Filipinos are classed as Mongolians, therefore barred from marrying whites in California.

a member of the congregation, who was present, approached, stated his authority and promised to use it if Roberts did not cease talking. The girl stopped, and sat down.

PROPERTY VALUABLE

Inquiry yesterday among the 400 members of the Pomona dissenters revealed only this version, although reports had spread that Miss Semple was ejected bodily.

Mr. Turner yesterday consulted Charles R. Stead, attorney of the congregation, regarding taking steps to gain legal control of the $50,000 church property, and also regarding the asserted invasion by Miss Semple. The lawyer advised against pressing the matter of Roberta's speech any farther. The Pomona church is a valuable piece of property at the corner of Monterey and the corner of Monterey and Rebecca streets, Pomona.

BANDIT VICTIM HIT ON HEAD WITH GUN

Sheriff's office investigators are seeking two bandits who Saturday night held up and robbed Clark L. Gray of 16429 Massachusetts avenue, and Vera Wilson of 15937 South Main street. Gray reported that he and his companion were accosted by two men as they were driving on Ballona avenue near Western avenue and that he was struck over the head with a gun when he hit one of the men with his fist, fearing he intended to harm Miss Wilson. Gray said he lost $20.

LAYER VIEWS BODY OF WIFE

"Breaks" After His Visit to Morgue

Love Murder Formally Laid to Meat-Cutter

Self-Justification Vanishes at Inquest

For the first time since he shot and killed his beautiful wife and her married lover, Sigurd Bjorneby, in her apartment last Friday, August Gingell, Glendale meat-cutter, displayed signs of remorse yesterday when he was led from his cell in the County Jail to attend the Coroner's inquest he asked Detective Lieutenants Condaffer and Ryan whether he might be permitted to view her body. The request was granted and he was taken to the County Morgue, where he stood gazing upon his dead wife's face for several minutes. Then, without a word, he covered her face and turned away to rejoin the officers. His eyes were misty and his lips quivered.

"SHAKY IN KNEES"

Once outside the room where his wife's body lay the slayer confided to the detectives that he was "beginning to feel shaky in the knees." His air of self-justification was gone and he appeared to be extremely nervous as he sat listening to the testimony of his wife's brother, Ray Ramsey, and Fred Bjorneby, brother of the man who was slain for love of Mrs. Gingell. The testimony of both witnesses was confined to identification of the victims' bodies. Detective Lieutenant Ryan told of the finding of the bodies of the pair in the woman's apartment and described the gun from which the fatal shots were fired. His testimony was corroborated by Officer Swant of Georgia-street division.

HEARING DATE SET

Following a verdict that the two met their deaths by gunshot wounds inflicted by Gingell with homicidal intent, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney issued a complaint charging Gingell with two counts of murder.

The defendant was then taken directly to the court of Municipal Judge Ballard, where he was arraigned. The preliminary hearing was fixed for March 4, next, and Gingell was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff without bail.

ANGRY WIFE TEARS OUT "SCALP LOCKS" OF RIVAL

Helen F. Edwards found her husband, Charles E. Edwards, with another woman. She tore out a handful of the other woman's hair, became hysterical and fled to the office of the apartment-house in which she was living, she testified yesterday when asking Superior Judge Archbald to grant her a divorce.

Mrs. Edwards also asserted her husband refused to support her.

The wife testified she saw the other woman sitting on her husband's lap and that they were making love to each other.

Edna Abbott, whose father owns the apartment house where the Edwardses resided, testified for her. "She came into our office. She was almost hysterical and had two handfuls of hair, "Miss Abbott said. A decree was granted.

BOY'S DEATH ASCRIBED TO BOOTLEGGER

Police Hunt Purveyor of Liquor to High School Youths After Fatality

Search for a bootlegger who sold whisky to high school youths, resulting in the death of one, was begun yesterday by police, following a post-mortem examination of the body of Donald Ashworth, 16 years of age, of 324 Kendall avenue. Four youths and two girls went riding in a motor truck Sunday and three of the boys drank whisky, police reported. Ashworth died of acute alcoholism, Autopsy Surgeon Wagner reported yesterday, following the post-mortem examination. This corrected prior reports that the liquor was poisoned.

With Ashworth, police records show, were Lyle Seid, 17, of 514 Gladys avenue, who drove; Charles Post, 17, 428 Redfield street; Paul Phelps, 1946 Oak Hill street; Evelyn Cameron, 15, 320 Avenue 60, and Anabel Miller, 15, 5922½ Pasadena avenue.

During the ride, police say, Ashworth, Post and Phelps drank liquor which one had obtained from a North Main street bootlegger. The other two boys became ill, Post being taken home, while Phelps was treated at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Phelps yesterday was held as a material witness.

TRANSCONTINENTAL COMMUTER LEAVES

Maurice Chevalier, who commutes from Los Angeles to New York, New York to Paris and back again almost between every picture, is on the train today for another 3000-mile journey. He left Hollywood yesterday for New York City aboard the Union Pacific Los Angeles Limited.

Chevalier recently finished a picture at Paramount's Astoria (Long Island) studios. He then came west for an engagement in San Francisco and to Hollywood for "Paramount on Parade."

STREET WORK ADVANCED

The City Council yesterday denied all protests against the improvement of Fallston street from Avenue 55 to Avenue 56, and confirmed the assessments for the improvement of Rhodes avenue between Kittredge street and Victory Boulevard. Hearing of protests against the improvement of streets in the Cove avenue and Cove Way district was continued until March 24.

SUSPECTS ARRAIGNED

United States Commissioner Head yesterday arraigned Charles Connell, Leslie Fisk and Robert B. Leatham on charges of possessing counterfeit 50-cent pieces. The three were arrested by police and W. W. Ashe, chief agent here for the Treasury Department. The case was set for hearing on March 8, next.

Stevens to Head Phi Beta Dinner

Bishop Stevens will preside tonight at the annual midwinter dinner of Phi Beta Kappa alumni, beginning at 6:30 o'clock in the University Club. Dr. J. Arthur Thomson, Regius professor of natural history of Aberdeen University, is to be guest speaker. The Trojan Trio will sing, with Eloise Jones, Peggy Binkley and Eunice Erickson, vocalist, accompanied by Glena Gould.

Dr. Frank C. Touton, secretary of the national honorary society, announced that all recently arrived members who are not listed may make reservations by calling him or the University Club.

MURDER COUNT LAID TO DRIVER

Safety-Zone Invader Held on Grave Charge

Five Others Arrested for Reckless Driving

Three Men Die in Crashes, Three May Die

Thomas Bell, 36 years of age, of 1046 West Washington Boulevard, who Sunday night crashed his automobile into a group of seven persons standing in a safety zone at Fifty-ninth street and Avalon Boulevard, yesterday was in the County Jail on a technical charge of murder, in addition to a felony charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. The charge was filed following the death of J. J. Bailey, 60, of 209 East Ninety-seventh street, in the General Hospital.

Physicians at the hospital last night said that five of the six other persons injured in the crash are not expected to live.

Two men were killed instantly and three other injured seriously when the automobile in which they were riding skidded into an embankment on the highway at Mint Canyon summit early yesterday morning.

Harry Pernoud, 403 West Ninety-seventh street was fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Pacific Electric car at the Atwater and Glendale Boulevard crossing last night. The automobile was driven by J. F. Kreitzer, 2010 West Fifty-sixth street. Pernoud died a few minutes after being taken to the Pasadena Emergency Hospital.

FIVE ARRESTS MADE

In the wake of a series of week-end accidents, in which 197 persons were treated for injuries at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital during the forty-eight hours between noon Saturday and noon yesterday, police arrested two men for driving while intoxicated, a man and a woman for failing to stop and render aid, and one man driver was held when found drunk in an automobile. Check of police records show that out of 804 accidents reported in the first twenty-four days of this month, 1002 persons have been injured.

Other persons injured by the crash of Bell's car into the safety zone are George Lents, 49; his wife, Charlotte, 42, of 1288½ Sunset Boulevard; Ray Bentley, 43, of 846 East Ninety-seventh street; Mrs. Ira Hamilton, 54, of 435 East Eighty-third street, and Alvis Kurpier, 53, of 800 East Eighty-seventh street. Rose Lents, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lents, was not seriously injured. Bentley, with Mr. and Mrs. Lents, was transferred to the General Hospital. Kurpiey was taken to the California Lutheran Hospital.

LYNCHING AVERTED

Numerous witnesses who watched Bell's automobile hurl the pedestrians from the street-car safety zone, excited to mob spirit, were prevented from injuring the driver by the prompt arrival of a squad of officers. Bell was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Kirkpatrick, after an examination, declared him to be under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Police records show that Bell has been in custody before as the result of a traffic accident. He was arrested December 7, last, for suspicion of failing to stop and render aid after his car is said to have struck down a child at Sunset Boulevard and Mohawk street. The records show that this charge later was reduced to reckless driving and, on January 6, last, the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

HIT-RUNNER HUNTED

A hit-and-run driver was the object of police search yesterday afternoon after W. M. Fitzpatrick, doorman at the Biltmore, was painfully injured at Eleventh and Flower streets. Police reported that the offending driver's car struck and overturned the machine in which Fitzpatrick was driving, then fled.

Edward Hahn, 50, of 326 North Hill street, received internal injuries which may result in his death, according to police, when he was struck down at Fifth street and Gladys avenue yesterday afternoon by an automobile driven by M. McClanahan of 517 Setterly street. McClanahan was not held. Hahn after receiving emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital was transferred to the General Hospital.

VICTIMS OF SPEED

The two men killed on the Mint Canyon highway were John Genaroal, 754 New Depot street, and Steve Vasquez, 211 South Eastern avenue, Belvedere. Their bodies were taken to the Paschall & Gault undertaking parlors in San Fernando. Others injured were Manuel Medina, 211 South Eastern avenue, Belvedere; Leo Cambros, 610 North Alameda street, and Frank Barrera, 1820 East Forty-third street.

According to Sheriff's officers, the accident occurred when the automobile, driven by Genarosi at an excessive rate of speed, skidded for more than 100 feet into a bank, rebounded into the highway and overturned.

COUPLE BOOKED

Miss Helen Rand, 22, and Jack Anderson, 29, both of 1047 South Irolo street, were yesterday booked on suspicion of failing to stop and render aid when their automobile was partially identified as the one which struck Miss Edith Booher, 38, of 1215½ West Forty-second street at Tenth street and Magnolia avenue late Sunday night and then fled. Miss Booher was seriously injured and is expected to die at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

After he is said to have driven his car into a machine belonging to Sam Bean of 1153 North Sycamore avenue at Seventh and Hoover streets, Eugene W. Dickason, 34, of 919 South Beacon street, was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

A similar charge was placed against Jack Peterson, 32, of 301 Orange avenue, Whittier, when he was found driving without lights, according to police, at Seventh and Beacon streets.

Desserts Today by Chef Wyman

The program at the Los Angeles Times' Cooking School today at 2 p.m. will be of especial interest to women who enjoy making desserts.

In response to requests Chef Wyman again will show how to make delectable lemon chiffon pie. She will also prepare blueberry pudding, French coffee cake and cocoanut cookies and will demonstrate another of the popular Mexican dishes, noodles.

The Times invites everyone to attend these classes every Tuesday and Friday in the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

WIFE FILES CROSS-SUIT

Mrs. Marie Bryan, defendant in a suit for annulment of marriage filed by Milton Bryan, Jr., yesterday answered with a cross complaint in which she accused Bryan of forcing her to live in a lonely mountain cabin to conceal her condition from her parents before a child was born. Mrs. Bryan, represented by Attorney James N. O'Niel, asks alimony and custody of the child.

Shirley Palmer Proves Herself Forgetful Lady

Shirley Palmer, film actress, forgot to put her automobile in the garage on the night of July 24, 1929, she told Municipal Judge Bush yesterday when she appeared to answer a charge of parking between 2 and 4 a.m. on Franklin avenue on that date. She also forgot to appear in traffic court on the summons at that time, but came in yesterday after being notified that there was a warrant out for her arrest.

SHIRLEY PALMER

"The fine for parking will be the usual $2," said Judge Bush. "And if you'll tie a string around your finger to keep you from forgetting appointments made with police officers to visit the traffic court, I will suspend a fine on that count."

The actress paid the fine and applied the string as directed. She gave her address as 2421 North Gower street, Hollywood.

Today's Bible Text

For there is no respect of persons with God. For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law; and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law.—Romans ii, 11-12.

A HUMAN FIEND

The dog-poisoner who poured kerosene on a pup and set it afire should be tarred and feathered and hung up to dry at the end of a rope.

FACTORIES WON'T KICK

High school and college courses in prisons would at least keep the inmates so busy that they wouldn't have time to manufacture goods in competition with taxpayers of the State.

NEW COMET

A new comet has been discovered by an amateur astronomer in Ohio. However, that is not so much. A new star is discovered almost daily in Hollywood and it is no longer news.

SILENCE IS GOLDEN

Holding his tongue is said to pay Mr. Coolidge more per word than any other American writer gets. At least he is a relief from some of the self-appointed custodians of everybody's business.

BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL

The Board of Supervisors is asked to contribute a fund toward the survey of Bunker Hill to determine the feasibility of lowering the lump on the face of Miss Los Angeles. The original battle was but a skirmish.

RELATIVELY SPEAKING

Capt. T. J. J. See's retirement from the naval observatory at Mare Island should give him more time to prepare ammunition for his battle to disprove the Einstein theory. No, Capt. See is not one of the famous twelve.

KISSING CAPITAL

The Chicago husband and wife who sued a theater for refusing entrance because they necked ought to come to Hollywood. They collected $1250 damages. However, we pay as much as a million for a few osculations.

WOULD WALK ON WATER

A Ventura citizen writes that he would walk on water from his town to the Los Angeles port. All he wants to know is what support he will have. That is about all that anybody wants to know who tries to walk on water. Our sincere advice is, stay on land, brother, for support.

RAINING ORANGES

This is the sixteenth year that it has rained on the Orange Show at San Bernardino. As a rain-maker it is a world-beater. "It isn't raining rain" to us; it's raining oranges down—and lemons and avocados and walnuts and figs and butter and eggs. An orange show should be staged each month of the winter.

HOPE ETERNAL

Most of us live in hopes. We long for riches and when we get them we hope for influence and power. The discovery of gold in an isolated spot lures thousands of men and women, who brave untold hardships. So it is with the victims of dread diseases and explains the rush for the Coffee-Humber serum. The American Medical Journal calls the publicity "criminal." The stories printed in conservative newspapers never claimed that the extract was a "cure." But even the possibility that a thing might be true is enough to give a person facing death the greatest of hope.

LAW IS TO BLAME

Judge Fricke attacks the "silly, so-called examinations" given to applicants for automobile drivers' licenses. According to State highway patrolmen the recent re-examination of all drivers amounted to little more than a check-up on the motorists of the State. Under the law, if a driver failed to check the question list correctly he still could get a license by proving to the satisfaction of the examining officer that he could drive properly. Apparently a driver with one leg or arm missing, or one of each, cannot be deprived of a license if he can guide the car safely through traffic.

THE WATER SETTLEMENT

Settlement of the water division controversy with Imperial Valley, on a basis of 550,000 acre feet of title water to the Metropolitan Water District and 3,850,000 acre feet to the Imperial Irrigation District, while an extremely favorable settlement for the latter, need not be criticised captiously here. The Metropolitan Water District will have to look to surplus water for the additional 550,000 acre feet it needs, but it is to have first claim on California's share of that surplus, and from all indications will have little difficulty in getting it.

The Imperial Irrigation District at least should be abundantly satisfied, since, unless all engineers worth listening to are wrong, 3,850,000 feet is more by a considerable percentage than the district will ever be able to put to profitable use. And the district will be protected from flood devastation by a dam built at the expense of the cities of the Metropolitan District area, nearly 90 per cent of the cost falling on Los Angeles. The Imperial District gets this boon gratis.

The next step is to resume the Tri-State Conference and make a real effort to arrive at an agreement with Arizona, which, if it may be had on any reasonable terms, is far preferable to the alternative—a fight in court. There is no reason why California should deceive itself with the belief that victory in such a lawsuit is necessarily assured in advance. It seems probable that the courts would hold that Congress has authority to deal with an interstate stream with or without the consent of the States through which it flows; but probability is not certainty. The legal points involved are both new and intricate. It would be far better to settle the matter amicably, if such a settlement can be had. A fight between neighbors is always bad and for better or worse California and Arizona will have to live side by side. It will be more comfortable for both if they are on good terms, especially since in the long run their interests are identical; what helps either helps both. Now that California's internal difficulties have been ironed out, another effort to find a common ground with Arizona is desirable.

It is also desirable to have California go into court with clean hands; to be able to say that she has exhausted the possibilities of conciliation, if court action is finally found necessary.

There is another vital and compelling reason why the Lower Basin States should get together, besides the ones which are customarily mentioned. This is the necessity of their acting as a unit to prevent further diversions of Colorado River water into other watersheds. Denver, for example, is preparing to take 400 second feet of water for her municipal water supply. That is water that is lost to the Colorado basin, since there will be no return flow. Other cities or arable areas in a position to take water from the upper reaches of the river, or its tributaries, though they are located in other watersheds, may in the future desire to do so, and will do so unless there is a binding declaration, ratified by Congress and the President, that no other diversions save those to Denver and Los Angeles will ever be permitted.

The Lower Basin States need this guarantee that such upper-basin diversions as are made will not imperil their supply. Now is the time to obtain this guarantee. Without it, expenditure of money on lower-basin development would be hazardous. If the three States of the lower basin are acting as a unit they can obviously make a more effective claim for protection than if they are fighting among themselves.

MATERNAL MORTALITY

While science has been turning its attention to tuberculosis, diphtheria and typhoid fever, 15,000 women are dying annually in this country from childbirth, writes Dorothy Dunbar Bromley in Harper's.

Motherhood is said to be the greatest risk of womanhood between the ages of 15 and 45, save possibly tuberculosis. And what is more thought provoking, the mortality rate from this cause has not decreased since 1900.

With all our boasted sanitation and advancement in science and altruism, the women of the United States suffer more from childbirth than do the women of any other civilized country.

Chile did hold this dubious distinction for many years; but since 1924 we have headed the list with 6.5 per 1000. In Scotland the rate is but 5.8 for every thousand mothers. Then comes Germany with 5.3; England and Wales, 3.8; Italy, 2.7; the Scandinavian countries, 2.6; Netherlands, 2.3.

It is twice as perilous for a colored woman to become a mother as it is for a white woman. Possibly this is partly due to bad habits of hygiene and lack of proper attention. The high mortality among negro women is a partial explanation of the high rate in this country. And yet it cannot wholly be charged up to them; for the Caucasian rate is 5.4 per thousand. This is considerably higher than that of England under the same general racial conditions.

In Minnesota, with its large Scandinavian population, the rate of mortality of mothers is 4.4, as compared with 2.6 in Denmark. The only conclusion to be drawn is the difference in medical care.

It is a statistical fact that 65 per cent of the mortality is due to septicemia and toxemia. These are preventable diseases. In America, where we claim the highest regard for human life, we seem to be about the lowest in the scale.

THIS PROBLEM OF DRESS

The Vatican has taken up the cudgels against immodest dress for women, which is the right attitude for any church. But that doesn't settle the question as to what constitutes immodesty. Of that it seems the majority of our mothers and wives are the best judges. And if they prefer Hollywood to Paris who shall gainsay them?

A RUSSIAN HELPMATE

Nature was kind to Russia in giving that country the only big platinum deposits on the face of the globe. This most precious of metals is doing all that is possible to stave off the day of total financial ruin for the disciples of Karl Marx, but even platinum deposits cannot hold up indefinitely against such impossible economic theories.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

THE Industrial Workshop for the Blind at 1240 West Pico street is a place about which all of us ought to know, the blind because there they may sell what they can make if already they have received training or can learn to make things which may make them independent, or partly so; and sighted persons because there they may buy hand-made gifts for from 25 cents to $25 and feel that they are helping a laudable cause when they do so. The shop has been opened as result of a State appropriation and G. H. Rivenburgh, the superintendent, is a State employee.

Happy Blind People

When one visits this shop he is amazed to see how many useful and beautiful things the clever blind people of Los Angeles can make. But when he drops in on a Saturday afternoon, when the Cherrie Chase Club is meeting in the assembly-room behind the shop, he will cease to wonder. This is the same club that used to meet every Saturday afternoon at the Public Library, and we have mentioned it before. But now that the workshop is open, it has changed its place of meeting and the other day we attended its first meeting in the assembly-room of the workshop. Among the blind people we met there was a young man who plays and composes music and we were told that many consider him a genius. Two others, girls, were students in one of our universities. Several others were dressed in fancy costumes, made by themselves, which were supposed to suggest the titles of books they had read. They were having the jolliest kind of party, laughing and joking and chatting as brightly as any group you could find.

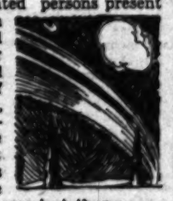
Parties Which Do Not Bore

"I was afraid to come here at first, for fear it would be too heartrending," one of the sighted women present told us. "When I read about this club I wanted to volunteer the use of my car, but hesitated on that account. But I went ahead and now I bring a carful of blind people here every Saturday. And I get more real happiness and satisfaction out of this weekly party than out of any others I attend."

Great Reward For Little Service

The pleasures of a columnist are many. He gets to meet many interesting people and see many interesting things. But the two biggest thrills of our modest career as a columnist have come as a result of this club. One came a year ago, when George E. Chase, who organized the club and keeps it moving, told us that as a result of an article we wrote several cars had been volunteered, several readers had joined his staff of helpers and one elderly couple had asked his advice on how best to bequeath property valued at approximately $100,000 for the use of the blind of Los Angeles. The other thrill came on the occasion of our most recent visit, when Mr. Chase asked those sighted persons present who had been impelled to aid the club by our articles to stand and perhaps half a dozen fine, sympathetic people rose. We couldn't count them. There was something the matter with our eyes just then.



Of course, we had done only what any newspaper man gladly would have done had the opportunity come his way. We had merely given the news, and those good people had done all the rest. But it made us feel a little more entitled to a place on earth, all the same.

Still a Chance For Helpers

There still is room for people who want to help this club for the blind, for its activities are spreading. Besides the weekly club meetings, little neighborhood groups of blind people now are being formed which need the services of readers and the services of a few more motor cars would come in handy, too. These blind people are intelligent, wide awake and up to date. They want to read the latest books, or some of them want to follow definite courses of reading. It is the aspiration of the club to bring all the intelligent blind people of Los Angeles into congenial groups which will meet once or twice during the week as well as at the Saturday afternoon parties. Branches of the club may be organized, too, in nearby towns and groups from other communities will be welcome at the Saturday parties at the workshop if their friends or neighbors will bring them in.

This is the sort of work most of us men like to applaud — and leave to the women. Most of Mr. Chase's fine staff of helpers are women. But men are not barred. And a good many men volunteer their services as entertainers.

EVENTIDE

How often after a day of storm and wind, whirling cloud and bright flashes of sunshine, a sudden hush at eventide will still the troubled elements, and out of the western sky the last ray of departing light will shine like a benediction, clear with the promise of the coming peace of nightfall.

It is so with certain human lives, spent in alternate hours of triumph and disaster, passing through a checkered day of sunshine and of showers, neither seeking nor finding respite nor asking odds of fate or fortune, but courageous and unashamed and ready to face the night when the sun sinks to rest at last.

It was so with Mabel Normand, for many years the queen of screen comedy, passing gayly and carelessly from triumph to triumph, enduring bravely unfounded suspicion and criticism, trials that sapped her strength and ruined her career; always the same, generous, lavish, seifless, throwing away the fruits of fortune on sycophants and ingrates; seeking no external aid when the dark shadows fell across her pathway—and in the last fight that vanquished her subsisting month after month on sheer courage and the determination to be "a good soldier."

And at the close of the day there surely came to this good soldier the benediction of a peaceful sunset after a stormy day. For when at her request her nurse leaned over her to repeat the words of a simple prayer of her childhood, her eyes still smiled the words her lips were past the strength of forming.

Many will say with the cant of the pack, "Poor Mabel Normand, she was her own worst enemy!" Let those who have never opened their hearts to unreasoned sympathy, who have never known what it means to be foolishly generous and gloriously oblivious of self, who have never been guilty of the impulsive act that scorns the caution of the crafty, who have never taken to themselves the lesson of the Good Samaritan, "lay this flattering unction to their souls."

As for poor Mabel Normand she has made that peace with God the toils and spoils of life denied her . . . a peace which the Pharisees who think they are their own best friends may some day seek in vain.

THE WATERS BILL

The Waters bill to amend the air-mail act is an administration measure. It is the result of careful investigation conducted under the direction of Postmaster-General Brown, to devise a more satisfactory sort of air-mail contract, one that will be fairer to the government and reduce the average cost of air-mail carriage, but will at the same time extend and stabilize the air transport industry. The objects are believed to be accomplished by substituting space rates for pound rates in the air-mail contracts, and the new contracts will be similar in this respect, if the bill passes, to the railway-mail contracts.

The new measure is fairer to the contractor because he is not required to gamble on the amount of mail to be carried. Under the present contracts, the airplane must fly whether it carries one pound or a thousand pounds; under the new he will be paid for space on a mileage basis, and will receive a fixed revenue.

The bill also provides that mailable matter of any description may be sent by air mail, letting in parcel-post and second and third-class matter.

The Waters bill was introduced in the House of Representatives the 4th inst. by Congressman Waters of Pennsylvannia, chairman of the subcommittee on air-mail contracts, and with the indorsement both of the Postoffice Department and the leading air-transport operators, it is believed that it stands an excellent chance of enactment. Certainly the public interest will be served by such a measure, which will permit a wide extension of air-mail service and speed up the postal service generally.

A TIP TO THE TURKS

By James J. Montague

We always have thought of the Turks
As a people forbidding and dour,
And nothing we know of their works
In the province of literature.
But now we are told that, though some of the race
Should rank with our best writing fellers,
Their yarns never yet have attained a high place
In the books of the modern quick sellers.

Their land is replete with romance,
Their ways are delightfully rough,
And their novelists have a swell chance
To turn out hot red-blooded stuff.
But none of them seems to possess the great gift
Of airing a queer eccentricity
Or posing as prophets which might give a lift
To securing the needful publicity.

The mines are worked out over here,
Our publishers have to take books—
And make them the Books of the Year—
Which deal with the same sordid crooks.
But the authors get 'round with the newspaper boys,
Quote lines from their stories and tout them,
And they sell by the hundredweight avoirdupois,
For the public soon knows all about them.

If these mute and inglorious lads
(As their publishers say that they can)
Turn out hectic novels in scads,
Let them get them put under a ban,
And when they're denounced by a justice or two,
And perhaps by a couple of pastors,
The present impoverished book-writing crew
Will be soon worth their weight in plastres.

FECHIN THE TARTAR

II.

BY FRED HOGUE

Internationally known as an artist, Nicholai Fechin remains the peasant son of the wood carver of the Volga. He works on his canvases as laboriously as his ancestors of the second and third generation labored on their fields. He fully measures up to Carlyle's definition of genius; for Carlyle wrote "Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains."

The impressionists have claimed Fechin for their own and his work is perhaps more closely related to that school than any other. But Fechin has something that the impressionists lack, a knowledge of line and technique acquired through years of study in one of the most rigorous art schools in the world. Most of the impressionists try to be brilliant in color, and succeed only in being muddy.

Fechin also knows his colors. Under Repin, he was required to learn to mix his own pigments. He is not limited by what comes out of the tubes. Modernists point to his canvases in justification of their excessive and exaggerated use of color. But the use of certain brilliant color compositions is a racial trait. From studying canvases in many countries and comparing them, I have come to a point where I can tell the nationality of the painter by the color effects he secures.

The supreme colorists come from the Mediterranean countries, the Balkans and Russia. The cold in clime are cold in color, just as they are cold in blood. In England and other northern climes shadows are black to the eye. The shadow of the oak or maple is darker than the bark. But, under hot suns of the southern deserts all shadow is color.

And all is color in a Fechin painting. There are no somber tints. Every inch of the canvas radiates light and color. He uses paint extravagantly, layer after layer on the canvas. But he is such a master of color that the effect is never muddy. An artist of northern blood who tries to paint like Fechin is doomed in advance to failure.

I have found his paintings more difficult to describe in words than those of any other artist about whom I have written. I cannot visualize his canvases by writing they are like some other master or some school; for we have nothing like them in western art.

His "Warrior Chief," painted from life at Taos, is a burst of color, almost as dazzling as sky rockets exploding at night. When one stands close to the canvas to examine it, the colors seem to be splashed everywhere, as though he had slapped his easel against the canvas. He has not painted an object, but the play of sunlight and crimson and purple shadow on the object. There is no texture to the garments; they are just splashes of paint.

But when one stands twenty feet back, the warrior chief in his eagle feathers and war paint appears. There are character and pride of race in the copper-colored features, as rigid as though cast in bronze. There are more shades and degrees of color in that canvas than there are names for color delineation in Webster's dictionary.

Three colors dominate the feathered headdress. He wears a purple shirt with red tie and a narrow green scarf, thrown about his shoulders, falls to the waist. The chief sits, life size, with legs crossed and hands clasped by the side of the knee. There is barbaric defiance in the posture, just as there is barbaric effect in the color. One senses some ancient relationship between the Tartar and the western Indian.

In the exhibition are a number of Indians, mostly women. A notable canvas, worthy of passing down through the centuries as have the paintings of the Italian Renaissance is that of the "Corn Dancer." It is a full length, more than life-size portrait of an Indian woman in green dress, hooked over the right shoulder, but leaving the left shoulder and the breast bare. It falls in loose folds to her ankles.

There is a sullen mutism in the features, typifying a low mentality. All is barbaric. One feels that she has never come in contact with the refinements of modern civilization; has not even passed through an Indian school.

Her tangled blue-black hair falls over her left cheek and shoulder. Her head droops and her lips are pursed in a sullen pout. Her drab green dress is fringed and lined with red and yellow.

In her hands are two bunches of wild desert lilies, resembling in form the tiger lily, but splashed with red and orange. She stands with toes awkwardly turned in; and she wears rough gray moccasins that look to me more Tartar than Indian.

Either Fechin lapses occasionally into Tartar types in painting the Indians of New Mexico, or the resemblance between the two is closer than I have known.

The Indian woman is painted in the open air, against a white-washed adobe wall. The background is indistinct, more color than form. As I study the canvas more attentively I detect the face of a little Indian child at her elbow, peering out as from behind the frame. In the background to the left, partly hidden in a bronze shadow, stands a tall Indian buck. In his face is that nameless expression of torture that appears in so many of Fechin's Indians. Red flowers are twined in his braided hair.

The background is partly shadowed by a broad limb overhead, with purple leaves and red flowers. The background on the right is an indistinct mass of the heads of bucks and squaws. The blankets and scarfs are splashed with red.

As I cast my eyes about in quick review there is color everywhere, singing, crashing, like Wagnerian music. But Fechin harmonizes it with his neutral tones. I am continually turning from his landscapes, notable after their fashion, but still barbaric, to his Indian figures, each carrying its individual note of tragedy.

His canvas entitled "Indian Singer" presents a squaw standing by a white wall that might be a rock or the corner of an adobe church. Form is often sacrificed to color in Fechin's backgrounds, and one cannot always be certain of the object on which the light and color play. She wears feathers of three colors in her hair, plastered smooth over the forehead. Two thin braids wrapped tight in bright blue ribbons fall over her shoulders. She wears a brown one-piece dress that might be of doeskin, falling to her knees. Below are lemon-colored pajama pants, or perhaps chaps. She wears doeskin moccasins with black beads. Over her right shoulder hangs a dark shawl dropping to her ankles.

Her head is turned to the right and her wide-open eyes are staring with a look of agony at something beyond the frame. In her face is deep agony, mingled with dumb terror. She is obeying some superior force that she dreads, perhaps abhors. The canvas might be called the slave woman.

I notice that the feathers where they touch the hair are fire-red. The painter wanted color for contrast and, like the primitive painters, he placed fidelity to color before fidelity to fact.

A companion picture is the "Call to Dance." Another Indian woman, younger and not devoid of charm, sits on a couch. Her head is thrown back, and an expression of agony and grief spreads over her copper-colored features. This canvas is a crescendo of color. She wears a pink waist. Over her left shoulder and right knee falls a mass of cloth, light blue, in a hundred folds. It is neither mantle nor shawl. In her hands is a brown musical instrument, probably a drum, for it looks like a small cask. She wears lemon-colored pantalettes bordered with red and striped with two white bands mottled with black.

Over the couch is thrown a bright red cloth; and to her right is one of blue. A bit of brown and gray sky forms the background. Evidently the call to sing is a call to torture. I cannot understand what type of dance Fechin has seen. The attitude and expression of the two singers could well typify that of the victims that were once summoned by the Romans to enter the arena of the lions.

Two smaller canvases depict to me the daughters of the soviets. Here we turn from Indian to white Slav type. One is the bust of a little girl, perhaps not more than 7. Her uncut, unkempt hair hangs over her forehead to her eyes and covers her ears. What looks like a boy's coat hangs loosely over her slight shoulders. In her round, black eyes is a willful stare, and her cherry-red lips are pressed tight together, forming a crimson gash across her daring mutinous face.

How those defiant eyes and mutinous lips follow one, beautiful but as repellant of affection as a cactus. Here has been no maternal discipline, no mother love. It is a little beast that defends itself with tooth and claw.

Another daughter of the Reds, a girl of perhaps 12; the same unkempt hair, defiant eyes and mutinous lips. She wears a white shirt waist with open collar and a blue and red flashy shawl drawn about her shoulders. Something in the expression of those childish faces makes me wonder what soviet Russia will be like when its unlicensed, unloved little human beasts grow to manhood and womanhood.

While living at Palm Springs Fechin is painting notable canvases of the native California palms growing in adjacent canyons. He tells me that Palm Canyon is far from the most picturesque, that others hidden away in the recesses of Mt. San Gorgonio are much more attractive.

"The Church, Taos" depicts the ruins of a mission church of burned-brown adobe bricks. There are two square bell towers surmounted by crosses. The style is neither Moorish nor Byzantine. The priests who drew the plans for these desert churches were picturesque, after their fashion, but they were not concerned about exterior harmony or beauty. They planned what the Indians could be taught to construct; and the buildings were as primitive as the race.

The church is falling into ruins. The bells have been removed and there are no priests to receive confessions; but the spirit of the God of the sanctuary is still there. In destroying the altar one does not destroy the god. In the foreground, a woman wrapped in a somber shawl has just risen from her knees; a Mexican woman who still comes to pray.

In all the Fechin canvases, especially in his figure painting, one senses the gloom, the morose view of life, characteristic of the Tartar. There is not a single smile, a single ray of hope in the gallery.

The lawyers and surgeons have had their crack at Tunney and that about completes his education except for a tip on Wall street.

Aerial Requiem Service Conducted

Tribute Paid to Those Who Died in Plane Catastrophe

FLYERS BEDECK SEA GRAVES

Flowers Scattered from Air Over Spot Where Pilots and Others Died in Film-Stunt Crash

With throttled motors eleven airplanes circled over the ocean off Point Vicente yesterday afternoon while a shower of flowers fell to the water's surface over the sea graves of Pilots Hallock Rouse and Ross Cook and three passengers who went to death in a head-on film stunt crash nearly two months ago.

In the cabin of the squadron's leading plane was Mrs. Hallock Rouse, offering a floral token of remembrance while pilots in the other ships dropped their flowers to the two pilots who were flying pals of theirs at Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport and whose bodies lie in sixty fathoms of water—too deep to be recovered.

Yesterday was a duplicate of that day on January 2, last, when the two motion-picture planes of Rouse and Cook came together in mid-air. And the aerial memorial squadron reached the spot of the disaster at approximately the same time of day. A brilliant sun cast a blinding reflection on the water—a similar reflection that is believed to have caused the fatal crash.

And in the control of the leading plane with Waldo Waterman, manager of Metropolitan, was Capt. Roscoe Turner, pilot of the third plane in the motion-picture stunt, who watched in horror the two planes that had been following him tumble in flames.

"It was right here," Turner shouted to Waterman

Mrs. Rouse tossed a wreath out of the door of the trimotored Bach. H. A. Waite, Rouse's uncle, threw out another floral piece and Hal Wells added other bouquets. That was a signal to the rest of the circling ships, banking easily in a half-mile wide arc, and tributes from all eleven fluttered downward.

They not only were in remembrance to the two pilots, but to the three Fox Film men whose bodies also remain on sea bottom, George Eastman, Otto Jordan and Henry Johannes.

The eleven planes flew in V formations in three groups, one group at 1700 feet and the other two at a safe distance above. They returned immediately to their home port.

Flyers who made the trip are Pat Fleming, H. C. Lippiat, J. B. Alexander, Earl Gordon, J. E. Anderson, Howard Murchie, Dave Postle, A. B. Greene, Roman Warren, Dale Straw, Dean Banks, G. E. Ruckstell and Walter Hawkins.

Judge Who Refused to Dismiss Berman Case Gets Ready to Fight Prejudice Charge

While nothing of record occurred yesterday in the controversy that developed last Friday between the District Attorney's office and Superior Judge McComb, when the latter refused to dismiss bribery charges against Jacob Berman and Ben Getzoff, unofficially there was considerable activity that was taken as an indication of events to come.

Judge McComb is known to have become up on the writ of habeas corpus that was obtained last Friday by Attorneys Jones and Christensen, after Judge McComb refused to dismiss the bribery charge and remanded them to jail. Under the writ obtained late Friday night, Getzoff was released on his own recognizance and Berman on $5000 bail.

ARGUMENTS IN JULIAN CASE TO CONTINUE TODAY

With at least three more lawyers to be heard from in rebuttal argument on a motion to quash the $15,000,000 Julian stockholders' suit against the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and a group of local brokers in Superior Judge Tappaan's court, probably all of today will be devoted to the legal points of the case. Two days already have been used by counsel who have argued the motion.

S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, whose cross-examination was suspended while the motion was argued, will resume the witness stand as soon as the arguments on the matter are completed.

Lewis, after four days of direct examination, was cross-examined by Walter K. Tuller, counsel for the stock exchange, for three days and still faces more cross-examination by other attorneys in the case. He is expected to remain under examination for at least three more days.

Together with Jack Berman, Lewis was called to give his deposition in Judge Tappaan's court, to be used when the stockholders' suit goes to trial at some later date.

spirit for fun. Mr. Booth had placed his watch on the table to time his speech. At one point he looked for it. It was gone. A moment later he discovered it in Mrs. Coolidge's possession, whereupon he retrieved it and continued.

After accepting the gavel from Mr. Crandall, Mr. Austin returned it to him as a memento of the year's service. Mr. Austin reviewed the history of the city and then pointed to the future, stressing the fact that Los Angeles is faced with the problem of again bonding herself to acquire additional water.

Mr. Shoup introduced Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific system, and E. J. Engle, vice-president of the Santa Fe railway, both of whom sat at the speakers' table. Others at the table were Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan and Mrs. Carnahan, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Bent, George L. Eastman, a former president; A. Schleicher, Dr. Ernest Moore of the University of California at Los Angeles; D. W. Pontius, president of the Pacific Electric Railway; J. A. H. Kerr, vice-president of the Security-First National Bank, and President Von KleinSmid of the University of Southern California.

The invocation was offered by Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, while Dr. Bruce Baxter gave the toast to George Washington. Another toast was drunk to President Hoover, while lights played upon the Stuart portrait of Gen. Washington above the speakers' table. Several solos were rendered by Norman Keich, while the Gene Quaw Orchestra played a number of selections.

CAUTIOUS CONFIDENCE

Mr. Booth astutely reviewed present economic conditions broadly against the background of 1928 and 1929. In the major industries he discerned the start of an upward trend from the crisis engendered by the stock-market disturbance of last fall, and to business generally he recommended confidence with caution for 1930—at least the first six months.

"It seems reasonable," he said, "to say that 1930 should be a good year—not so good perhaps in its first six months, but better in the last six. Political influences may affect it. Any year of tariff legislation is apt to be bad. Business can adjust itself to any certain conditions; its major problem is uncertainty. If Congress met once every three or four years it would be better for everybody, and a lot of temporary inequalities which we endeavor to relieve by law would be relieved by enlightened public opinion.

"If the business executives throughout the country will keep their eyes off the stock ticker and their thoughts upon the increasing problems of their business; if the farmer will give more heed to crop rotation than to political rooters; if the natural forces are allowed to work themselves out, the common sense of the American people, ably assisted by a very high measure of natural executive ability, will continue to build our social and commercial situation stronger each year, and 1930 should bring us our proper share of prosperity."

DIFFICULTY UNIVERSAL

Mr. Booth's observations found the Pacific Slope from Washington southward and the abutting States eastward to be a great empire "absolutely unparalleled in natural resources; in conditions of life and in ability to provide an artistic and cultural life of the highest character." When the Boulder Dam project shall have been completed, he said, the circle of the necessities of the "empire" will be rounded out.

He referred briefly to the tremendous advantages and benefits accruing to industrial and commercial enterprise by pure and applied science, and affirmed that such application of science will add immeasurably to standards of living.

"The acute financial disturbance of October and November, the repercussions of which are still being felt and the results of which are considerably undetermined," he said, "has left our people in a state of distinct uncertainty, looking anxiously forward to the future. It would be rash, indeed, to enter into the field of prophecy with so many factors still in doubt. We are too close to the picture to determine its ultimate reactions."

Mr. Booth praised President Hoover for calling conferences of major industrial and commercial chieftains to ally fears which oftimes, he said, have such potent influence in such crises. Business, many times, is influenced emotionally as practically, he said.

He also pointed out that President Hoover did not attempt to start construction or other activity arbitrarily in the face of the situation, but succeeded in calling attention to the strong phases of the situation when fears were inclined to emphasize weak features.

BENEFITS CITED

"This stock-market deflation with all its terrors has undoubtedly been of distinct advantage to national business," Mr. Booth declared. "The withdrawal of $2,250,000,000 from the call money market and its reallocation to the source from which it came is undoubtedly a distinctive constructive factor in the rehabilitation of our business situation. It makes the general business structure more sound than it was in the last half of 1929. This money was accumulated from all sections of the globe, attracted by the prevailing interest rates, but the majority of it undoubtedly came from the United States and put back to constructive uses in the territories where it originated it cannot help but influence favorably the future trend of business."

Mr. Booth asserted the average American's ideal of normalcy is a mental conception of the ideal condition, providing an imaginary normal which possibly never will be attained.

"Our present difficulties," Mr. Booth said, "are only those that come at the end of a long upward swing and are common throughout the world."

HOOVER PRAISED

The difficulties, he said, arise when overproduction becomes internationally general in defiance of the economic laws of supply and demand and when capital is employed in the security markets to the disadvantage particularly of the construction industry.

"The inevitable reaction on business," Mr. Booth said, "which followed was instrumental in precipitating the collapse of the most absurdly inflated price structure in our financial history. The panic on the stock market, in fact, reacted on business confidence and intensified somewhat the decline in industrial operations."

After further analysis, he asserted, however, the belief that that low point of decline has been reached and that while the upward trend is apparent now the latter part of 1930 will see a return of prosperous conditions.

Mr. Booth now finds the general financial structure in good order. He believes farm products for 1930 will equal 1929 at $8,844,589,000; that building recession has been overcome and gave figures for January; contracts of $1,455,600,000, a 78 per cent increase over January, 1921; that live stock will equal the agricultural return and that similar economic factors will have equal substance.

Mr. Crandall, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce, briefly expressed satisfaction and pleasure in the performance of duties for the organization and asserted that the chamber is increasingly taking interest in the cultural, educational and other activities in Southern California, to the benefit of the community as a whole.

He said that much progress has been made during the year in domestic and foreign trade, the establishment locally of industrial plants of nationally known concerns and in promoting agricultural benefits.

DIVORCEE SLAMS EX-MATE IN EYE

Then She Hits Bailiff as He Rushes to Halt Fray in Superior Courtroom

Edward A. Smith divorced Mrs. Mary A. Smith in Superior Judge Sproul's court yesterday, but that didn't mean he was through with her.

"I'll give you something to remember me by," said the involuntary but irate divorcee, as she leaped at Smith, slugging him in the eye with a fist.

Bailiff Bishop rushed to separate the combatants and stopped one himself. He detained Mrs. Smith under technical arrest until Smith had time to leave the Courthouse.

Bloodstains on Abandoned Car Stir Suspicion

Discovery of bloodstains and human hair on an abandoned automobile yesterday influenced Detective Lieutenants Wearne and Warren to ask for a District Attorney's complaint charging Mrs. Marion Wex with manslaughter. The officers say they suspect her of running down and fatally injuring Larry Levine, a newsboy, at Melrose avenue and Vine street last week. The woman motorist who did that sped away, leaving the mangled boy, who died later.

Sunday the detectives located a blodstained car which had been left at 723 West Mount Drive. The car's registration was made out to Mrs. Wex, who is 38 years of age, and who, neighbors said, moved away suddenly last week.

JIM TULLY, HOBO AUTHOR, AGAIN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Jim Tully, red-haired Hollywood hobo author, yesterday was made defendant in a suit for divorce filed by Mrs. Margaret Myers Tully at Las Vegas, Nev. She charges extreme cruelty. Mrs. Tully's action was no surprise, the suit having been forecast by The Times the 13th inst., when first news of the fact that she had established residence in Las Vegas and retained a lawyer was published. Her move was noted at the time Tully was busy exchanging dates with John Gilbert, the screen actor, following their fistic encounter in a Hollywood restaurant.

In her latest complaint, Mrs. Tully sets forth that her husband quarreled with her in the presence of guests and told her he wished that she would leave him. In 1929, the wife recites in her complaint, Tully threatened that if she did not leave him he would go to the South Sea Islands, and that he threatened her with "great bodily harm."

She asks to resume her maiden name, Margaret R. Myers. Mrs. Tully also has been known as Marna Tully.

His encounter with Gilbert recently was asserted by Tully to have been forced by the film actor, who resented parts of a magazine article by Tully. Ringside reports were that Tully knocked Gilbert down. Last week they were reported as having been brought together at the home of a mutual friend, and to have shaken hands without great enthusiasm.

Mrs. Tully is a daughter of R. Holtby Myers, a Los Angeles building-and-loan official. She and Tully were married January 24, 1925. Mrs. Tully instituted two suits for divorce in 1928, charging cruelty, but dropped the suits after a reconciliation. She was a student at the University of Southern California when she married Tully. His first wife, Florence B. Tully, divorced him in 1923, charging desertion. They were married in Ohio in 1919.

DRINK-POISONED GIRL RECOVERS

Marie Beste of Norwalk Party Victim

Fled Scene and Wandered Dazed in Street

Asserted Companion Held in County Jail

Marie Beste, 17 years of age, 130 West Olive street, Norwalk, yesterday was reported to be recovering from the effects of what is believed to have been poison liquor, which she drank last Saturday night. Following treatment at the General Hospital, she was taken to Juvenile Hall while deputy sheriffs conducted an investigation.

Declared by investigating officers to have been her companion at a dance and party in Norwalk, L. T. Eubanks, 19, 315 East Front street, Norwalk, was being held in the County Jail on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Suffering from impaired eyesight and in a dazed condition, the girl was found on West Sproul street early Sunday morning by Kenneth Burke, who summoned a doctor and notified authorities.

According to Deputy Sheriff Gompert, the girl told of having two or three drinks of liquor after attending a dance with Eubanks. In company with Eubanks and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williams, she attended a party at the home of Wayne Hannigan and then returned to the Williams home at 611 Valencia street, she told officers. She said she came to in the Williams home and fled from the house. When found she was wearing no shoes, stockings or coat, according to officers.

Gompert is investigating the source of the asserted poison liquor and stated that the girl was taken to Juvenile Hall when her condition was improved.

Growing Children
Must Have the Right Food

Everyone knows that a healthy boy or girl normally has a big appetite. Food must be right in quality as well as quantity, for quantity alone does not always provide proper nourishment.

Science has recently discovered a great food secret. Certain foods contain an essential element, important in sustaining life itself. This element is Vitamin B. It aids the building of health, strength and vitality. It promotes growth and assimilation and helps to overcome constipation. Leading specialists now agree that every child should have the proper amount of Vitamin B daily in his food.

Milk, butter, fresh fruits, vegetables and sunshine supply most of the other needed vitamins, but there is likely to be a serious shortage of Vitamin B in the diet of almost every child unless something is done to make up the deficiency of this vitamin in other foods eaten.

Vegex is the scientific solution of this problem, and a true food, pleasing to the palate. Children all like it and a little goes a long way, for Vegex is the richest known food in Vitamin B. One teaspoonful each day, added to foods your child likes best, will provide all that is needed. Moreover, Vegex will sharpen the appetite for other kinds of foods they ought to eat.

Make inquiry of your doctor and learn all about Vegex (known as Marmite in England.) a food which often helps where medicines have failed. Leading druggists and grocers have it and a trial jar costs only 15c. Ask your dealer for a free copy of the famous Vegex Cook Book.

Telephone employees are partners in the telephone system

THE men and women employed in the Pacific telephone system have a deep personal interest in the telephone business. For many thousands of those employed in serving Pacific Coast telephones, are part owners in the telephone system of the nation.

They own 96,000 shares and are actively engaged in paying for 138,000 more shares. They are an important part of the hundreds of thousands of stockholders who own the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.*

Operators, linemen, repairmen, installers, cable splicers, clerks—they have a personal interest in your telephone service. Not just because of the pay envelope. But because they are themselves important part-owners of the telephone system, the rest of which is owned by members of the public they serve.

These telephone people realize that the constant improvement of your service, the constant spread of telephone convenience, and the maintenance of the Bell System's reputation for fair dealing are the stones that build walls of security around their homes and their loved ones.

*Although the telephone was one of the greatest inventions of an age of large fortunes, no one has ever made a great fortune from it—in fact, there are not any "telephone fortunes." America's nation-wide telephone service today is owned by thousands of the people it serves. The capital stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (which owns 91 per cent of the common stock of the operating companies of the Bell System) is widely distributed. Of its stockholders, 20 per cent own over 25 shares; 20 per cent own from ten to 25 shares; and 60 per cent own from one to ten shares. No one person owns as much as one per cent of the capital stock.

RECREATIONAL PROGRAM TOLD

Women's City Club Hears Playground Official

Hoyt Plans Innovations to Entertain Parents

Pledges Himself to Carry on Hjelte's Policies

Raymond E. Hoyt, newly appointed superintendent of recreation, will carry out the program started by his predecessor, George Hjelte, he told members of the Women's City Club yesterday afternoon in the Figueroa Playhouse.

"We don't measure success by the number of playgrounds we build," he said, "but by the number of children and adults we serve. We counted 19,294,000 individual play and recreational periods enjoyed by the public during the last fiscal year."

Among the innovations Hoyt mentioned to be developed are "mothers' corners" in the community centers, where mothers may read and sew in comfort while watching their children play, and attractions for fathers. "Dads like to take the kids to the playgrounds," he stated, "because they know that there will be other men there to play chess, checkers, even croquet, and to pitch horseshoes with."

George Barnes, park commission member, deplored the apathetic attitude of the public toward the city parks.

Basting it several times with the fruit juice, then remove it to a hot baking dish, broiled side down. To the mashed potatoes add the heated milk which has been poured over the beaten eggs and butter, combine with the mashed potatoes and beat well. Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Immediately following an apoplectic attack, the patient's head and shoulders should be raised by a high pillow and all constricting clothing, such as collars, garters and belts, should be loosened. Cold or ice applications should be placed at the back of the neck, while warm applications may be used on the lower limbs or abdomen.

The patient will usually recover from the first attack, but he should immediately begin using a fasting regime to reduce his blood pressure and facilitate the dissolving of the clot or embolism.

The orange or grapefruit fast seems to be especially beneficial in these cases, and it should be continued for from six to ten days and followed by a carefully balanced diet. The one which is outlined every Friday in my newspaper articles is a very good diet to use for this purpose.

No heavy food should be given within several days after the attack or it will retard the cure. If the patient sticks to the fast he can accomplish more good in the first two weeks than can be done for him later on by two or three years of treatment.

Enemas should be used night and morning, using from one to two quarts of plain, warm water. The patient should be kept warm and should be disturbed as little as possible during an attack, and one must be careful not to apply too much heat to the limbs or abdomen, as the skin is not as sensitive to heat in this condition as in health, and may become burned without the patient being able to give warning.

No heavy exercise is advisable, but moderate walking may be recommended at the end of the fruit juice fast. The patient should make a special effort to discourage any habits of worry, fretting, fuming or anger. A tranquil, poised mind and a happy disposition will do much in preventing further attacks.

By following these very easy rules you can know that you are helping the patient to recover from the stroke in the shortest possible time. In those cases where paralysis is slow in leaving, a mild massage should be used, beginning about ten days after the stroke. As soon as the patient is able, he should practice active movements to overcome the tendency to muscular contraction.

I can assure you that if one of your family has a stroke and you follow this fasting regime and treatment which I have outlined you are doing the wisest and best thing that can be done.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Table Pads

Quilted table pads should be bought several inches larger than the table on which they are to be used. Otherwise when washed they will shrink to a smaller size than the table top.

Will Stick

If the frosting for the cake seems a little thin and you are afraid it will run off the cake, dust a little powder over the top of the cake and then frost the cake. It will make the icing stick nicely just where it belongs.

Household Nuggets

Dry silk stockings in a dark place.

A high wind will take the starch out of clothes.

When purchasing kitchen utensils avoid dirt-catching handles.

Sew strips of leather on the inside of trouser cuffs to prolong their wear.

A can of coke placed in the refrigerator will cause all odors to evaporate.

Strong soaps harden woolen materials and remove color from printed materials. Avoid them.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 8 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, enemas, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

SUGGESTIONS MORE POWERFUL THAN COMMANDS

Miracles of behavior can be accomplished by suggestions that fail to materialize when only commands are used.

"Go on outdoors and play like a good boy," says mother persuasively. She has pulled on leggins, tugged at rubbers, buttoned him into coat and mittens and fastened his cap under his chin. All ready for a nice long play outdoors. And in five minutes he is back, pressing his nose against the door and screaming to be let in.

"Play with your toys, darling," his mother admonishes. "Run your wagon up and down." Nothing helps.

Eventually she has to let him in, fearful that the neighbors will think she is murdering him. And he should be outdoors.

The child who plays alone and always in the presence of his mother is seldom happy when sent outdoors alone. If he is small he has no ingenuity and being set down in the presence of his toys doesn't inspire him to anything but tears. The very idea of being shut out of the house is enough to sour him on the whole proposition.

MOTHER'S HELPER

But suggestions accomplish miracles. Give him or her a broom and tell him he is to play he is mother's helper. If he is too young for a large size broom give him a play-size one and a dust pan to match. Ask him to sweep the porch for you, or the walk, and bring you the dust in the pan. What child but loves to sweep?

If he wants to come in when this task is finished, let him. Never make staying outdoors hateful to him. But be ingenious about thinking up tasks that he may accomplish for you. If his own toys are in plain sight on the porch the idea may strike him to use them. He will act upon his own idea much more quickly than he would upon a command from mother.

STORIES SUGGESTIVE

There are all manner of suggestions for almost every situation in the day: "When your cereal is gone you can wash the plate and spoon for mother." "Let's play you are a big worm and have to crawl upstairs to your little bed under a leaf." "Little wren let's hop outdoors, saying 'peep, peep.'"

Try it. It sounds silly, but the truth is that almost anything can be accomplished by keeping what seems disagreeable to the child in the background and suggesting actions that will be pleasant and amusing.

There are stories which one tells the child which suggest the kind of behavior we want him to imitate. And if he thinks of this imitation himself, how much more fun. When Danny remembers that Bertie in the story jumped up and gave his grandmother his chair, he tries it too, when grandma comes. And grandmother mustn't forget to say just as in the story, "How nice of you to remember that grandma likes this chair." It takes all the joy out of it for mother to say: "Danny, give your grandmother your chair."

Suggestions, suggestions, all day long, furnish oil to take the creak out of hard tasks and add color to cold reality. Mothers ought to keep a stock of suggestions on hand and constantly replenish them.

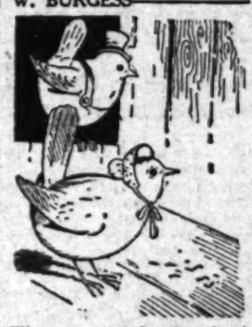
Persistence is a virtue when 'tis put to proper use;
But o'en a virtue, it would seem,
may sometimes lack excuse.
—Old Mother Nature.

Jenny Wren couldn't forget that queer insect in the shed of Farmer Brown's house. You will remember it was what is called a House Centipede. So she kept going back to look for it again. She didn't see it until the next day and then she spied it. She darted at it. As before, it ran into a crack. Jenny grabbed twice. Each time all she got was a leg and these she dropped. For a moment she quite lost her temper. But when she had calmed down a little she heard again that funny little squeak. This time there were two squeaks. That is to say, a squeak came from two different places.



"What are you hunting for in here?" he demanded

Jenny cocked her head to one side in order to listen to it. It sounded like the very faint squeak of an insect.

"There must be two of them," said Jenny to herself. "It's queer I can't find them."

Just then Mr. Wren joined her. "What are you hunting for in here?" he demanded.

"Listen!" said Jenny.

Mr. Wren cocked his head on one side and listened. "There are some insects around here," said he, and began to look about.

"That's what I thought, but I can't find them," said Jenny.

"What are those things kicking down there?" asked Mr. Wren.

"Legs," replied Jenny. "Twice I've tried to catch a queer fellow with long legs and all I've got was those legs."

"That noise seems to come from around them somewhere," said Mr. Wren, listening more intently than ever.

"I know it," said Jenny, "but you can see for yourself that there are no insects around them."

It was true. There wasn't the smallest of insects to be seen anywhere about. You may be sure that two pairs of bright eyes like those of Jenny and Mr. Wren would have seen the smallest insect. It was very mysterious. Together they hunted all over, but all their hunting was in vain. Finally they gave it up, for they could waste no more time with those hungry babies over in the nest.

But Jenny Wren couldn't forget that mysterious squeaking. She came back later. There was no squeaking. Once more she looked everything over thoroughly, then finally gave it up. "It is too much for me," said she. "I wonder if I shall hear that squeaking there again. I don't like mysteries. I don't like not being able to find things I know I ought to find."

Every morning the first thing Jenny Wren went to look for that Centipede, and every morning she stopped a minute or two to listen for that queer squeaking. But she didn't see the Centipede and she didn't hear the squeaking. Meanwhile the babies were growing fast and requiring more and more food. She forgot all about the Centipede. There was no time to think about anything but food. It was food, food, food from morning till night. She and Mr. Wren hardly had time to get enough for themselves. Hungry babies must be fed.

OIL AGREEMENT DELAYED AGAIN

Five of Santa Fe Springs Operators Prove Balky

New Meeting Will be Held Today by Objectors

Curtailment Plan Approved by 90 Per Cent Vote

For the second time within three days the Santa Fe Springs field operators yesterday failed to agree unanimously for continued curtailment of oil production and the companies declining to vote for the new agreement going into effect this morning, will meet today in an endeavor to settle their differences.

Ninety per cent of the operators voted to continue curtailment of production under the new plan, which calls for a State yield of 606,505 barrels daily, all that is required by the refineries. Of twenty-nine companies represented during the session yesterday at the Biltmore, twenty-four voted for continued observance of the agreement and five companies voted to take the matter under advisement.

COMPANIES NAMED

The five companies to reconsider the curtailment program as outlined to them by the fact-finding committee, headed by W. E. Dunlap, chairman, include George F. Getty, Inc., Mendota Petroleum Company, Star Petroleum Corporation, E. K. Allison Syndicate and the Twin Bell Oil Syndicate. This group represents a potential production of approximately 23,307 barrels daily, one-half of which is controlled exclusively by George F. Getty, Inc., and the remainder divided between the four other operators. H. R. MacMillan, chairman of the Santa Fe Springs committee, announced that the five companies who have virtually deadlocked the situation for the time being, will meet at 11 a.m. today in the offices of Umpire Paul Grimm to reach an agreement if possible.

Copies of the fact-finding committee's report were submitted to the Santa Fe Springs operators for their examination.

According to the fact-finding committee's report, the nine principal flush fields showed a potential of 664,966 barrels daily for the flow test and with a curtailment of 43 per cent in effect that would give a combined allowable yield of 379,031 barrels daily. In order to make Santa Fe Springs co-operation effective, however, it was announced that 74,800 barrels a day produced by nonparticipating companies must be absorbed by the companies participating in the agreement. That instigated a cross-fire of questions directed at H. R. MacMillan and Umpire Paul Grimm by a number of operators, who questioned the fairness of that method.

OTHER GROUP LIMITS

Under Group No. 2 thirty oil fields are listed as having a potential production of 253,420 barrels daily, and with curtailment of 40.76 per cent would give an allowable daily flow of 216,464 barrels. Through the allocation of 45,000 barrels daily in Group No. 2, which would give the flush fields a curtailment of 43 per cent instead of 50 per cent, it is believed that Santa Fe Springs will at last agree today to continue curtailment.

The entire Kettleman Hills field is listed in Group No. 3, and as having a potential of 65,000 barrels daily. With a cut of 79.23 per cent that field will have an allowable daily production of 13,500 barrels.

TROJAN JUNIORS PICK NEXT MONTH'S PLAY

Kane Campbell's dramatization of the novel "The Enchanted April" will be presented by the juniors of the University of Southern California in March, it was announced today. Others in the production include Doris Henry, Mary Reasoner, Virginia Barber, Fred Phleger, Gilbert Gagos and Jerome Ehrlich.

SHE HELPS TO TRAP SUSPECT

Girl Tells of Accused Woman's Seizure

Ruth Montgomery

A 15-YEAR-OLD girl, Ruth Montgomery, niece of Municipal Judge Russill, was responsible for the capture of Florence Keifer, asserted woman burglar, according to testimony in Municipal Judge Turney's court yesterday, where Miss Keifer was held for Superior Court trial on burglary charges.

Miss Montgomery testified that at 11 p.m. on the 17th inst. she heard a noise in the alley behind the building occupied by a butcher shop at 4327 Dalton avenue, and peered from her window next door at 4327½ Dalton avenue. She saw someone apparently attempting to enter the shop door and called police, she said. E. C. Toy, owner of the shop, told of missing canned goods and cheese on two previous occasions. Miss Keifer had in her possession screw drivers, a hammer and other tools at the time of her arrest, police officers called by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman declared.

ENTRIES FOR HORSE SHOW REACH CITY

Two Hundred Here from San Francisco and More Slated to Arrive Today

Two hundred equine champions arrived here yesterday from San Francisco for the ninth annual Los Angeles National Horse Show, which opens a program of seven evening performances and four matinees Saturday afternoon and evening in Sports Auditorium, Wilshire Boulevard and Fairfax avenue. A second special train of harness and saddle horses will arrive today from the north.

Representing stables and breeding farms in all parts of the United States, a total of 450 horses, making a list of 1500 entries, will be judged in the 125 classes of competition for $38,000 in prizes and championship trophies during the coming week.

San Francisco's horse show closed Saturday night and was featured by an upset when Carnation Chief, a five-gaited stallion owned by Carnation Farm, beat the world's champion five-gaited stallion, Chief of Longview, owned by Mrs. W. P. Roth of San Francisco. These two horses will meet for the national title here next week.

President W. D. Longyear of the Los Angeles National Horse Show Association announces that he has conceded to popular demand this year and will present a matinee program Sunday afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock.

Advance ticket sales indicate capacity attendance at each performance. Ticket reservations may be obtained at horse-show headquarters, 308 Security Building, Fifth and Spring streets; B. H. Dyas Log Cabin, The May Company, Barker Brothers, Pacific Harness and Saddlery Company, 239 South Main street, and the Standard Mercantile Company, 733 South Los Angeles street.

Trojan Library Has Rare Books

A collection of more than 500 rare "association books" bearing the signature of authors and widely known personages has been assembled by Miss Charlotte Brown, head librarian at the University of Southern California. The collection includes many first editions and autographed copies.

The late Georges Clemenceau, "Tiger of France," has autographed "Comment on Soigne Nos Soldats." Among other volumes are "Female Poets of America," from the library of Eugene Field; "A Short Discourse of the True Knowledge of Jesus Christ," published in 1697 by Samuel Bold, and bearing the signature of John Locke; "Personal Experiences on the Oregon Trail," by Ezra Meeker, and "The Life of Christopher (Kit) Carson," as told by the explorer in 1856, autographed by the editor.

Negro Eviction Suit Postponed

Suit to evict sixty-three negro residents of the territory bounded by Vernon avenue, Forty-eighth street, Main street and Avalon Boulevard, was called for trial in Superior Judge Gates's court yesterday and postponed until March 2.

The action, brought by sixty-three white residents of the district, is in the form of a suit for $20,000 damages and an injunction. It is based on restrictions in the deed to the property, which was sold originally in a single tract. According to the complaint, property has depreciated at the rate of $2000 per lot by reason of settlement of negroes in the neighborhood. The complaint was filed by Attorney Victor L. Bentson.

HOSPITAL FUND GETS LARGE SUM

Meyer and Getz Families Present $100,000 for Use in Building Structure

Considerable impetus to the $1,000,000 Cedars of Lebanon Hospital building fund campaign was given by the receipt of a contribution of $100,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Getz, announced by J. Y. Baruh, general chairman of the campaign.

BEN R. MEYER

Mr. Meyer has been the treasurer of the Community Chest for a number of years and has been one of the largest contributors. He and Getz are president and vice-president, respectively, of the Union Bank and Trust Company.

The total cost of the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Baruh revealed, will be $1,650,000. The structure which it is replacing cost less than $50,000.

Baruh stated that the contribution of the Meyer and Getz families will prove an example to the other residents who will be asked to participate financially by more than 1000 volunteer workers, who are soliciting Jewish citizens under the leadership of Jay B. Jacobs.

MAYOR ASKS CITY TO PAY ITS REWARD

Promise for $10,000 in Hickman Case Should be Redeemed, Porter Asserts

Every effort should be made to pay the reward of $10,000 offered by the city for the arrest and conviction of Edward Hickman, who was hanged for the fiendish murder of Marion Parker, Los Angeles schoolgirl, in the opinion of Mayor Porter.

Claimants of the reward are seeking a test of the matter in the Federal court in July as the result of ruling by former City Attorney Stephens and City Attorney Werner that technically the city cannot pay such rewards. The City Council is marking time pending a decision.

Porter, in a statement issued yesterday, points out that "it would be well to exhaust every endeavor before we allow such a debt to remain unpaid."

"At least," he said, "we should not repudiate unnecessarily any obligation which the city has incurred, whether it be a legal or a moral one, just because the legal department of the city rules that the city does not have authority under the charter to pay the money."

The Mayor seeks to have the matter settled because of "knocks" against the city by northern newspapers because the city's share of the reward remains unpaid.

Hotel Men Will Honor Cummings With Reception

Southern California hotel men will have a reception to honor Frank Cummings, Jr., when he arrives here next week to assume duties as new manager of the Hollywood Roosevelt.

FRANK CUMMINGS, JR.

Cummings comes to the Roosevelt from the managerial office at the Hotel Sir Francis Drake, San Francisco, and will fill the post left vacant by the resignation of Eugene Stark.

As an active Hotel Greeter and a member of the Hotel Men's Association Cummings during his many years on the Pacific Coast has become widely known.

When making announcement of Cummings's appointment Joseph M. Schenck, president of the company controlling the hostelry, expressed satisfaction at obtaining such a man.

No changes in the personnel are to be made, Cummings declares the present staff most efficient.

Gasoline Tax Case Put Off

The trial of Warren G. Black and Jack Allen, charged with conspiracy to evade the State gasoline tax, was continued until March 5 by Superior Judge Hardy yesterday because the defense attorney, John Cooper, is engaged in another trial.

It is charged the defendants evaded the gasoline tax by asserting that gasoline sold to local retailers had been exported from the State and thus was tax free.

Officers Who 'Shot Up' Own Post Jailed

Accused of "shooting up" the North Hollywood Police Station, Officers Roy Berg and Dick Monger yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace before Municipal Judge Thompson in the Van Nuys section of the Municipal Court. They were sentenced to serve ninety days in jail each, seventy-four days of the term being later suspended by the court because of their past good record. Berg has been on the police force for eight years and Monger seven.

According to Deputy City Prosecutor Kaufman, the two policemen drank too much bootleg liquor and, attracted by the lights of the police station as they passed it, opened fire. Several lights were shot out by the pistol and rifle which they had in their possession before they were arrested, Kaufman said. Both officers have been suspended pending investigation.

Jury in Trial of Burglar Suspect Without Verdict

The jury in the trial of Dallas Van Cleve, in Suerior Judge Aggeler's court, was ordered locked up last night pending further deliberation. Van Cleve is accused of burglarizing the home of Mrs. Josephine Hill, a friend, and taking $140 in cash and $4000 worth of jewelry. The case was submitted to the jury shortly before noon yesterday.

JETTY BAN MAY BE SOUGHT

County Likely to Seek Injunction Against Such Construction Near Santa Monica Canyon

That legal action may be taken by the county to prevent the construction of groins or jetties into the surf on private beach lands at the mouth of Santa Monica Canyon was indicated yesterday in a legal opinion filed with the Board of Supervisors by County Counsel Mattoon's office.

According to the opinion, which was prepared by Deputy County Counsel McFadden, the proposed construction of the groins on private land may endanger the future of county-owned beach land in the vicinity. It is pointed out the jetties, if built, may cause a change in the shore currents with the result that sand may be washed away from parts of the beach and deposited elsewhere.

According to reports at the Hall of Records, part of the land on which it is proposed to erect the jetties belongs to Will Rogers.

For some time the question of whether the county should build jetties to protect the county beach or seek an injunction restraining the building of the jetties on private land has been an issue before the Supervisors.

The County Counsel's opinion favors the latter move on the ground that construction of groins on the county beach may "cause damage to other neighboring beaches."

SLAYER OF FIVE DOOMED TO DIE

Judge Sentences Boltares for Group of Murders

By Law, He Must Be Hanged Within Sixty Days

Two Sanity Trials Unable to Ward Off Killer's Fate

Armando Boltares, confessed slayer of five members of the Alvarez Garcia family last October, yesterday was sentenced to death when he appeared before Superior Judge McComb.

ARMANDO BOLTARES

Although he confessed to the crime at the time of his arrest, according to officers, Boltares put up a lengthy fight against the death penalty, obtaining two sanity trials in Superior Court.

The first trial was to determine whether the man is sane at present and the second was to ascertain whether he was sane at the time of the murders. In both instances the jury after a few minutes deliberation found Boltares sane. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Penny prosecuted and Deputy Public Defender Benedict represented Boltares.

Under the law Boltares must be executed within sixty days. It was not necessary for Judge McComb to sentence the man to be hanged inasmuch as the statutes provide the method of execution of any person sentenced to death.

Boltares was charged with luring Mr. and Mrs. Luciano Garcia, their daughter Elisa and Carlos and Carmelita Alvarez to Bootleggers' Canyon, near San Fernando, and killing them because he believed they had informed officers of his bootlegging activities.

SCHOOL SITE LAND ORDERED CONDEMNED

As the result of a report by W. E. Record, business manager of the Board of Education, that he has been unable to obtain satisfactory prices on nine small parcels of land needed as additions to the Rio Vista school site, the board yesterday adopted a resolution directing County Counsel Mattoon to institute proceedings for the condemnation of the land.

AN AUTHENTIC BIOGRAPHY

The Life of
Mary Baker Eddy
Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science
by Sibyl Wilbur

A HIGHLY interesting chronicle based on exhaustive and unprejudiced research. It is devoid of invention but is abounding with facts.

The book tells of Mrs. Eddy's childhood, education, and youthful interest in religious ideas; her long search for a method of healing; her discovery of Christian Science; her writing of the Christian Science textbook; her work as practitioner and teacher, and as founder of a religious movement which under her leadership quickly grew to world-wide proportions.

This life of Mary Baker Eddy was printed in a magazine of popular circulation before it was acquired by The Christian Science Publishing Society. It was written prior to the author's interest in Christian Science, and holds an uncolored, undistorted mirror to Mary Baker Eddy's character and achievements.

This illustration shows Mrs. Eddy's birthplace at Bow, N. H. During her childhood and part of her later life

Mrs. Eddy lived in New Hampshire. Her parents, of Puritan ancestry, had been pioneers in the development of that State.

MARY AND DOUG CHOOSE STORIES

Chevalier Will Star in "The Count in the Kitchen;" Norma Shearer, Irving Thalberg, to Go Abroad; R.K.O. Annexing Noted Grand Opera Star

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It appears that Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks will start work at about the same time on their next United Artists pictures.

MARY PICKFORD

Miss Pickford apparently means to keep the new hold of the public which she won for herself by her fine dramatic work in "Coquette," since her next picture is another highly dramatic one, we are told.

The name of the picture will be "Forever Yours." Benjamin Glazer wrote the story and will supervise its filming. The scenes of the story are laid in England and in Wyoming.

Sequences of "Forever Yours" will carry the star through youth, middle-age and into old age.

Fairbanks is preparing to appear in his next, which, we understand, will not be a talking version of "Zorro," as has been rumored, but will be an entirely new story. Mrs. Lotta Woods, who has so long been Fairbanks's scenario writer, has been recalled from her vacation to work on the story, the name of which will be announced later on.

SCHERTZINGER WILL DIRECT CHEVALIER

One more bright feather is to be placed by Paramount in Victor Schertzinger's already highly ornamented cap.

The director has been assigned to direct Maurice Chevalier, Paramount's most dazzling star.

VICTOR SCHERTZINGER

The story in which the French luminary will appear under Schertzinger's direction is titled "The Count in the Kitchen." It is adapted from a play.

Schertzinger has been a busy man of late. Not only has he been directing for Paramount, but he has collaborated with Aarons and Freedley in the composing of a musical comedy, which later will be produced on both stage and screen. It is not yet titled, but is known to be a costume story, with its characters transported back from modern days to the middle ages.

Norma and Irving to Europe

Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star and official, respectively, are going to visit Europe again.

It was announced not long ago that Miss Shearer would take a vacation before starring in another picture, and now it is learned that as Thalberg has business abroad connected with the M.-G.-M. organization, Miss Shearer has decided that there is nothing she would enjoy more than to go along.

"We're going to see all the places that we missed on our other trip, which, you remember, was our bridal trip," said Miss Shearer. "We expect to motor a good deal, and to visit fascinating and remote spots in England, Italy and Germany. And there is a possibility of Spain, too."

Duncans in Musical Comedy

After just one more fling at the movies, the famous Duncan Sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, whose genius has found expression in writing plays and music as well as starring in musical comedy and vaudeville, will return to the stage for a season, so we hear.

ROSETTA DUNCAN

That fling will be as stars of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer revue temporarily titled "The March of Time." The sisters will appear in a special musical sequence, with a Sammy Lee chorus. The Duncans will share honors with other M.-G.-M. stars, including Ramon Novarro, Marie Dressler, De Wolf Hopper, Buster Collier, Weber and Fields, Duci De Kerekjarto and half-a-dozen others.

Armida With Tiffany

While no contract had been signed at the hour of this writing, we are credibly informed that Phil Goldstone of Tiffany Productions is negotiating with that clever little actress, Armida, to play the leading feminine role in "Down by the Rio Grande."

ARMIDA

Armida has had a phenomenal success ever since Panchon Royer discovered the tiny actress acting as entertainer at a Spanish cafe, and ever since Gus Edwards and his wife took her under their managerial wing.

Richard Thorp is to direct the production, which is to be a talker and a special and which is to be made in color photography.

Le Baron Signs Opera Star

Another grand-opera star is soon to move from New York out to Hollywood in order to enter the sound pictures.

Edward Marshall, noted Metropolitan star, has been signed by William Le Baron on a five-year contract and Marshall leaves almost at once for Hollywood.

So far no vehicle has been chosen for the singer but as, among musical folk, Marshall is rated very high it is known that the best possible story is to be found for him.

NEW FILM BOOKED AT ORPHEUM

Betty Compson, Chester Morris Enact Chief Roles in War Drama

With Richard Dix's first Radio picture, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," scheduled to enter its second week tomorrow, Orpheum Theater officials announce that the world premiere of "The Case of Sergeant Grischa" will be given at the Orpheum March 5.

An instantaneous hit as a novel, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," which comes from the pen of Arnold Zweig, has become one of the best sellers of the year. As a picture it is said to be the greatest talking screen drama of 1930 and one which will establish new box-office records.

The story concerns a young Russian soldier who escapes from a German prison camp, is later captured and sentenced to death on charges of being a spy. The title role is played by Chester Morris, while Betty Compson gives what is said to be one of the finest performances of her career as his sweetheart. Others in the cast include Alec Francis, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Jean Hersholt, Paul McAllister and Leyland Hodgson.

Francis Enacts Important Role in New Picture

Alec B. Francis, who plays the important role of the professor in "The Bishop Murder Case," now showing at Loew's State Theater, has portrayed leading roles in no less than fifteen talkies since they became popular.

Since speech supplanted silence in pictures, his characterizations have been varied. Francis was a priest in "Evangeline," the southern gentleman who gambled his fortune away in "The Mississippi Gambler," a lawyer in "Evidence," a doctor in "The Sacred Flame," and a German war lord in his latest, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," for R.-K.-O.

Director Uses Submarines in Latest Picture

Having filmed the thrills of the British army in India in "The Black Watch" and the army and navy in "Salute," John Ford, Fox Movietone director, goes to sea with the United States submarine service in Asiatic waters in "Men Without Women," which has its western premiere at the Criterion Theater on March 6.

FILM COMEDY AT RITZ

"Hot For Paris," a Fox Movietone production, with Victor McLaglen, Fifi Dorsay and El Brendel, opens tonight at the Ritz Theater for a stay of three days. This comedy was written by the same writers who penned "Cock-eyed World." The film is directed by Raoul Walsh.

Carthay Circle Arranges Extra Midnight Show

The midnight show Saturday night at the Carthay Circle Theater promises the largest turnout of artists from the studios that the motion-picture industry has had in years, it is said.

In order to accommodate the studio folk, the theater will give three complete performances on Saturday, the day following the gala premiere. There will be a matinee, night and then a midnight show of "Happy Days" in Grandeur film.

The three performances on Saturday will somewhat relieve the crush at the Carthay Circle following the premiere, it is said. The midnight show, in particular, is to particularly help out the studio folk.

HAYWIRE GAMBOL AT BILTMORE

"Gone Hollywood" Presents Pert Kelton and Various Other People

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Anyway, Pert Kelton is an original and clever girl, when she is doing her pet line of travesties. The chorus, too, knows its steps. And certain scenes are very attractively staged. The costumes are bright. And there is a black-out or two that evokes the smile.

Perhaps, on this account, "Gone Hollywood" may at least be given a friendly wave of good will in passing. And it may also be given a brief nod of approval for being without pretense. The printed program declares it is a "haywire gambol." And the answer is: Yes!

"Gone Hollywood" opened last night at the Biltmore Theater. The book and the lyrics are by Roger Gray, who also appears on the stage frequently. Tunes are by Cy Mockridge, and dances and ensembles by Walter Wills. There is an interpolated Japanese Garden number written by Roy and Kenneth Webbe. This takes care of most of the vital statistics of this newest opus.

I haven't yet any very clear notion of what "Gone Hollywood" is about, or who "went Hollywood." Anybody might be suspected under the circumstances, because the actual person and the circumstances were kept so mysterious. I have no doubt that the author knew, but he was very circumspect indeed because even he didn't whisper forth the information, as is customary when anybody does happen to "go Hollywood," whatever that means.

What develops in "Gone Hollywood" is a little of this and a little of that. Opening shot shows a premiere with impersonators of the famous film stars. Then follow a couple of clever dancing violinists. Then a black-out called "Conscience" wherein a man shoots a figure that looks like he'd just joined the Ku Klux Klan. Then Miss Kelton and a tenor, Glen Dale, singing and dancing "What's It All About," which is very appropriate. Then a censorship take-off. Then the very nicely embellished "Japanese Garden." And so it goes.

The second half of the production is rather better than the first. A news reel travesty has points of interest. There is a take-off on a comic opera of the vintage type that is broadly amusing. A elephone novelty that possesses some points of popularity.

Indeed, much of what happens isn't so bad in intent or purpose, but is lacking in the sort of polished cleverness that would make a genuine hit. The comedy is of that aimless sort that leaves one rather embarrassed oftentimes.

Several pleasing song numbers are included like "Life's a Rainy Day," in which Miss Kelton, who is successful with her eccentric antics, is forced to sing like a prima donna, and her voice is sarcely heard.

The Misses Charline and Arline Aber are gifted with a talent for dancing and violin playing. Don Miller is a rather competent comedian. Eddie Morris, too, would do well with better interest. Glen Dale has some very fair tones.

Popular Run of Colman Vehicle Opens Tomorrow

"Condemned," hailed as Ronald Colman's most successful production starts at the United Artists Theater tomorrow on its first popular engagement locally.

Colman enacts a role which is distinctly different from any he has played in the past. This film presents the actor as a defiant, insouciant prisoner at the convict settlement of Devil's Island, where he enters the home of the warden as a household servant, and proceeds to fall in love with that official's wife.

Virginia Valli Has Prominent Role in Drama

Virginia Valli, noted screen actress, will don a bathing suit and play a young society flapper in "Let Us Be Gay," Rachel Crothers's comedy which the Henry Duffy Players will present at El Capitan, starting Sunday. This will not be Miss Valli's first stage appearance, as she returned recently from a trip to Honolulu where she appeared as guest star in several plays.

Violet Heming, Broadway actress, has been brought here to portray the role of Kitty Brown, who is the central figure of the comedy. Niles Welch, well-known stage and screen player, will be seen as Rob Brown, while Mrs. Boucicault, the autocratic and outspoken grandmother, will be acted by Grayce Hampton.

SPECIAL BILL AT UPTOWN

Audiences at the Uptown tonight will be treated to a program of popular musical selections, presented by the Noah Beery Trout Club "Paradise Four." This program has been especially arranged by the management as an added attraction with "Taming of the Shrew," the first costarring vehicle to be filmed by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. The "Paradise Four" promise some versatile entertainment at the Uptown, it is said. "Taming of the Shrew," adapted from the famous Shakespeare comedy, affords film audiences an opportunity that may never again be offered—that of seeing Doug and Mary in the same film.

FOLLIES BILL PLEASES

Spiced with originality, "Midnight Ramblers," this week's burlesque vehicle at the Follies Theater, carries all that is required to make it one of the most pleasing productions of the season. The comedy end of the program is supplied by two capable eccentrics, Eddie Marr and Sammie Ward. William Lilling, a suave straight man, is the possessor of a pleasing tenor voice and draws applause.

Ultra-Moderns Exposed in Film

Judith Barrie

Enacts a leading part in "Party Girl," a Halperin production, which starts its local run at the Million Dollar Theater tonight with a gala premiere.

TWO FILMS ANNOUNCED

Ben Hecht's latest story, "Roadhouse Nights," comes to the Paramount Theater screen Thursday, following the current hit, "Street of Chance." It is called a comedy thriller and has an outstanding cast of eastern stars, including Helen Morgan, Charles Ruggles, Fred Kohler and the three comics of Broadway, Clayton, Jackson and Durante.

As a special event, the Paramount Theater will stage a gala midnight premiere preview of the well-known musical operetta, "The Vagabond King," Saturday. This production, however, will open its regular run on the following Thursday.

"The Vagabond King" is filmed all in color and boasts one of the finest casts, both for vocal and dramatic ability, yet assembled. Dennis King, star of such hits as "Rose Marie," "The Three Musketeers" and "The Vagabond King," is in the leading role. Other outstanding players include Jeanette MacDonald, Lillian Roth, O. P. Heggie and Warner Oland. Ludwig Berger directed.

WORLD OF MUSIC NOW REVERSED

Americans Fare Best Abroad; Europeans, Here, Says Josef Hofmann

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Josef Hofmann, who is giving two concerts in Los Angeles, one tonight and one Sunday afternoon, is returning to the world of music a measure of its gift to him. Having been a child prodigy, educated and benefited by American wealth in his youth, Mr. Hofmann is now deeply engaged in the education of American youth through the wealth and resources of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Strangely enough, the music world of today is now reversed, he says. European students are coming to Philadelphia for training and the Curtis Institute is sending American performers to Europe for concerts. Mr. Hofmann finds engagements for Americans easier to obtain in Europe than in their own country. The Curtis School sees talented, worthy music students through, beyond the launching of their careers.

He declares himself to be opposed to auditions. Students who get into Curtis must have the recommendation of one of the faculty. There is no tuition charged because Curtis wants talent and the talented ones have no money, and no parental supervision of subsequent careers is acceptable. Indeed some students have been dropped because of overanxious parents.

Mr. Hofmann believes the radio and sound pictures will be a leveling process, bringing artists closer to the public. Curtis students are appearing over the radio through the Columbia Broadcasting Company at regular intervals and when ready they are encouraged to play a limited number of concerts each season. Complete opera performance is an important part of the music development there also, as the director contends that public appearances are vitally as necessary in the development of an artist.

To keep his hand on the pulse of the audiences, Hofmann continues to make a concert tour each year, although the directorship of the heavily endowed Curtis Institute is an engrossing and fascinating life work with him.

German Opera Company Will Arrive Soon

L. E. Behymer reports that all details of the German Grand Opera Company's engagement at Shrine Auditorium, the week beginning March 10, next, were completed with the arrival in Los Angeles of representatives of the organization. As previously announced, seven performances will be staged, including the much-awaited "Ring of the Nibelung."

The German company has recently played highly successful engagements in Chicago, Kansas City, St. Paul, St. Louis and other cities. The German company is now appearing in Cincinnati. A special train will bring the 150 members and the large scenic and luminous equipment to Los Angeles.

Noteworthy among the outstanding features of the German company is said to be the large orchestra, numbering nearly three-score, and made up of seasoned, experienced Wagnerian players. This numerical strength obviates the necessity of augmenting the orchestra in any city visited on tour.

Palace Secures Novel News Reel

Motion-picture records showing highlights of the world's history in the past thirty-five years, contrasted with important events of recent occurrence, compose "Today and Yesterday," news reel feature which will be shown at the Fox Palace, beginning Thursday.

The three-reel subject is to be offered as a special attraction in conjunction with the first costarring screen production of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, "Taming of the Shrew," which follows William Haines in "Navy Blues," rollicking comedy of sailors and sweethearts now playing.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

MEI LAN-FANG, eminent Chinese actor and impersonator, who has arrived in this country from the Orient on his first trip to America, will make an appearance in Los Angeles in June, according to present plans.

The local presentation will probably be at the Philharmonic Auditorium and under the auspices of the L. E. Behymer management. It will be of two weeks' or more duration.

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, who witnesses Mei Lan-fang's performances on their visit to the Orient, have encouraged him to come to Los Angeles, it is understood, and they, with other picture notables, will probably sponsor the presentation.

The Chinese actor is traveling with a company of twenty-six countrymen, actors, musicians, interpreters and assistants. He carries with him many trunks of costumes representative of various periods of Chinese history, and a fully equipped stage set of ancient Chinese style.

New Civic Repertory Cast

Ian Maclaren will direct and Boyd Irwin, Daisy Belmore and Marion Clayton will be in the cast of "The Romantic Young Lady," the Martinez-Sierra comedy which will be next at the Music Box following the current "A Bill of Divorcement," it was learned last evening.

Interestingly enough, Irwin plays the role Maclaren did in the production of the comedy at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. Miss Belmore plays her original New York role, while Miss Clayton is seen as Irene. The lead of the play is as yet unannounced. The production will be the third of the Civic Repertory Theater.

French Company Coming

One of the interesting events of this spring play season in Los Angeles will be the presentation of a series of comedy dramas in French by Andre Ferrier of the San Francisco French theater. Ferrier arrived in town yesterday to make arrangements for the booking of his company in an engagement to start March 24. He is guest of honor today at a luncheon arranged by members of the local French colony at, which Henri Didot, Consul, is acting as chairman.

Writers' Club Bill

Four one-act plays are on the bill of the Writers' Club for tomorrow and Thursday nights. They include "Wives and Others," by Joan Storms, with Mrs. Wallace Reid, Ethel Wales and Marjorie Bennett; "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell and George Cram Cook, with Alden Gay, Nancy Drexel and Kenneth Thomson; "Brains," by Martin Flavin, with Orville Caldwell, William Stack and Philip Strange; and "Getting Albert Ready," by H. J. Welden, with Niles Welch, Eileen Baker, May Boley, Henry Hall, Speck O'Donnell and Byron Sage.

UNION'S EDICTS AIMED AT RADIO

Stations Given Orders on Employing Musicians

Records and Chain Programs Not Affected by Rule

Locally Sponsored Time on Air Target of Move

Beginning March 1, radio broadcasting stations in Los Angeles and vicinity may employ only members of the local musicians' union to produce instrumental music for broadcasting locally produced, sponsored programs.

Under another rule effective the same day, the stations will not be permitted by the union, it has announced, to broadcast instrumental music produced outside the station, under certain conditions, unless the station's employ a certain number of its members continuously regardless of whether the station needs them or whether they sound a note.

SPONSORED PROGRAMS

"Members of the Musicians' Mutual Protective Association, Local 47, of Los Angeles" (the musicians' union,) says the first union rule, "must be employed for all sponsored programs where the services of musicians are required or used."

A sponsored program is one which a station puts out for some firm that provides a musical program for the publicity it gets out of it. Under the rule applicable to such programs, one operator explained, if a group wishes to put on a charity program with instrumentalists of its own who deviate their services it could not do so unless members of the local union were used. The union members even could not donate their services. The same rule prevents using even a visiting musician from another union, viz., San Francisco or New York, unless the local union permits such use and then only in conformance with interunion rules and regulations.

The rule does not interfere with such programs using phonograph records or rebroadcasting music made elsewhere, such as by network system, it was explained, both at various stations and union headquarters, although it is admitted by some that strict interpretation of the rule, if the local union sees fit to go to that extreme, might bar such music also. It is explained that when record or rebroadcasting is used then the station does not in its place of business come under the phrase "where the services of musicians are required or used."

MINIMUMS FIXED

The union rule regarding music produced outside the stations classifies Los Angeles and vicinity stations into Class A and Class B and says:

"Remote-control broadcasting to advertise other than the firm or place of business where the musicians are actually playing is permissible only ("only" is underscored) where the station broadcasting such programs is employing steadily by the week of six or seven days, for not less than two hours per day, Class A—not less than ten musicians (members of the local, of course;) Class B—not less than six musicians."

Class A stations are KHJ, KFI, KECA, KNX, KMTR, KFWB. Class B includes all others.

The remote-control rule applies to programs of the kind mentioned produced outside the studio and under old union rules means that Class A stations must pay at least ten musicians at least $72 weekly each or a minimum of $720 weekly. Class B stations must pay at least six at $72 each per week or a minimum of $432. This must be done regardless of whether there is need for them or whether they make any music.

Some of the stations use that number anyway in regular course of business most of the time, at least, but now all must do so all of the time, the union has decreed.

SUITS CHARGE BEAUTY LOSS

Two Women Demand $141,880 Damages in Actions Asserting Permanent Disfigurement

Damages of $141,880 for lost beauty are asked by two women who will appear in court today. One of the plaintiffs is Mrs. Gertrude W. Hood, hostess for the Pacific Electric's tavern on Mt. Lowe, who has brought a suit against Dr. H. O. Bames, plastic surgeon, asking $105,980.

The plaintiff asserts that the doctor guaranteed to remove wrinkles from her upper and lower eyelids, and contends that the wrinkles were not removed and her beauty was marred with scars. She also asserts that the sight of her left eye was impaired as the result of two operations performed by the defendant. She is represented in court by Attorney Benjamin Lewis.

Mrs. Maggie M. Bowlby, the other woman, will appear in court with a suit against the Sullivan College of Beauty Culture. She asks $35,900 damages. Her action is scheduled to go to trial today before Superior Judge Archbald.

Mrs. Bowlby asserts that she suffered severe burns and the permanent loss of hair when appliances in the defendant's beauty shop burst into flames while she was receiving a hair treatment.

Dr. Bames in his answer to Mrs. Hood's complaint contends she did not follow his directions, therefore contributed to her injuries, if any and the beauty culture college replies that Mrs. Bowlby changed the temperature of the hair-drying machine without the knowledge of the operator, therefore being guilty of contributary negligence.

Miller Graham, Oil Operator, Laid to Rest

Funeral services were conducted yesterday for William Miller Graham, retired oil operator and clubman, who died suddenly at his home, 424 North Harvard Boulevard, last Thursday. The services, which were conducted at the chapel of the Hollywood Cemetery, consisted of full Masonic rites, with representatives of a number of Los Angeles lodges participating. There were floral pieces in profusion. Among those who attended the services were men prominent in the oil industry of the State. Those from the family included the widow, Mrs. Lillian Graham, a daughter, Mrs. Charles Dabney, Jr., of Santa Barbara, and a son, William E. Graham of Indio.

Interment was in the family plot at the Hollywood Cemetery, the funeral arrangements being in charge of Reed Brothers, Tapley and Geiger.

WIFE HELD TO ANSWER IN SLAYING

Mrs. Effie Reynolds to Face Trial for Killing in Jealous Frenzy

Mrs. Effie Reynolds will be tried on murder charges before Superior Court for the slaying of her husband as he slept at home at 1009 West Eighth Place on the 14th inst., Municipal Judge Russill ordered yesterday at the conclusion of her brief preliminary hearing. She was ordered committed to the County Jail without bail.

Mrs. Rose Mitchell, niece of the accused woman, testified that Mrs. Reynolds came to her home following the stabbing and said: "Take me to the police station. I have killed my husband. He neglected me for another woman." Mrs. Mitchell also identified the body found in the Reynolds home as that of Reynolds.

Detective Lieutenants Condaffer and Ryan testified to finding the body of Reynolds and to the confession made to them by Mrs. Reynolds. She named the "other woman" as Mrs. Helen Wesben of 456 East Forty-third street, the officers said. Mrs. Wesben denies the implication. The death of Reynolds was due to knife wounds, County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner testified.

Ex-Banker Off on Trip Today

Following his custom of many years, Alden W. Skinner, retired banker and resident of Los Angeles for more than thirty-four years, will leave this morning for an annual trip abroad, which will keep him busy, he said, just living out-of-doors until Christmas time, when he will return to resume his residence at the Hayward Hotel.

Before his retirement from active business twenty-two years ago, Mr. Skinner was for eight years a director of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and for many years was actively identified with the banking business of the city. After spending some days in Boston, Philadelphia and New York, he will sail March 29, next, on the Minnetonka for London. After seven weeks there he will go to Lucerne to pass the summer.

CAR THIEVES TAKE $2500 IN HOLD-UPS

Grocery Stores Victims of Raids Conducted by Men in Stolen Machines

Operating boldly in stolen automobiles two pairs of bandits held up two chain grocery stores and robbed a store messenger during daylight hours yesterday and got away with more than $2500.

E. E. Silvey, manager of the Clarence Saunders store at 1600 South Vermont avenue, was leaving the store just before noon to go to a near-by bank when two men drove up to the curb in a sedan. One them stepped out, leveled a revolver at Silvey and demanded the "dough." Silvey handed over two paper sacks which contained $2500 cash and $150 in checks.

A few minutes earlier the second pair of bandits held up Chester Turcier in a Piggly-Wiggly store at 2802 West Slauson avenue and escaped with $43.

The two bandits who robbed the Saunders store later held up O. M. Cravens, messenger of the Safeway Stores, as he left the company's store at 2168 Venice Boulevard. Driving their car alongside Cravens's automobile at Venice and Hobart Boulevards, the two men intimidated the messenger with their weapons, forcing him to throw into their car a paper sack containing $247 which he just had picked up at the store. They then ordered him to drive away without stopping.

Victims obtained license numbers of the bandit cars and these were found to belong on machines reported stolen.

DEARTH OF NARCOTICS DISCLOSED

Admitted Addict Appears at Receiving Hospital to Beg for Shot of Heroin

Evidence that enforcement of the narcotic laws by Capt. Seager and his police detail has resulted in an exceptional scarcity of drugs for Los Angeles addicts was shown yesterday in the arrest of Sam Balon, 29 years of age, who said he is known in eastern sporting circles as Young Jimmy Britt, welterweight pugilist.

Balon was taken into custody at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. He admitted, according to Capt. Seager, that, unable to purchase heroin at any price in the local underworld, and driven by the pangs of abstinence, he had gone to the hospital to beg for a "shot." He stated that he has been "on the hop" for seven years and has been in the habit of taking sixty grains of heroin a day.

"I bought the stuff back east for $67 an ounce," he said, according to Seager. "Two weeks ago I came here from Philadelphia. My supply gave out and I tried to buy more. But I couldn't get a sniff."

Seager declared that Balon had $836.78 in his possession when arrested and admitted having $6000 when he arrived here. He was booked at the City Jail as an addict.

Attack Attempt Laid to Laborer

Fred J. De Garmo, 28 years of age, said to be a laborer from Tennessee, and recently arrested by Los Angeles police, was accused of attempted attack on government property in a complaint issued yesterday by United States Commissioner Head.

It is charged that on the 15th inst., he attempted to attack Mary Lee Abbey, 4, with whose family he is said to have been acquainted, in the grounds of the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle. He probably will be arraigned today.

SEWER MAP APPROVED

The City Council yesterday approved the assessment district map for the construction of sewers in the right of way in Temescal Canyon.

Hold-up 'Victim' Foils Youths in Banditry Effort

Two youthful bandits apparently lost their nerve when they attempted to hold up Bud Biebold of 2009 Manhattan avenue, Hermosa Beach, and a woman companion in a car parked on Redondo Boulevard early yesterday morning.

The youths, according to a Sheriff's office report, drove alongside the car and ordered Biebold, at the point of a gun, to put his hands up. When he refused to do so they left, Biebold reported. Their car is believed by investigators to be one reported stolen.

Angeleno Still Hale at 91 Years

Richard Molony of 348 South Virgil street has been a resident of this city fifty-eight years, and today is celebrating his ninety-first birthday. He still is going strong and right abreast of the procession.

He denies he knows anything about diets, exercise or any of the supposed reasons for longevity, but says that he "just worked pretty hard when he was a young man."

Mr. Molony was born in New York State, lived in Iowa about twenty-three years before he came to this State, to Petaluma, and later to Los Angeles. He lives with daughters, Misses Margaret, Frances and Johanna Molony, and when the rest of his family assembles for a family dinner tomorrow night to celebrate his ninety-first birthday anniversary there will be also Rev. Clement Molony, Dr. W. R. Molony and Mrs. Mary Cunningham, his other children, as well as fifteen grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

GABBY THROWS IN BEST FORM

Hartnett's Whip to Second Makes McCarthy Happy

AVALON, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—For the first time in almost exactly a year to the day "Gabby" Hartnett's famous throwing arm swung into action this afternoon. With all the power and accuracy that one time gave him a rating of the peer of all backstops he whipped four balls down to second base and the ease with which he did it convinced camp followers and other players alike that when the champion Cubs line up April 15 for their maiden effort in the flag campaign the effervescent Gabby will be among those in action.

Gabby's attempt to prove he is coming back was one of the outstanding developments of the day. Another development was the first casualty of the spring. Warneke, the young duplicate of Howard Ehmke, was hit on the forehead by a bat which slipped from McAfee's hand

Women Golfers Win Over California, 8-1

Miss Gottlieb Sparkles in Smashing Win

Winners Have Eleven Points on Nearest Foes

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Los Angeles swept through to certain victory in Southern California's interclub team matches for women yesterday with a crushing 8-to-1 victory over the California Country Club team in a match played over the Cheviot Hills course.

MRS. ROY GREEN

The completeness of the win was as surprising as it was sensational, and ruined California's final hope of retaining the interclub title won in 1929.

Taking advantage of every bit of strategy the Los Angeles women appeared on the scene of battle with a revised line-up to take advantage of Miss Beatrice Gottlieb's superb golf.

BETTER BALANCE

To better balance the team Los Angeles' first team of Mrs. C. J. Woerner and Mrs. George M. Lewis was split and Mrs. Lewis was paired with Miss Gottlieb, while Mrs. Woerner paired with Mrs. H. D. Hammond.

Miss Gottlieb, a brilliant addition to the Los Angeles Country Club from the metropolitan district of New York, fully proved her worth in advancing to the semifinals of the recent Los Angeles midwinter championship played at Los Angeles.

California's stellar team, practically the same that defeated Flintridge for the interclub championship last year, was unable to cope with the superior forces from Los Angeles. The handwriting could be plainly seen on the wall when California's strong first team of Mrs. Roy Green and Mrs. R. S. Edwards lost all 3 points to Miss Gottlieb and Mrs. Lewis.

The individual results were as follows: Mrs. George M. Lewis and Miss Beatrice Gottlieb (L. A.) 3; Mrs. Roy Green and Mrs. R. S. Edwards (C.,) 0.

Mrs. C. J. Woerner and Mrs. H. D. Hammond (L. A.,) 2½; Mrs. C. W. Fellows and Mrs. F. M. Slade (C.,) ½.

Mrs. F. S. Hardin and Mrs. C. W. Cook (L. A.,) 2½; Mrs. Willis Low and Mrs. Pete Daley (C.,) ½.

With only two more matches to be played, Los Angeles, having an 11-point edge on California, and 17 1-2 on Flintridge, now in third place, is unbeatable.

Yesterday's matches resulted as follows:

Los Angeles, 8; California, 1.
Wilshire, 6; Lakeside, 1.
Oakmont, 5; Rancho, 4.
Riviera, 5; Brentwood, 4.
Flintridge, 9; Hollywood, 0.
Hillcrest, 5 1-2; San Gabriel, 3 1-2.

Individual team points are: Los Angeles, 70 1-2; California, 59 1-2;

Bear Mentor Picks First Varsity Crew

BERKELEY, Feb. 24. (Exclusive)—Coach Ky Ebright, who electrified the sports world with a crew that annexed the international championship in the summer of 1928, today put the first eight sweepsters of his University of California varsity on training table. The lucky men selected included four veterans from the title craft. The entire octet is composed of the following: Jim Workman, Bill Dally, Jack Brinck, Hub Caldwell, Duncan Gregg, Herman Holman, Dunlap and Salisbury. The first four are the world title veterans. Gregg, Holman and Dunlap are all from last year's freshman boat, which defeated Washington for the Pacific Coast championship in a thrilling finish and placed second in the national championships at Poughkeepsie in June.

OXY ELEVEN TO OPEN SEASON

Play Coliseum Night Game on September 26

Honors of opening the intercollegiate football season in Southern California next September and also of inaugurating night football in the Los Angeles Coliseum will go to Occidental College and the University of Mexico, it is revealed by Oxy's 1930 football schedule, just released by Phil Ellsworth, Tiger graduate manager.

The Tigers and the visiting eleven from Mexico are scheduled to clash in the Coliseum on Friday night, September 26, in the grid season opener. Appearance here of the University of Mexico team will be its first on foreign soil, and much interest should attach itself to the game. In that game is a three-way attraction, being the first of the season, the first night game to be played in the Coliseum, and presenting a colorful visiting eleven. Graduate Manager Ellsworth confidently anticipates a crowd of 50,000.

DR. HOUSER MAY BE ABLE TO GO

Well-Balanced Squad Named for Big Meet

Outfit Leaves Friday Night for Palo Alto

Much Depends on Showing of Jack Burton

BY BRAVEN DYER

Officials of the Los Angeles Athletic Club last night announced a list of thirty-seven track-and-field athletes who will go north Friday evening to face Stanford at Palo Alto in one of the biggest dual meets of the 1930 season.

BUD HOUSER

The squad is a well-balanced one and ought to score in every event but the quarter-mile, where Stanford is exceptionally well fortified with three stellar performers—Johnny Morrison, Maynor Shove and Ike Hables.

HOUSER UNDECIDED

Although he has not definitely made up his mind as yet, there is a strong possibility that Bud Houser, the great discus tosser, will make the trip with the Mercuries. Houser has had but one workout this season and is rather reluctant to go inasmuch as he can't be sure of himself on such short notice. However, Bud's opening heave was good for 145ft. and this would win him second at Stanford unless Harlow Rothert or Gray should outdo themselves. These two are now tossing right around 140ft.

Mercury officials are hopeful that Houser will decide to go and they won't give up trying to get him to say "yes" until the train leaves Friday night.

Interruption of the A.A.U. relays at Long Beach Saturday was a tough blow to Boyd Comstock, Mercury mentor, who was trying to figure out what to do with his distance men. As it is Boyd now knows little or nothing about them, as many have not been called upon to extend themselves thus far.

From an L.A.A.C. standpoint, much depends on Jack Burton, who is rated some pumpkins in the 880 and mile, and Owen Rowe in the sprints. Burton has records of 1m. 55s. and well under 4m. 30s., which indicate that he is a real

OXY IN FOUR-WAY TRACKFEST

Tigers Go Into Action Against Redlands, La Verne and Santa Barbara Saturday Afternoon at Eagle Rock; Whittier and Caltech Slated to Meet

The Southern California Conference track season opens with a bang next Saturday when Coach Joe Pipal's cinder-path aggregation entertains Redlands, La Verne and Santa Barbara State on Patterson Field. Whittier and Caltech have also scheduled a dual meet on the Engineers' oval, the outcome of which is a toss-up, since the Poets are strong on the track and the Techmen will cop the majority of the field events.

RUD CRAWFORD

Occidental is favored to win the four-cornered tussle at Eagle Rock, though both Santa Barbara and Redlands have their strongest squads in history. The Bulldogs have been strengthened by sophomores from their star frosh of last season, and will bring a score of potential point-getters to Oxy Saturday in an effort to trample on Timberwolf Pipal's feelings.

The Santa Barbara Staters wired yesterday that they will send fifteen tracksters south for the meet, and it is understood that among them are several notable performers in the sprints, broad jump, and weights where Oxy is weakest. La Verne's strength is unknown and expected to consist of only a limited number of men.

Pipal's hopes lie in winning enough first places to ward off the bids of the Missions and Bulldogs. Capt. Freddie Appleton will run either the quarter or half-mile and is good for a first in either event,

BARRY MAY NOT GO NORTH

Sam Barry, coach of the championship basketball team, may not go north to scout Washington in its series this week-end with Oregon. "I haven't entirely made up my mind yet," Barry said yesterday, "and if I don't go, Forrest Twogood, the freshman coach, will go north. I ought to stay here and get this baseball team organized a bit."

SMITH IS LEADING SCORER

Lanky Forward Tops Trojan Bucketeers; Caldwell Plays Most Conference Minutes

Wilbur (Web) Caldwell has played the most time, and Frank Smith has scored the most points, during the Trojan basketball campaign, which wound up Saturday night, with the championship of the southern division of the Pacific Coast Conference successfully tucked away.

Figures compiled by Manager Bonhomme Cahn disclose the fact that Smith scored 68 points in nine conference games for a season's total of 634 out its, while Caldwell played 348 out of a possible 360 conference minutes, for a otal of 634 out of 680 minutes.

FRANK SMITH

Jess Mortensen, the big hero of the basketball season, scored 35 points in the seven games he played this season—all conference affairs.

Other leading scorers, with their total and conference points are Jack Gardner 132-62, Bill Pierce 75-25, Johnny Lehners 64-46, Caldwell 54-20, Aaron Nibley 12-8.

Total and conference minutes are as follows: Caldwell 634-348, Lehners 592-343, Smith 389-327, Gardner 502, 299, Pierce 452-181, Mortensen 224, Nibley 98-39.

Farmer Lodge Flattened by 'Ambling Alp'

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24. (AP) Primo Carnera, gigantic Italian, pushed Farmer Lodge, ponderous Minnesotan, about the ring like a child and then knocked him out in the second round of their fight here tonight.

Carnera knocked Lodge down for a short count in the first round, and in the second floored him for a count of seven. After his second collapse, Lodge was hardly on his feet before he hit the mat again for the third time and the limit. The Italian entered the ring at 275 pounds and his opponent at 235.

Mack in Line for Title Bout With Mandell if Victorious Over Holtzer Here Tonig

COLLEGE BOXER PUBLIC CHOICE

French Infighting Star May Upset Dope

Foreigner in Great Shape for Olympic Go

Hard Battle Expected in Feature Clash

BY KAY OWE

With a Sammy Mandell title bout just around the corner Eddie Mack, Denver lightweight, goes to the post tonight against Maurice Holtzer in the Olympic.

EDDIE MACK

Developments the last few days indicate that Mandell will defend his lightweight championship against Mack in Chicago if the Colorado boy keeps up his winning streak.

Holtzer, star infighter, may upset the dope which has made Mack a favorite. Dynamite Jackson defeated Les Kennedy on the short end of 3-to-1 odds. Young Corbett scrambled the 3-to-1 money against him at San Francisco last Saturday against Jackie Fields.

BESTED KLICK

In three starts at Hollywood Holtzer looked good. None of his opponents extended him. He defeated Frankie Klick and Klick holds a decision over Joe Glick of New York.

Holtzer came to California in the Gaston Charles stable. The eastern tip-off was to the effect that Holtzer was a better man than Charles, although not so prominently known.

The French boy made good, while Charles was defeated by Goldie Hess. Lee Moore has been handling Holtzer here. The foreigner has done all his training for the Mack match at Soper's ranch except the last few days.

Holtzer came down from the mountains in splendid shape. He is prepared to make a rough night of it for the Denver lightweight. In all Mack's bouts in the Olympic he has never drawn a good infighter.

Baby Sal Sorio's much-publicised right hand was brushed aside and the Mexican knocked out by Mack's one-two-punch combination. Doc Snell tried to rush Mack off his feet but was quickly capsized. Next came Goldie Hess, who wades forward continuously and keeps throwing punches. Mack won a very close decision.

SANGOR RAYOED

Tod Morgan tested Mack at long range and was bested due to the Denver college boy's splendid footwork. Joey Sangor tried to outslug Mack and went six rounds in terrific going before being counted out.

So far Mack has stood every test and he will probably solve Holtzer after a few rounds. Denver Eddie doesn't like to clinch with an opponent and he may be called on to do his gunning going backwards.

They are making Mack a 10-8 choice over the French boy. Holtzer worked with Bud Taylor at Soper's ranch part of the grind and Taylor brought the word back to town that Mack will have a fight on his hands.

Mack is slated to meet Hess in a rematch on March 11, but this bout depends on how he gets along with Holtzer.

Middleweights are featured in the semi-wind-up to the Mack-Holtzer bout. A youngster named Pat Cuningham faces the veteran, Joe Vargas. Cuningham has won his last fourteen starts, a good share of them by knockouts.

George Blake starts his youngest pupil, Martin Zuniga, in the special event. Zuniga's opposition is Johnny McDonald of Vancouver. Young Johnny is a brother of Hector McDonald and is said to be a classy little featherweight.

The two fours are Jimmy Mack vs. Billy Kane and Mike Correeso vs. Ora Smith.

The Olympic has Fidel La Barba and Santiago Zorilla matched for the first week in March.

runner when in condition. But that's the rub now—Comstock does not know whether his ace-in-the-hole is right and probably won't know until the meet comes off.

Nierabach and Clum are in fine shape for the 880 and should afford Burton plenty of help here, but there's not much strength in the mile. The club is not nearly so well fixed in these events as it was in the days of Nick Carter and Hank Lunney. There were a couple of workhorses and good ones!

Fred Sturdy, national champion in the pole vault, arrived here last night and will take his first workout this afternoon at Bovard Field. He, Glenn Graham and one of the Smith brothers should bring the L.A.A.C. eight and possibly nine points in the altitudinous event.

Tomorrow the writer will endeavor to uncork a dope sheet on the meet. Hold your breath.

Following are the athletes named to make the trip:

Sprinters—Ray Alf, Murray Schultz and Owen Rowe.
440-yard dash—Oliver Worden, Walter Clark and Warland Chadwick.
880-yard run — Perez Nierabach, Jack Burton, Harold Lovejoy and Bill Blum.
Mile run—Ben Goodhart, Don Imler, Jack Burton and Bob Gooden.
High hurdles—Bob Maxwell, Dick Pomeroy and Charles Webber.
Low hurdles—Bob Maxwell and Kenny Grumbles.
Shot—Herman Brix, Forster and Manley Edwards.
Discus—Herman Brix, Brad Hoover, Manley Edwards, Forster and De Mers.
Javelin — De Mers, Chuck Eaton and Vance Hoover.
Broad jump—Morris Walker and Orville Braithwaite.
High jump—Alex Gill, Keefer, Dick Bell, Al Peyton and Millard Wehrman.
Pole vault—Fred Sturdy, Glenn Graham and Smith.
Cross-country—Chance and two other Indians.

GIRL CAGERS SET RECORD

WABASH (Ind.) Feb. 24.—Averaging nearly four points a minute the Wabash High School girls' basketball team established a new world-scoring record when they trampled on the Fairmont girls by a 122-to-1 count. The former record, held by a Pocatello (Idaho) team, was 120 to 8.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

CORBETT REPEAT UNLIKELY

THE flush of victory is apparent in the new challenge of Rafael Giordano to Jakie Finkelstein, the Young Corbett III and Jackie Fields of that ring encounter at San Francisco the other day.

Few of the experts figured the Fresno southpaw would beat Fields in their first engagement, but even unexpected victory didn't make converts out of them.

Had the bout been two rounds longer the decision would have gone to Fields.

The verdict that Jim Griffin, the old-time referee, handed down was correct—by rounds and by points.

But two more chapters would have changed the complexion of things completely.

After an atrocious display of fighting skill in the early rounds—he lost five of the first six—Fields worked out a body attack that finally saved him ignominious defeat.

But he had started too late, and a knockdown in the final round was necessary for a verdict in his favor. The knockdown was not forthcoming, and Corbett had his hand raised.

But the main point about a second fight is Fields's knowledge of how to fight the southpaw. It took him six rounds to learn the lesson Saturday, but it won't take him that long to get going next time. Particularly if the match is at the championship weight and his title is at stake.

Corbett is not a great fighter, but he is rugged and tough, hits well with his left and annoys the other fellow with a pawing right.

His margin of victory the other day would have been greater but for his holding and tugging tactics, which nullified some of his best rounds.

He is strictly a counter-puncher, and had it not been for Fields's forcing tactics Saturday the bout would have been terrible. The welter king must be given credit for saving the day in that respect.

OLD RECORD STILL GOOD

SAN FRANCISCO tried hard to better the existing "gate" record held by the Jeffries-Corbett bout of over a quarter of a century ago, but the slightly over $62,000 receipts fell shy by about $1000.

Promoter Ancil Hoffman felt that the rain, which only halted a few hours before the bout, hurt the "gate" by $20,000. Of course, that is a debatable point.

So is the statement that he made money on the scrap. He gave away 70 per cent to the fighters. The Olympic has found itself to make dividends on such an arrangement, what with a ball park rental of 10 per cent and 5 to the State. Hoffman may have a system that makes the trick possible, but if he has the other outdoor promoters should sit at his front door.

Incidentally, the name of the referee was known to several individuals several days before the fight. Commissioner Charley Traung told the newspaper men he would name either Jim Griffin or Toby Irwin.

But when Griffin started coming up to Moose Taussig's gym for a daily rubdown the secret was out.

Jim paid $5 for a $1 rub for a whole week before the fight. He had the old mumble-pegs thoroughly gone over, getting in shape for the fight, and he got by Saturday with only one near spill when he tripped over one of his own feet.

Taussig was in Fields's corner, and naturally believed the champion won although he admitted after the fight that he started way too late.

Taussig, by the way, says Maurice Holtzer, who fights Eddie Mack at the Olympic tonight, may surprise the Denver boy.

They think very highly of Holtzer in the North, the Frenchman having beaten Joe Noto convincingly.

Holtzer's victory over Frankie Klick, who defeated Ignacio Fernandez, also is pointed to as another example of the Frenchman's class.

A COLLEGIATE DISTINCTION

LITTLE Sam Wilderman, director of the news bureau of the University of Oregon, is perturbed over reports confusing the college of Don Moe's choice and current registration. He writes very distinctly that it is Oregon and not Oregon State.

"Noticed the other day in the Sunday issue of The Times that Don Moe is referred to as the Oregon State College golfer.

"Like to give Oregon State College all the credit due it, but in the spring, when stories are few and far between, I find that Don Moe is one of the University of Oregon's best publicizers. In other words, Mr. Moe is golf captain of the University of Oregon team.

"Not that it matters, really, except that I thought that you may wish to know that. Last year Don and George Will won the Coast Conference golf title for Oregon.

"Best regards.

"Sincerely,

"SAM WILDERMAN,

TIGERS TRIM RICHFIELD IN ROUGH HOCKEY CLASH

San Francisco practically cinched second place in the California professional ice-hockey league last night by trimming the L.A. Richfields, 2 to 0, at the Winter Garden. The Oilers were only three points behind in the standings when the game started, with a great chance to make a strong bid for second place, but at the finish they were five points back.

There was no scoring in the first two periods, although there was plenty of action. Three Richfield players sustained injuries which brought no small amount of blood. Both Jack Wilson and Berg Irving, defense men, suffered bloody noses, while "Chick" Bond was badly cut under his left eye—a present from Leo Cook.

Both teams were penalised frequently but neither could score. Just before the end of the second period the Richfields sustained a penalty that put two men in the penalty box and that cost them the game.

Starting the third period the Tigers swarmed down on Richfied's four-man team and after a terrific mix-up Art Giroux scored. Thereafter all of the Oilers skated down the ice trying to score and Ganton Scott eventually stole the puck, skated back all by himself and tallied another goal for a safe 2-0 margin and the victory.

Rival Clubs in Cage Battle

Old-time rivals in all lines of endeavor, the Hollywood Athletic Club and Los Angeles Athletic Club basketball squads will put on what should be a torrid argument tonight when they meet in a Southern California A.A.U. Club League encounter at Hollywood, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Hollywood is gambling much of its chance of second place on this game, while the L.A.A.C. is out to keep another league team from blemishing its record. The result should be some brilliant basketball.

When these teams met during the first round, the Mercuries won, 56 to 36, thanks to some brilliant scoring by "Rags" Wilcox, former Iowa star, who single-handed counted 24 markers. Tonight's game is expected to be much closer and harder fought, however.

Line-ups:

POWERS WINS MATCH IN HANDBALL TOURNAMENT

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24. (AP)—Al Schauffelberger of Detroit, twice runner-up to the national champion was forced to go three games before he won from Dr. William Seritella, of Chicago, 21-6, 11-21, 21-16, in a feature match of the first round of national A.A.U. four-wall handball tournament here, today.

Schauffelberger took the first game easily, but Dr. Seritella, playing his secony year in the national tournament, captured the second game. The third was hard fought, going twenty-four innings before Schauffelberger won.

Joe Powers, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, who is expected to be a strong title threat, won his first-round match in a heated battle with Louis Blocker, St. Louis, 21-8, 21-16.

Merritt Bates of Columbus, O., winner of the national "Y" tournament here last week, won his first-round match by defeating Sam Wolff of St. Louis, 21-9, 13-21, 21-5.

Al Banuet of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, national singles champion, drew a bye for the first round.

Other first-round results included:

Lester Ortiz, Kansas City, defeated Marshall Strauss, St. Louis, 21-8, 21-15.
W. A. Paynter, San Francisco, defeated C. B. Bergher, Chicago, 21-8, 21-12.
Herman Dreyman, Detroit, defeated Ben Knight, Kansas City, 21-4, 21-7.

JACK SHARKEY IN TOP SHAPE

Sports Expert Impressed With ex-Tar's Showing

BY ALAN J. GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

MIAMI (Fla.) Feb. 24. (AP)—My lingering doubt about Jack Sharkey's condition for his fifteen-round match Thursday night with Phil Scott, or any question that he may be a trifle stale, seemed effectively dispelled today by the Boston sailor's final workout with the gloves.

JACK SHARKEY

Sharkey hardly could have looked more impressive than he did in batter ing three sparring partners around the ring in as many rounds. He was on his toes, aggressive and punching with the well-known Sharkey savagery in successive set-tos with Pierre Charles, Johnny Grosso and Moise Bouquillon, the international sparring staff.

Sharkey prefers to say it with his fists. There is not the slightest question in his own mind that he will knock out Scott quickly, but the big Lithuanian no longer is the loquacious one. Gone is the braggadocio that marked his early rise as a heavyweight against such men as Harry Wills and Jimmy Maloney. He looked the part of a grim, perfectly conditioned fighting machine this afternoon and his only remark to newspaper men for publication was:

"I can promise you and the American people that the heavyweight championship is going to stay in the United States. Anything else from me would be superfluous."

Sharkey's trainer, Al Lacey, ridiculed the idea that his man has gone stale in the least.

"Jack is in perfect shape," said Lacey. "He hasn't an ache, a pain or a sore spot on his body."

Scott's condition appears satisfactory, but the Englishman has yet to give any of the experts the impression that he can hit hard enough to damage Sharkey or offer a defense to the American's hard-hitting attack. Phil's snaky left jab may worry Sharkey but it takes more than that to win this affair.

Sharkey and Scott have both concluded their ring work. Jack will play a round of golf tomorrow and do some light exercising. Scott will punch the bag and limber up otherwise. Sharkey is expected to weigh about 197 and Scott 203 on the official scales Thursday afternoon.

Today's developments on the battle front otherwise included reports of some stimulation in box-office sales and the statement of William F. Carey, Madison Square Garden president, before leaving tonight for New York, that Miami will continue to witness midwinter heavyweight festivals, for at least three more years.

The Miami Boxing Commission met with the managers of principals and promoters today to confirm the list of referees, headed by Lou Magnolia, for the main bout; discuss the rules, appoint timekeepers and fix the starting time of the show for 8 p.m. Thursday. The main event will go on not later than 10 p.m. The Loughran-Charles bout may be put on after the main go if other preliminaries go the limit. The Campolo-Risko semifinal, which has attracted unusual interest, will go on around 9:15 p.m.

SERAPHS START TRAINING GRIND

hustle shown by the athletes. The Seraph skipper insists on a hustling ball club and evidently ist the players know that before they galloped out on the field.

Art Delaney and Wyn Ballou, the two new additions to the Angel pitching corps, both were present and were full of pepper. Both hurlers say that they are confident of successful seasons this year and are going to leave no turn unturned to get in perfect condition as early as possible. Delaney looks in fine shape and so does Ballou. Ballou is about the size of Clyde Barfoot, although he is perhaps a bit chunkier. Lelivelt says that he believes Wyn will show Coast Leaguers the best curve ball in the circuit this year.

Among the other regulars out yesterday were Angie Walsh, Ed Baecht, Carl Holling, Clyde Barfoot, Bill Peters, Glenn Gabler, Beryl Horne, Bob Green, Truck Hannah and Dallas Warren.

Lelivelt believes Warren looks like a great catching prospect and he has ordered Hannah to give a lot of personal attention to Dally and teach him some of the many tricks in the trade. Warren is being counted on to catch all of the exhibition games for the Seraphs this spring.

This morning's workout will start at 11 o'clock and Lelivelt will keep the players out on the field until 1 in the afternoon.

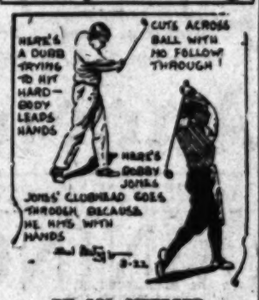
McCARTHY OFF TO TRAIN OAKLANDERS

Jerry McCarthy, veteran fight manager and trainer, leaves for Fresno today to become trainer of the Oakland baseball club. This is McCarthy's first experience with a baseball club, although he has trained athletes all his life, and is known as one of the best in the business.

TROJAN YEARLINGS ARRANGE TWO MEETS

Trojan freshman track athletes will engage in two meets this week. This afternoon the yearlings will take on Manual Arts and Friday afternoon they will entertain Pasadena Junior College. Both meets will be held on Bovard Field.

Balance Lost by Pressing



HERE'S A DUB TRYING TO HIT HARD—GOBBY LEADS HANDS CUTS ACROSS BALL WITH NO FOLLOW THROUGH HART'S GOBBY JONES
JONES' CLOSHEAD GOES THROUGH SQUARE
HE HITS WITH HANDS
3-22

BY SOL METZGER

The great trouble with most of us golfers is that we try to hit the ball too hard. In an attempt to kill it we press. The result is invariably a slice if we actually connect with it at all. The sketch of the player in long trousers shows him at the finish of a pressed drive.

Body has gotten in ahead of the hands. It always does when we press. Isn't this convincing proof that you don't get results when you get the body into a shot, as we sometimes hear we should?

Pressing means a Herculean effort from the very top of the swing, a heave that gets the body lurching at the ball. Balance is lost, there is no foundation to swing from.

How much better the idea of Jones, who hits through with the hands, the body following the clubhead because it has acted as a foundation for the swing through. Swing through with the hands, merely using the body as the base to work from and balancing it naturally. As a matter of fact, hitting through with the hands actually compels the body to flow with the hands and to automatically brace itself.

Unless you understand the pivot you cannot hope to shoot good golf. Sol Metzger has a new illustrated leaflet which he will send to anyone wishing it. Address Sol Metzger, in care of The Times, and inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

OXY ELEVEN TO OPEN SEASON

ball last season, inaugurated in the Southland by Occidental in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, has resulted in the Tigers scheduling five night games. Oxy will meet Mexico, Whittier, San Diego and Caltech under the arc lights. One other night date is still open and will be filled. There is a possibility that Oxy will also meet the University of Arizona under the lights at Phoenix in a game that would inaugurate the night game there.

The annual game with Pomona, Southern California's little "big game," is the only important contest Oxy will play in the afternoon. It is scheduled for Saturday, November 22, at the Rose Bowl, and will terminate Oxy's season.

Friday night, September 26—University of Mexico at Los Angeles Coliseum.
Saturday night, October 4—Open.

Olympic Stars May Use Prep School Fields

Assurance of sufficient training facilities for the athletes who will come here from all over the world to compete in the Olympic Games in the summer of 1932 was contained in a decision of the Board of Education yesterday to permit the athletes to use the fields and athletic equipment of nine of the local high schools and of the Los Angeles Junior College. It is assumed that the school fields will have to be thrown open to the visiting athletes for about ten days preceding the beginning of the games.

The action of the board was taken in response to a request of the Tenth Olympiad Committee, which had conducted a survey of the school fields to determine which had facilities best adapted to the purposes of the Olympic athletes. In granting the request for the use of the fields selected as a result of this survey, the board made the proviso that their use, and any changes or improvements desired to adapt them better to such usage, shall be under the supervision of Clarence I. Glenn, director of the physical education and athletics division of the school system.

The nine high-school fields which will be used in addition to the junior college field are those of Belmont, Fairfax, Fremont, Hollywood, Jefferson, Los Angeles, Manual Arts, Polytechnic and Riis high schools.

Resume Relay Meet March 8

Events on the A.A.U. relay program, halted last Saturday by rain, will be run off March 8 at Long Beach High School, Kinter Hamilton, official of the organization, announced yesterday afternoon.

Only the high-school events could be completed before the downpour halted the festivities last week-end. All of the open, Southern Conference and Junior College Conference events are yet to be held, with the exception of the shot put, four-man four-mile and the high jump. Bob Van Osdel and Henry Lasallette were tied at 6ft. 2in. when rain stopped the affair, and they may jump it off.

Hamilton also announced that an open 100-yard dash might be added to the program. This was originally left out, preventing such stars as Frank Wykoff, Red Guyer, Nate George, Ray Alf and the like from clashing. Four heats in the novice 100 had been run off and the final in this event will be held.

LUTZE TO MEET MARSHALL HERE

Lou Daro Signs Wrestling Feature for Olympic

Nick Lutze and Everett Marshall will wrestle at the Olympic March 5 in a best two out of three fall finish match.

"Carnation" Lou Daro sealed the match yesterday with the signing of Lutze to a contract to meet the Glendale mat sensation in the finish feature event of the all-star card planned for the Olympic next week. The remainder of the card is expected to be completed within the next few days, and will be as strong as any supporting card scheduled this year, Promoter Daro declared.

The match between Lutze and Marshall has been brewing for the last month. Daro said he was only able to get Lutze to agree to the battle by meeting the young mat star's demands for a champion's percentage of the gate receipts.

Lutze made it clear to the promoter at their meeting yesterday that he did not care to tackle Marshall at this time. He stated he had little to gain by wrestling the airplane spin exponent.

For this reason he believed he was entitled to the bigger percentage of the "gate" for the match.

The bout is likely to pack the Olympic to the doors. The outcome will decide which of the two youngsters stand the better chance of getting a title battle here the next time Promoter Daro is able to bring Champion Sonnenberg to the Coast.

Marshall has become nationally known on the mat as the result of his victories here over such topnotchers as Joe Malcewicz, Stanley Stasiak, Dr. Karl Sarpolis and Howard Cantonwine. With the exception of Dr. Sarpolis, whom he has held to two draws, Lutze has beaten this same group during the past year.

Bruins Battle in Dual Meet on Cinderpath

Coach Harry Trotter's University of California at Los Angeles track squad will engage in its first dual meet of the 1930 season this afternoon when it takes on the Los Angeles Junior College team on its own Westwood oval. The Bruin runners and field men are heavily favored to win over the junior collegians by 40 points or more.

Coach Trotter was more than pleased by the showing made by his sprinters in the A.A.U. meet last Saturday afternoon at the Long Beach Polytechnic High School. "Chuck" Smith, running the 100-yard dash in a pouring rain on a muddy track, won first in his heat in 10.2s. and Capt. Johnny Hill captured first place in his heat in 16.3s. Beckwith, a Bruin freshman who ran unattached, finished second to Hill.

Probabilities are that Trotter's athletes will sweep several events of all three places against Coach Harry Campbell's Angels, although the occupants of U.C.L.A.'s former Vermont-avenue campus may cause some surprises. They are said to be strong in the half-mile, the Bruins' weakest event, and fairly strong in the distances.

The Bruins' strength lies in the sprints, the pole vault and the high jump. "Chuck" Smith holds the university record of 21.2s. in the 220-yard dash, which is rather fast time in these parts, and Bill McCarthy and Johnny Talbot, 1929 frosh captain, are fast men in the quarter-mile, which both of them do in under 51s. flat. Jerry Stewart is the Westwooders' best bet in the pole vault, although Freddy Kuhlman is fair, and the high jump has a number of good men, including Dick Mulhaupt, Leonard Weilendorf and "Red" Hyatt.

The Bruin freshman track squad has its first meet Friday afternoon at the Westwood campus against Inglewood High School.

Rough Riders Stage Meet

Coach Bud Nash, Roosevelt track-and-field coach, announced the results of the Rough Rider impromptu meet held on the Roosevelt oval Friday and yesterday. RUSK BRINGS IN "TINY" JEW FISH

HERMOSA BEACH, Feb. 24.—The smallest jewfish or black sea bass of the year brought in from the Olympic fishing barge, was caught yesterday by W. H. Rusk, Whittier sportsman. Rusk's catch, the third within the last ten days and the fifth one of the year, weighed 190 pounds and was brought to gaff in the fast time of twenty-five minutes.

Mackerel, perch and sandabs fishing continue to draw the attention of most of the visiting anglers, according to Capt. J. M. Andersen, skipper of the Olympic.

Defense Move Solves Play

BY SOL METZGER

Watching two basketball teams battling in Montreal a year back convinced me that Canadian players are as good as any when it comes to gaining control of the tap. The particular team we watched was being outjumped at center, so it switched to a "T" formation, the two forwards lining up behind the two centers, instead of in their orthodox positions at either side of the court nearest their own basket.

The opposing center tried to tap the ball to his left front. But the play didn't work as planned. No. 3 forward came up at top speed and slapped it with his hand right into the arms of his No. 4 guard, who was headed toward him at top speed. No. 4 was free to dribble and advanced the ball into the opponent's end of the court, where he passed it back to a trailer who scored.

while the pitchers were enjoying a batting workout.

Warneke curled upon the ground but was soon on his feet, bloody but unbowed. Other items included mound appearances by Root, Malone and Carlson, all of whom threw to alleged hitters as if they had been in training for a couple of weeks instead of three days.

Gabby was behind the plate catching Carlson when Manager McCarthy, standing in the first-base coaching box, said, "I'll find out whether he can throw."

McCarthy grabbed a glove and ran out to second base. Then he called to Gabby to throw a couple in that direction. His first throw was perfect but it wasn't caught that way. McCarthy didn't expect to have the ball come hurtling toward him like a meteor. He misjudged its speed and it whizzed him on the right wrist. The second was just as deceptive. It smashed him on the left wrist. After these two throws Gabby pegged ever harder.

When he had finished Gabby was as enthusiastic as a kid at a circus entrance. He said his arm felt as free as the California climate.

Elect Knowles Bruin Captain

Carl Knowles, gangling center on the University of California at Los Angeles basketball team this past season, will lead the Bruin cagers into battle next year as captain. It was announced yesterday. The election took place last Saturday night after the U.C.L.A. game with the University of Southern California at the Olympic Auditorium.

Knowles led the scorers in the southern division of the Pacific Coast Conference this year until the last game when he was eced out by Kent Purcell of California at Berkeley. He succeeds Larry Wilds, forward, who captained the Bruins this year.

Letters were awarded to eight members of the Westwood cage squad. The eight are Wilds, forward; Knowles, center; Dick Von Hagen, forward; Carl Shy, running guard; Frank Lubin, standing guard; Erwin Piper, forward; Hal Smith, running guard, and Davie Williams, guard. Of the first five named who were regulars this year, Wilds and Shy will not return to coach Caddy Works for next year's team.

OCCIDENTAL IN TRACK MEET

though the Tiger coach has not decided in which race to enter him yet.

Oxy's sprint ace, Cecil Howard, will have his hands full against a four-cornered field. Bob McKee, Johnny Walker and Bailey will attempt to give Oxy a clean sweep in the 880, for all three are showing plenty of speed in practice races. Rud Crawford ought to garner another first in the two-mile grind.

The general "iron-man," Wendall Smith, will have an easy time in the high sticks and shot put, and also has an even chance to win in the discus and low barriers. His team-mate and chief competitor, Harold Webb, will not be able to compete due to strained muscles that have placed him on the shelf. Carrey, who holds the Occidental College javelin record of approximately 180 feet, is expected to account for another first place.

George Hall will hang up five markers if he can duplicate his feat against the L.A.A.C. of 6ft. 1in. in the high jump. Love has made 5ft. 10in. already this season and may grab a place for the Tigers. Ernie Jensen appears to be a cinch in the pole-vault, having topped 12ft. with a team-mate, Joe Rozelle, good for a point or two.

ANCIENT RIVALS MIX

Old athletic rivals are scheduled to tangle in their annual traditional basketball game today, when the Alhambra High School quintet will meet the South Pasadena five at 4 o'clock on the latter's court.

MATCH PLAY STARTS IN SANTA MONICA EVENT

Match play started yesterday in Santa Monica's second annual mid-winter championship. First-round matches must be played by 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, according to Manager George W. Basil.

With a fine entry of 181 players, ten flights were formed, a championship flight of thirty-two, and nine flights of sixteen, including a nonqualifiers' flight.

Scoring was remarkably good in the qualifying round, a 78 being necessary to get into the championship flight. Charles (Chuck) Bedrow of the Fox Hills Country Club won low gross with a 67. Lester Coleman of California was second with 71.

Other low scorers were as follows: G. Montgomery, 71; P. Ayres, 73; Floyd Siak, 73; George Araneau, 73; G. Hine, 73; J. Scott, 75; Bill Derwin, 75; C. Cullom, 75; H. Johnson, 76; Chester Coleman, 76, and Harry Borde, 77.

The defeated sixteen of the championship flight will play through as the first flight.

"EXAMINER" WINS BOB SCOTT INTERTEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeating the Herald, 12 to 6, while The Times came into its own at last by administering a 15-to-3 trouncing to the Express, the Examiner team yesterday won the newspaper interclub team matches to cop the Bob Scott trophy. Final standings gave the Examiner 42 points, Times, 26; Herald, 24½, and Express, 15½.

Basketball

With Ira Cocklin, former Roosevelt High cage star, hitting the bucket for eighteen points, the E. F. Hutton & Co. basketballers representing the Bulls division of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange Institute, defeated the E. A. Pierce & Co. melon wafters in the first of a series of three games to the play-off for the championship of the Institute League.

The Hutton boys ran up a score of 42 to the Pierce team's 28. The first quarter saw the Hutton boys leading the Pierce basketballers by a 12-3 score. The Pierce team came back in the second quarter and staged a rally that boosted up their score to 19 digits. The Hutton quintet kept up their peppering of the basket, and ran up the score to 37 by the end of the half.

The last half of the encounter saw the Hutton boys boost up their score to its final resting point of 42 digits, while the Pierce team was held to 10 lone digits. Lanky Bob Stempling carried the brunt of the Pierce team's offensive playing and, as a result, chalked up 7 points to win highest honors for the team. More than 1000 cage fans were in attendance, and another similar crowd is expected to collect tonight when the second game is played. The game is slated to start at 8:30 p.m. sharp.

ROCCO RALLIES TO WIN FROM DANO

TORONTO, Feb. 24. (AP)—After being shaded in the first four rounds, Steve Rocco of Toronto finished strongly to gain the decision over Pablo Dano, Filipino flyweight, in the ten-round feature bout of a benefit show for the Canadian Legion tonight. The decision in favor of Rocco was unanimous. He weighed 112 pounds; Dano, 111½.

In a ten-round semifinal, Frenchy Belanger, flyweight champion of Canada, knocked out Kid Lencho of Mexico in the second round. Belanger tipped the beam at 111 pounds; Lencho at 111 1-4.

TIGER BATTERY MEN IN BRIEF WORKOUT

TAMPA (Fla.) Feb. 24. (AP)—Battery men of the Detroit Tigers took to the field today for a brief warming up which formally opened spring training for Manager Bucky Harris's young and hopeful baseball squad.

Six pitchers and four catchers threw the ball about while Harris and two coaches watched and Harris went on record that he will be a "bench manager so long as Charlie Gehringer is at second."

HARVARD ANNEXES TRIANGULAR MEET

BOSTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—Harvard's perfectly balanced track team ran wild against the Dartmouth and Cornell forces here tonight to win its sixth consecutive indoor triangular meet with a total of 63½ points. The Ithacans were able to gather only 30 points in the thirteen events and Dartmouth won only one event and tied in another, finishing third with 22½ points. It was a new low record for the Green in this annual meet.

BENNY MILLER STOPS CHAVEZ

Seconds Toss Towel in Ring in Seventh Round of Go

Benny Miller added another feather to his cap at the Eastside Arena last night by scoring a technical knockout over Zenaydo Chavez in the seventh round of the scheduled ten-round main event. Miller used a series of left hooks and uppercuts to make a chopping block of his opponent. Chavez was bleeding so badly that his seconds tossed the towel into the ring. Miller opened a cut over Chavez's eye in the fifth round, and although badly handicapped, the latter continued gamely on until his handlers cut short the bout. Chavez displayed a menacing right throughout. Miller had his foe bleeding freely from the mouth and nose during the earlier rounds.

After boxing Tony Portillo on an even basis for four rounds in the semi-wind-up Matt Codan outfought his rival through the two remaining rounds, but received only a draw decision at the hands of Referee Frank Holborrow.

Frankie Diaz took a knockdown for the count of six in the first round of the special with Joe Borola, but fought himself into the long end of the decision in the six-round special. Borola was down for a short count in the second round. It was a sensational scrap.

Sid Fiorucci formed a habit of lying down too often without the aid of Johnny Cordova's gloves, so the referee gave Cordova credit for a technical knockout in the second round of what was to have been a four-rounder.

Eddie Serrano staged a sparkling rally in the final round of the four-round curtain-raiser and earned a draw with Luie Phillips.

Some 3000 fans turned out for Promoter Newman's third show.

Clevelanders Open Practice

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24. (AP)—Perfect weather sent the Cleveland Indians scampering into the practice field here today, a day ahead of the scheduled opening for the limbering up.

All but three members of the pitching staff were on hand. Wes Ferrell and Willis Hudlin, now classed as holdouts, and Ken Holloway were the missing hurlers. Holloway will report in a few days.

Practice was light and Manager Roger Peckinpaugh left the men mostly to their own devices, but kept a wary eye for signs of overambition.

PANTHIS CLUB WINS OVER LOYOLA FIVE

The Panthis Club basketball team defeated the Loyola College five, 38 to 13, last night in a game played in the Lions' gym. At the end of the first half Loyola was practically out of the game so far as winning was concerned. The score was 20 to 5 against them.

The Panthis Club is a team made up of this year's championship Lincoln High School quintet. They are scheduled to play the preliminary game to the University of Southern California-University of Washington encounter two weeks hence. The club's opponent will be the U.S.C. freshman.

SACRAMENTO SIGNS INFIELDER WARD

STOCKTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The addition of Infielder Aaron Ward, formerly of the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox, to the Sacramento Coast League club's baseball forces was announced here today by Lewis Moreing, president of the Sacramento Senators.

He will replace Johnny Monroe, traded to the San Francisco Missions for Pete Scott, earlier in the day. Ward, who was not in organized baseball last year, came from his home in Oklahoma as a free agent to sign with Moreing after having been in communication with the Sacramento owner during the past few weeks.

STANFORD MERMEN TO TRAVEL EAST

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 24.—The Atlantic seaboard and the Midwest will be invaded this spring by Stanford swimming and water-polo teams, it was announced here today by Ernest Brandsten, Card aquatic coach. On March 26, next, the Card mermen will engage Northwestern University in a dual meet at Chicago, continuing east to Cambridge, Mass., to participate in the national collegiate championships on March 28 and 29. The Stanford swimmers will return to the Windy City in time to take part in the A.A.U. meet at the Lake Shore Athletic Club on April 2, 3, 4 and 5.

ARROWHEAD CLUB INCREASES LEAD

The Arrowhead Valley Club added to its lead in the Southern California senior amateur circuit at the Palais De Glace last night, defeating Shell Oil 3 to 1, in a closely contested ice hockey game. The Clubites now have 17 points to their credit. The Van Fleet-Durkee sextet has 9 points, and the Oilers, 6.

HALL TAKES CUE LEAD

SEATTLE (Wash.) Feb. 24. (AP)—Joseph Hall of San Francisco captured a 23-point lead in the first block tonight of his match here with Wallace Lindsley of Bellingham, Wash., for the Pacific Coast amateur three-cushion billiard championship. Hall scored 50 points to Lindsley's 27 in the first of the three-block match.

CAUSGUES KAYOES JOINER

How City Area Affects Shopping Habits

A merchandising expert stresses the fact that down-town retail business, except such portion as comes from regular customers, is secured in two ways—by advertising, and by show windows.

Compactly-built cities, where a relatively small sky-scraper business section is surrounded with solid blocks of multi - family flats and apartment-houses, furnish the highest ratio of window business, for obviously when people live close to the retail district they can visit it easily and often.

In cities of large area, where access to the business section involves considerable time and travel, the ratio of window business falls off sharply, and most customers decide before they leave home what they want and where to go—through advertising.

Viewed from this standpoint, Los Angeles, with the largest municipal area in the United States, presents an interesting study in retailing. Here, due to the height-limit building restrictions, the business section covers a relatively wide area; and on the outskirts of this great district begins a residence section made up chiefly of single-family dwellings, reaching in some directions in a continuous line for fifteen or twenty miles.

But climatic conditions have also had the effect of extending Los Angeles' shopping zone vastly beyond the corporate limits of the city. All-year freedom of motoring has consolidated the whole immense region between mountains and sea into what is virtually a single great metropolis —the most unique shopping empire in the world.

Under these circumstances it is not surprising that the Los Angeles market is an advertising sales field, famed for its responsiveness. Customers of Los Angeles stores who live on 128th street—or in Pasadena —Santa Ana—Beverly Hills—Long Beach — cannot take an evening's stroll to inspect down-town show windows, but they can and do read advertising.

No logician is needed to show that where people buy goods through advertising, they must first see the advertising.

The Los Angeles Times has become the foremost Los Angeles sales medium because its advertising columns are seen. They are seen because delivered directly to the home, and because this home-delivery embraces city, suburbs, countryside and outlying towns—the entire Los Angeles shopping zone.

Matchless home coverage—market-wide and carefully read—attracted to The Times during 1929 approximately 3,000,000 more lines of advertising than were printed by any other Pacific Coast newspaper.

LOS ANGELES TIMES

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE SON OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Meriem stood trembling before the Sheik. The years and her clothes had not altered her so much but that one who had known her features so well in childhood would know her now. To think that after all these happy years she should again be thrust into the hands of this villainous, cruel, old, desert chief! Stepping toward the shrinking girl, he grasped her fiercely by her arm. "So you have come back to your people at last," he snarled.

Meriem's silence seemed to fan the Sheik's wrath. He struck her a heavy blow upon the face. When, some hours later, she regained her numbed senses, she gave way to tears of despair. For she found herself within a filthy tent. Tattered garments, scarcely covering her, had taken the place of her riding outfit. The rifle and that precious packet with her baby photograph were also gone. Worst of all, hideous old Mabunu sat grinning in one corner.

Now the Sheik lost no time in re-establishing the old relations that had existed between them in the past. He seemed to revel in finding new methods of torturing or humiliating her and among all his followers none dared defend her. As of old, she was permitted the freedom of the village, but escape was impossible. So the wretched days passed for Meriem. But there was one in the Sheik's camp destined to aid her.

One afternoon as she sat before her tent thinking of how Korak had rescued her from this very place eight years before, she suddenly became aware she was not alone. Somebody stood close behind her who had approached noiselessly. A hand fell upon her shoulder and as she waited in dumb terror the blow she felt the Sheik was about to give her, she looked up instead into the dark eyes and handsome face of the young Arab, Abdul Kamak.
